A Chinese Duel.

A Chinaman was killed recently in Bangkok in a duel with another of his race. The Chinese method of dueling is interesting, but does not seem deadly. These two Bangkok Chinamen fought with the two forefingers of each hand, stabbing each other with them in the region of the spleen and at the same level on the other side of the body. The men who go in for this kind of contest practice every morning, stabbing bags of rice or paddy with their fingers till they can use them like a piece of iron.

REGAINED NERVE AND VITAL ENERGY.

From Walton, F. O. Que, comes the following from Mr. Nazaire Beaudin: "If anyone had told me any remedy could build up my nervous system so well, I would not have believed them. Ferrozone has filled me with energy and vim increased my weight and made a new man of me."

Hundreds tell the same story—Weak and dispirited, everything going wrong, unable to catch up. They took Ferrozone and all was changed to health and serenity. Price per box 50c. at all dealers.

CONVICT LABOR.

Novel Plan For Its Utilization—Laborer as a Penal Colony—Fill Up the Straits.

The question of what to do with convict labor is now engaging public attention, says a writer in The Montreal Standard. Labor organizations are protesting against the labor of the various penitentiaries being employed at trades which come into contact with free and honest labor. The products of prison work are being sold in the public markets in competition with those of free labor, and to its great detriment.

From a psychological and physical standpoint convicts must be given some form of work while serving their sentences, and it is perhaps immaterial what this work may be, its products will find the way into the markets of the world. Not only are protests coming from labor organizations, but the manufacturers are equally pronounced in their opinion that prison labor should be taken out of the range of competition with free labor.

Convicts must be kept at work, otherwise penitentiaries will become mere asylums for idle and the tramp, and a haven of rest to the criminal. On the other hand, industrial interests demand a modification of the present system of prison employment. They go further and say that the manufactured articles coming from the penitentiaries should be so designated. What, then, is to be our disposition of prison labor?

The municipal authorities throughout the country have of recent years provided prisoners with work on the public highways, and the moral effect has been surprisingly good. It would be impossible, perhaps, to make such provisions for the convicts of our penitentiaries, although there is no reason why a convict should not be kept in or transferred to the local jail and made to serve his time there as an employee of the municipality. Breaking stones or making roads seems to be the best thing that can be provided these evil-doers.

A Great Task Awaiting Labor.

For several years past the practicality of closing the Strait of Belle Isle has been much discussed by transatlantic shipping interests. The most skillful engineers in the country are of opinion that the project is a dangerous one. The Belle Isle route is feasible for navigation, and in the spring of the year, makes a passage-way for immense fields of ice that drift down with the tide from the northern seas, as a result of which the Gulf is blocked for weeks and huge icebergs find their way into the path of ocean liners south of St. John's.

The Strait is not very deep, but the current rushes through it with fearful velocity. On either side are high mountains of bare and jagged rock, and in these we have an abundance of material with which to bridge this passage of water, which is only about nine miles wide at the narrowest part.

By contract labor, the work would, as already stated, cost an enormous amount of money, but a convict labor force would be comparatively small. The suggestion, then, is to make Labrador a penal colony for Canada, and utilize prison labor in filling the Strait of Belle Isle. The colony might be divided into two camps, one on the Quebec side and the other on the Newfoundland side. The filling could thus be going on from both sides.

Moral Effect Would Be Good.

With an endless haze system, if necessary, running into the convicts sent there from time to time to do penance for their crimes, this gigantic piece of work would be accomplished in the course of not very many years, and at perhaps less cost than would take to maintain the same force in the various penitentiaries. Honest labor would be given an untrammelled control of our markets.

There can be little doubt that the world would have a salutary effect upon the morals of the criminally minded throughout Canada. Four years, or whatever the period might be, of hard labor in Labrador would carry great conviction to a similar sentence to Dorchester, St. Vincent de Paul or Kingston.

The undertaking of this piece of work with convict labor would mean the centralization of that form of labor for the entire country, and would maintain a large force of guards and officials at the different penitentiaries. Crime would unquestionably be lessened, the perils of the Cabot Straits diminished and the navigation of the Gulf of St. Lawrence greatly extended in point of time.

The Fish and the Ring.

Fishing is perennial in its interest and in producing curious yarns, the following being from The Mitchell Recorder: "While fishing in the river opposite Red Bluff, Willie Brown caught a pike weighing over four pounds. The young fisherman being anxious to make a meal of his catch proceeded to dress it. While removing the entrails he noticed something hard in the fish's stomach, and on opening it found a fine gold wedding ring. It is a plain band and on the inside surface are plainly engraved, 'A. C. O. M. B.' The supposition is that the ring was lost by some person while bathing in the river. A ring similar to the one in the fish was lost in the river down the stream a little over a year ago."

Called Them Love Apples.

It is not generally known, says The Colborne Express, but nevertheless a fact, that there are people still living who can remember the time when tomatoes were raised merely for their beauty, as we now raise roses. While its beauty was admired it was considered the poisonous oak, dangerous to even handle except by "dark complexioned" persons. Years of acquaintance, however, wore off its superstition and a few "fool-hardy" actually owned up to having tasted the fruit. From this small beginning has gradually grown a use that makes today an industry with a combined capital of over thirty millions of dollars, which disburse millions of dollars to its employees each year and generates an output of two hundred and forty million cases.

Diamond Mine Prisons.

Each of the great South African diamond mines has its several compounds, where the Kafirs are imprisoned. These are inclosures with walls sufficiently high to prevent escape, and around the walls is a stretch of roofing sufficient to prevent the inmates from tossing diamonds to the outside to be picked up by confederates. In the early days the Kafirs used to throw diamonds over the walls in tin cans, so that their wives or friends might come and pick them up. When the Kafirs agreed to submit to imprisonment. The shortest period is three months, but there are many who have never been out of the compounds for two or three years.—World's Work.

Better Than Spanking

Spanking does not cure children of bad-wetting. There is a consulting board cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W. A. N. E. Don't blame the child; the treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

Superstitions of Fishermen.

English herring fishermen, many of them, remarkably superstitious. For instance, on some fishing boats whistling is forbidden, and neither milk nor burned bread is allowed on board. Furthermore, not even the name of that unlucky animal, the hare, may be mentioned, and a common method of punishing an enemy is to throw a dead hare into his boat. Some of the fishermen believe in luck attending an odd numbered crew, but the good fortune may be neutralized should one of the number have red hair.—London Standard.

Putting food into a diseased stomach is like putting money into a pocket with holes. The money is lost. All its value goes for nothing. When the stomach is diseased, with the allied organs of digestion and nutrition, the food which is put into it is largely lost. The nutriment is not extracted from the food. The body is weak and the blood impoverished.

The pocket can be mended. The stomach can be cured. That sterling medicine for the stomach and blood, Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, acts with peculiar promptness and power on the organs of digestion and nutrition. It is a positive cure for almost all disorders of these organs, and cures also such diseases of the heart, blood, liver and other organs, as have their cause in a weak or diseased condition of the stomach.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

Colored Shoes Not For Women With Large Feet—Irish Lace Slippers.

Girls whose feet are not of the smallest proportions will do well to leave colored shoes severely alone. Brown and black shoes are by far the safest mode for a girl who takes any size bigger than a small four. There is something very fascinating about a tiny red shoe peeping out beneath a white muslin frilly frock, while blue footwear allied to a blue gown is almost equally as dainty. But the whole effect becomes absurd if the foot is not built on the smallest lines.

The craze at present for evening shoes of Irish lace mounted over pale colored satin is one of the chief features of the season, the heels being carried out in colors to correspond with the linings, while solitary paste buttons take the place of bows. Brocade slippers for boudoir wear carried out in the richest brocade in old French patterns represent another fancy.

To darken brown boots they must be brushed with a weak solution of ammonia or soda in warm water. After drying apply with a brush a warm solution of bismark brown, repeating till desired shade is obtained. Linseed oil will also darken. Finish with clean tallow or mutton fat, stiffly brushing.

Tan boots may be renovated by mixing a little ammonia water with half a pint of milk and bottling it. Shake well, apply with a sponge and allow to dry and then polish with a soft duster.

The lingerie blouse illustrated is tucked in tiny groups to form a pointed yoke. Below this point is an elaborately worked rose design.

dresses. Medallion insertions of hand painted mousseline de soie or chiffon are likewise introduced on lace dresses. A delightful dancing frock for a young girl is of painted muslin. The design is in pale yellow roses and foliage and hemmed with soft ivory ducal satin. Above the hem are inch wide killings both of muslin and satin.

New linens for suits and dresses and a dozen purposes—some come bleached instead of the half bleached kinds formerly used.

So popular is the princess model that even the bathing suits are being made up after that style, and so faithfully has it been copied that with the exception of the abbreviated skirt there is comparatively little difference noted.

The new watches are gayly enameled to match the gowns. Colors that do not harmonize with sartorial outfit are not smart. The works are less important, the time keeping qualities not generally considered if tones blend.

"Colibri," or hummingbird, is the newest shade of pink. It has a soft, dull tone with a suggestion of brick red in its makeup. In soft silk it is very effective trimmed with venetian lace or point d'alencien. It is much used for summer evening cloaks.

The pinafore frock illustrated is developed in the fashionable blue and white pinking silk. Little quiltings of plain blue silk are effective as trimmings.

MADE FUN OF PHARAOH.

The Ancients Evidently Had a Keen Sense of Humor.

The fables of Aesop prove that the ancients were not without a liking for fun, and the remains of ancient art tell the same story. Examples of artistic humor are more common than is supposed by most persons.

A drawing on a tile in the Metropolitan museum, in New York, represents a cat dressed as an Egyptian lady of fashion. She is seated languidly in a chair, sipping wine out of a small bowl and being fanned and offered dainties by an abject looking tomtom, his tail between his legs.

The cat figures largely in the ancient comic groups of animal life. In a papyrus in the British museum a flock of geese are being driven by a cat and a herd of goats by two wolves with crooks and vallets. One of the wolves is playing a double pipe.

There is in the museum of Turin a series of such comical scenes. In the first place a lion, a crocodile and an ape are giving a vocal and instrumental concert. Next comes an ass, dressed, armed and seepetered like a pharaoh. With majestic swagger he receives the gifts presented to him by a cat of high degree, to which a bull acts as proud conductor.

Another picture shows pharaoh in the shape of a rat, drawn in a carriage by prancing greyhounds. He is proceeding to storm a fort garrisoned by cats having no arms but teeth and claws, whereas the rats have battle axes and bows and arrows.

SLEEP AND DIET.

Without Slumber Digestion and Assimilation Are Imperfect.

One of the most important functions of that mysterious physical condition we term sleep is so little understood that persons who cheat themselves habitually out of two or three hours of their natural rest every night are heard wondering with dyspepsia and maintaining. Care, even rigor, in the matter of diet seems to avail nothing, the stomach continuing in a condition of chronic revolt.

In reality the processes of digestion and assimilation are so closely interwoven with slumber that unless the required amount of sleep is taken it is impossible for the body to be nourished, if, indeed, the food undergoes the ordinary digestive changes.

It is only when the brain and the entire nervous system are practically off duty that the processes of ultimate nutrition take place. The food eaten is finally assimilated and transformed into new tissues, into blood, muscle, nerves and brain, only while the body is relaxed in slumber.

A curious illustration of this necessity of sleep is that furnished by the six day endurance races. One man engaged in these deadly tests eats five times as much as a man on ordinary labor could cram down. Want of sleep has rendered it impossible for even the enormous amount of food taken at this time into the body to form new tissue.
