Other towns in Kent were visited, and considerable damage was done. Much talk was heard during the week of peace proposals; but such talk is evi-dently premature. The Germans began the war, but the terms of peace must be dictated by the Allies, and that can only come to pass when the Central Powers are driven back to their own territory an event which seems yet a long way off. It is not improbable, however, that there will not be another winter campaign.

WATERWORKS

We printed last week a most inter esting letter from "Ratepayer on the subject of the installation of water works in St. Andrews. We were unable to comment on the letter then, but would now say that "Ratepayer" has presented the question in a clear and comprehensive form: and we trust that all the other rate payers of the Town have read it and studied it carefully. While we are not neutral on the subject (having most decided views concerning it), we are bound to be impartial, especially as there is no other newspaper in the Town, and it would be extremely unjust if every side of the question could not be fully and freely discussed.

And in this connexion we would say that an esteemed lady subscriber has sent us a copy of a circular she wrote in opposition to waterworks when the scheme was mooted a good many years ago, and has asked us to print it. As it arrived rather late, and is very long, we have been where white freeting slee displayed little.

PARLIAMENT AT OTTAWA

ation of Admiral Tirpitz from the chief command of the German navy is an incident that may foreshadow a change in the German naval policy for the present war. The resignation of Gen. Gallieni as French Minister of War was only in consequence of the continued ill-health of that distinguished officer. The visit to Paris of Gen. Cadrona, commander-inchief of the Italian army, was a significant event; and the war council held in that city during his visit will undoubtedly result in more concerted action on the part of the Entente Allies.

As in the three preceding weeks, the German attempt on Verdun was the outstanding feature of the Western Campaign, though heavy fighting took place at many other points on the line from Flanders to Alsace. Again the Germans have gained some ground in the Verdun struggle, but the great objective has not been attained. The struggle continues, but the French have every confidence in holding the major position.
