

Death of Sylvester Low.

From his early manhood he had been a pioneer—first building up a home in the state of Utah and then another in the Province of Alberta. I know his salvation is sure and that he thoroughly merits the plaudit, "Well done thou good and faithful servant, thou hast been faithful in a few things, I will make thee ruler over many. Enter thou the joy of thy Lord." He has a posterity that can afford to arise and call him blessed. His record cannot be better, I do not believe there is any stake whose records are as good as the records of the Alberta Stake of Zion. I sincerely mourn the loss of brother Low and his companionship. All is well with him. It is for those who are left to emulate his example that they may be permitted to go where he has gone and share the salvation which awaits him. I desire to do all I can to lend a helping hand to those who are bereft.

Elder Sterling Williams read the first verse of the first hymn and commented on the same. He said that death was a change in which all must undergo. We need have no fear if we have fought life's battle as our departed brother has. I have known brother Low ever since he came to Alberta and I have closely followed his experiences, since he has been in this country. The little mill at the foot of the hill calls him very forcibly to my mind and the work which he has done here. He was associated with President Card in the Grist Mill and Saw Mill. I believe there are few who have a better record than brother Sylvester Low. His children may well look to him as an example of faithfulness. He will stand at the head of his household in the world to come as all those who have been faithful in Priesthood will do. All his family so far as I know are faithful and diligent in the Gospel and this is a great blessing to his name and memory. So far as I am able to judge in the strictest and truest sense of the word, his life was a great success.

President E. J. Wood said that there were many things in the character of Sylvester Low that he ardently admired. He said that he had learned to know him and was in a position to sympathize very profoundly with the family. His life had been well rounded out. He had in his make-up the greatest desire to serve of any man I ever knew. He was always on hand to serve and never sought the honor and glory of men. The chief characteristic was his willingness to serve and his integrity. He was never found idle—never had any time to loaf on the streets—never had a minute to waste. He was sincerely and deeply interested in the spiritual and temporal welfare of his children and this was the one thing that he spoke about on Saturday last. President Wood read an extract on the Object of Life.

In bringing the meeting to a close Bishop Harris read a few verses from the Doctrine and Covenants where it is stated that "we should live together in love so that we mourn for those who die." He testified that brother Sylvester Low was a kind and obliging man and a perfect gentleman in every respect. He also stated that he greatly desired to be a friend to the family.

The choir sang, "Farewell all earthly honors." Benediction was offered by elder Johannes Anderson. The Choir accompanied the remains to the cemetery where they sang, "Rest on the hillside, rest," as the deceased had requested.
