HEALTH EDUCATION

BY DR. J. J. MIDDLETON

Provincial Board of Health, Ontario

Dr. Middleton will be glad to answer questions on Public Health matters through this column. Address him at Spadina House, Spadina Crescent, Toronto.

A direct plain message to the public often carries weight when more elaborate methods of publicity fail. Simple statements tersely told, strike the imagination.

"Hygiene can prevent more crimes than any law," is one of these. Why is this message effective. Because it stimulates thought, and when once the public begin to think seriously about any subject, that subject becomes a topic of interest, the newspapers get hold of it and many avenues of publicity result in consequence.

Many a man or woman on reading the remark, "Hygiene will prevent more crimes than any law," will be tempted to ask what the word hygiene means. A good opening for education results, for "hygiene" is very comprehensive and includes both personal and community well-being and everything that promotes this well-being.

In some way and by some manner we have got to get health messages across to the average, ordinary man or woman. The reason for this is plain. There are so many people of this kind. There are a few highbrows and a few house-breakers and automobile thieves, once in a while a desperado who will not even stop at murder, but the great majority of people we come in contact with from day to day are just plain ordinary people with an average amount of common sense. Many of these good people "come from Missouri," that is, they have got to be shown. Some circumstances or experiences in their lives have perhaps given them the impression that little of good can be done by hygiene or all that it represents. If you can prove to them that they are wrong—not by preaching long-winded sermons, but by a few facts, they will soon become your friends and supporters in the good health crusade.

I was talking to a Toronto alderman a few days ago and he thought people were just as healthy before any of these up-to-date methods of public health propaganda were introduced. It seems strange that an alderman of the Toronto Health Department so obvious to everyone. Why, the infant mortality rate alone has been cut in half in Toronto during the past ten years. Typhoid fever has been practically abolished, communicable diseases have been very much reduced in numbers, and the milk supply is practically all pasteurized. The general surroundings have from a health standpoint been very much improved and yet one of the aldermen does not think that much has been done. He does not know what is going on in health work. Education along health lines is what he needs, and as soon as he becomes acquainted with the work and aims of the health department he will be a far more useful servant of the people.

How can hygiene prevent more crimes than any law? Because it raises the standard of citizenship. It removes as far as possible those influences and circumstances that lead to a low state of moral conscience; it makes people more nearly normal and hence not so likely to commit crimes against society.

Nearly every criminal examined has had little or no training from a hygienic standpoint. Their upbringing has been at fault. They have not had the advantages of discipline in the home; they have grown up like weeds and developed bad habits and a bad outlook on life.

Hygiene tends to remove all influences that will prevent a man or woman from leading a normal, healthy life. It is one of the finest words in the alphabet.

will be caught and concentrated. The millions of units of energy from the sun which we now waste, while we continue to drain the earth of its oil and coal, will be put to use.

In Good Company.

We have heard often enough that it is not good for man to live alone. This is true without doubt. It is not good for man to live alone. But a little solitude sometimes is a sweet and valuable thing and there is a difference between solitude and loneliness. The world may speak of a hermit as a lonely man, but he is probably less lonely than many who can boast a lot of friends.

Those who would truly know themselves—and it is a good thing to know yourself—must sometimes be alone; they must sometimes turn the searchlights of their minds on to their inmost thoughts, aims, and aspirations.

There are people who do not like to be alone, who are, in short, bored with, or even afraid of, their own company, and this is not good. There are people who would rather sit and listen to gossip than be alone with their own thoughts, and who would prefer to go out with people they dislike rather than walk by themselves.

I was once ordered a holiday after a serious illness, and I cannot help recalling the advice of my doctor.

"Don't go away by yourself," he said, "unless you are fond of your own company."

I told him I didn't mind it a bit, provided I was not required to sleep in a house alone!

"You're an exception," he laughed. "But a holiday in your own company will do you more good than one with someone with whom you are not in entire sympathy."

On the whole, I think women are more frightened of their own company than men. This is probably why women are so ready to make acquaintances. You will not find a man "cultivating" another man because he doesn't like being on his own, but you will find many women doing it.

"What a funny little girl you are," an aunt of mine once said to a little niece who seemed to show a decided preference for her own company. And that is the trend of opinion invariably. You are deemed morbid if you like to be alone. Yet how much more morbid you are if you do not like to be alone sometimes; if you are really bored with yourself; frightened of your own company.

If you are constantly with people and do not like to be alone on occasions, then it is interesting and profitable to inquire into the reason. What do you think about when you are alone? Yourself? Other people? Abstract things?

Cultivate your own company if you have not already done so; for those who truly love solitude however friendless and unloved they may be, will never know the ache of loneliness.

WEAK DIGESTION DUE TO POOR BLOOD

Perfect Digestion Will Come if the Blood is Made Rich and Red.

There is no tonic for the stomach that is not a tonic for every other part of the body. But the stomach depends, as does every other organ, on the blood for its energy.

There can be no perfect digestion unless you have rich, red blood. This is scientifically true. The way, then, to tone up the stomach is to enrich the blood.

Most stomach remedies try to digest your food for you. How much better it is to tone up the stomach so that it will do its own work, as nature intended. There is no pleasure in eating predigested food. Tone up your stomach, then your appetite and digestion will soon be normal.

If your digestion is weak and your blood thin, you need Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to restore the strength to your blood; in addition use care in the selection of your diet and your stomach trouble will soon pass away. Mrs. Charles La Rose, Fruitland, Ont., suffered severely, and tells what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for her. She says:—"I was a terrible sufferer from stomach trouble. The doctor called it nervous indigestion. Everything I ate distressed me, and I became so weak and rundown I could hardly walk. I had a pain around my heart most of the time, and I slept very poorly. I was afraid I would not get well, as the doctor's medicine was not helping me. In this serious condition Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended and I decided to try them, and I can truthfully say that they made me feel like a new person. I will always give this medicine a word of praise when I get a chance for I think there is nothing to be compared with it for dyspepsia, or any one weak, nervous or rundown."

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Business Built by Love.
The business was started during the Great War, when a little Italian girl, Baby Scavini, begged her mother to buy her a doll such as the other little girls she played with. Her father, an artist, was away soldering, and the mother had no money to buy a doll. She would have made any sacrifice to gratify the child's desire, but buying a doll of the conventional toy-shop type was out of the question. So, Love put on its thinking cap and solved the problem.

The young mother was an art student, and had ideas. She picked up bits of felt, and out of them made a new sort of doll. Then she painted its face and dressed it gaily in fancy clothes. Her little daughter was delighted, and when she went out in the park to play; her playmates who had expensive, fashionably dressed dolls, admired hers so much that they begged their mothers to buy them one just like it.

The result was that orders for dolls poured in so fast on Mrs. Scavini, she very soon had more than she could fill. At the close of the war when her painter husband returned to their home in Turin he, with other artists, began to help her, painting the dolls; and designing new figures.

The business grew and grew until, as the New York Times told the story, "the dolls began to appear in the windows of Italy's leading stores and in Paris on the Rue de la Paix. Then they spread to South America and to New York's Fifth Avenue, where they stare out of the window with the same nonchalance as in Italy and France, where the Lenci dolls, as they are called, are often seen reclining on a sofa or in a corner of a lady's motor car beside her high-bred dog."

To-day there are more than 100 different figures, the faces all painted by well-known artists and all varying in expression, but all the dolls are unbreakable entirely made of felt, with fluffy hair and unusual clothes. The Lenci doll is now seriously considered Italy's important contribution to the art of toymaking.

Love never fails. It always finds a way to help us over rough roads. No problem is beyond its reach.

If you cannot inspire a woman with love of yourself fill her above the brim with love of herself, all that runs over will be yours.—Colton.
