

SHE ONLY WEIGHED NINETY-FIVE LBS.

Is Enjoying Better Health Than She Has In Past Ten Years.

"I am not only enjoying better health than I have in ten years, but I weigh more than I ever did in my life," said Mrs. Little Bowser who resides on Pine St., Dartmouth, N. S., the other day.

"When I began taking Tanlac I only weighed ninety-five pounds, but now I weigh one hundred and ten, making a gain of fifteen pounds. I remember well it was in 1900 that my health broke down, and what I have gone through since then only my neighbors and close friends can tell. My nerves were in a fearful condition and I became excited and irritated at little noises that I had always been accustomed to. I didn't relish what I ate and it was a rare thing for me to ever eat breakfast at all, and my digestion was so bad that I was in misery day and night. I was a confirmed dyspeptic and I suffered with an empty feeling in my stomach that made me so weak I thought I would faint. It was almost impossible for me to rest well and in the mornings I was so tired I simply dreaded to get up. I lost weight until I was as weak as a rag and it was an effort for me to get around the house.

"So many people here had been taking Tanlac and were so highly pleased with it that I began taking it myself. I am overjoyed at my recovery and it seems like a dream that after all these years I am now perfectly well in every respect. I can hardly get enough to eat now, because I am hungry all the time and everything tastes good and agrees with me perfectly, for I never have a sign of indigestion any more. That empty feeling in my stomach has gone, and my strength has all returned until now I can do my housework with the greatest ease. I am not nervous in the least, sleep fine at night and am just simply feeling better in every way that I have in many years. I am recommending Tanlac to all my friends for I am convinced it is a medicine that will disappoint no one who takes it."

Tanlac is sold in Hartland by Estey & Curtis Co., and E. L. Field, Bloomfield, and by the leading druggist in every town.

Fire at Upper Brighton

On Friday evening fire destroyed two old barns on Cloverbrook Farm the property of Dr. MacIntosh. The buildings contained a little straw and the origin of the fire is a mystery. The northern sky was lighted nearly to the zenith and viewed from Hartland it looked as though half the universe was afire.

HAS NO PAIN NOW

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did
for Mrs. Peasey of London.

London, Ont.—"I suffered with periodic pains, was weak and run down, could not eat and had headaches. The worst symptoms were dragging down pains so bad I sometimes thought I would go crazy and I seemed to be smothering. I was in this condition for two or three years and could not seem to work. I tried all kinds of remedies and had been treated by physicians, but received no benefit. I found one of your booklets and felt inclined to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I received the best results from it, and now I keep house and go out to work and am like a new woman. I have recommended your Vegetable Compound to my friends, and if these facts will help some poor woman use them as you please."—Mrs. J. F. PEASEY, 200 Rectory Street, London Ont.

The reason women write such letters to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. and tell their friends how they are helped is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives. Freed from their illness they want to pass the good news along to other suffering women that they also may be relieved.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

"E-100"

By VICTOR REDCLIFFE

By the time Irma Dale, the pretty new school teacher at Brentwood, had been at her post for a month, nearly every eligible young man in the village was deeply smitten. Particularly there were three who openly expressed their admiration. These were Nat Lalton, Guy Purvin and Thad Wilson, close friends, clean, reputable young fellows, and one day after a mutual exchange of confidences they made a decision, whimsical in a measure, yet actuated by honest esteem for the lovely and beloved Miss Dale.

"It's settled, then, that we each write to Miss Dale," spoke Guy Purvin.

"All at the same time and each clearly and squarely telling how much he thinks of her and asking her to marry," submitted Thad Wilson.

"And no hard feelings toward the one who is lucky enough to be the chosen one," added Nat Lalton, who rather plumed himself on being the handsome one of the group. His sister Breda was a close friend of Irma, and he counted on this special pleader to further his claim, if it came about right.

Now Breda was a chatterbox, and the fact of the three proposals got about among the young people of Brentwood speedily. The three devotees anxiously awaited their fate. In turn they managed to meet Miss Dale on the street within the following few days. Outside of greeting them with her accustomed friendly smile, in no way did she indicate the receipt of the proposals, nor afford them opportunity to broach the subject. It was Breda Lalton who reported to her brother and his rivals as they were playing tennis on the Lalton lawn.

"You three," spoke the imperious little tyro, "and grouping them in a rustic nest she proceeded to deliver in turn three papers.

"The mischief!" ejaculated Nat, opening the paper apportioned to him. "My proposal to Irma!"

"Mine, too—returned!" observed Guy, with a wry face.

"Same here!" complained Thad. "And look—they are all marked with a big blue-penciled initial. Mine is 'M.'"

"And mine 'F,'" reported Guy.

"G' is on mine," apprized Nat. "I say, what does it mean?"

"That is what I am to explain to you," chattered Breda, with a mischievous smile. "Simply, Irma has acknowledged your presumptuousness by treating your love confessions just as she would the school compositions of her pupils. You must understand that she has four gradings and averages: 'M' means moderate—70; 'F' means fair—80; 'G' means good—90. There is a fourth grading, 'E,' which means excellent—100. None of you seems to have attained that standard, however.

"Gum," sourly commented Thad, who was the lowest. "Fellows, I guess none of us graduates into the affections of Miss Irma Dale this term!"

Dainty Irma Dale met the trio after that gradually, kindly, but did not further allude to the compositions. The story got about the village, and the victims were chaffed mercilessly. Bruce Alston heard of it. They had never dreamed that this quiet, unobtrusive young man was a possible rival. With Irma, of all those paying attention to her he had been a favorite from the start. Only occasionally they had met, but after he had seen Irma home from parties twice and had gone with her on a botanical expedition with her class in the woods one spring day, Bruce Alston resolved to tempt fate by becoming number four. He was not daunted by the experience of the pioneers in the attack upon the affections of the pretty school teacher. In a modest, respectful note Bruce delineated his interest in Irma. He hoped she would not deem him presumptuous, he wished to give her time to think over the proposal. He would call at the little red schoolhouse on a certain afternoon when he knew the scholars would disband an hour earlier than usual. The last group of the pupils was disappearing in the distance as he neared the humble structure. Glancing through an open window his fond glance rested upon Irma at her desk. Her pose was one of deep meditation and his heart gave a great leap as he noted that she held in her hand the letter he had sent her the day previous.

Irma greeted her visitor with a blush and Bruce thought this encouraging. She invited him to a chair on the platform, there being no other seat except among the benches. Then she nervously arranged some books before her. At that moment the glance of Bruce fell upon his letter. It lay open at her side, and across its face was a conspicuous blue-penciled marking, "E."

Bruce experienced a decided thrill. His eyes glowed, his tone faltered as he said:

"Does that mean 'excellent,' Miss Dale?"

She tried to smile casually, but he noted a tremulous quiver about her lips, a sensitive lip. She nodded in an embarrassed way.

"And '100,'" he added, and drew closer. "Irma, do I stand that high, not only in my clumsy literary effort but in your coveted affections?"

Her head sunk and she yielded her hand to his own, and Bruce Alston realized that the lasting happiness of his life had dawned.

Why Canadians Should Insure in a Canadian Company

BECAUSE—Experience covering a period of forty-six years has proven that the death rate of insured lives is about 15 per cent greater in the United States than in Canada.

BECAUSE—A Canadian does not need to assist in paying for this extra heavy death rate in a foreign country.

BECAUSE—A Canadian insuring in a foreign Company is sending his money out of Canada. If retained in Canada, he and Canadians generally will benefit by its circulation and investment.

BECAUSE—In The Policy-Holders' Mutual Life (of Canada) he can secure his insurance at lower rates and on easier terms than in any other Company.

BECAUSE—The Policy-Holders' Mutual Life (of Canada) was organized for the express purpose of eliminating all objectionable features in Life Insurance.

BECAUSE—In The Policy-Holders' Mutual Life (of Canada) the Policyholder votes and participates in the management on equal terms with the Stockholders.

BECAUSE—By its Act of Incorporation provision is made for the Policyholder voting at his own home if convenient to attend the general meetings.

BECAUSE—By its Act of Incorporation the dividend to the Stockholders is limited and all profits above this limited dividend belong to the Policyholder.

BECAUSE—By its Act of Incorporation no taxation, so-called "Gold Bond" policies or anything of a like nature can be issued.

BECAUSE—Its Policy-Holders participate in the annual distribution of profits after the third of the life of each policy.

BECAUSE—The low rates and annual distribution of profits leave the money in the Policyholder's pockets or return it to him each year instead of its being retained for speculative purposes as has been charged against some Companies.

BECAUSE—Premiums may be paid monthly, quarterly, semi-annually or annually as best suits the convenience of the insured.

BECAUSE—In the Policy-Holders' Mutual Life (of Canada) he will be insured in a Canadian Company incorporated by special Act, especially safeguarding life interests, thoroughly democratic in its principles and management, with every safeguard and security to which the strongest Stock Company can lay claim or which government deposit reserve and inspection can secure.
