The exquisite product of Love.

The exquisite product of Love.

Bright glimpses of Henren, revealing
The joys of specia above.

Though friendship chines first in a ring.
A smile is the emblom of this,

My heart owns a bolier thing
Which ever lies bid in a loss.

Whehever my spirit is weary,
And longing for rest from its strife,
When all of the future is dreary,
And dark is the gathway of life;

If friendship will smile, it can cheer, As feebly I struggle along, But a kiss from the lips that are dear Will reader me ten times as atron

Life's daties it changes to pleasure. Its trials can bravely be met. For my heart in itself has a treasure, Since Love 'mid its jewels was set. My pathway is detted with flowers, Which seem at each step to enclose, For love lends his wings to the hours And tints them with confeur de roce.

Though friendship's an exquisite feeling, A breath from an angel above, Which over the spirit comes stealing And scakes the first notes of its love;

That love is a stronger emotion,
That stire all the depths of the soul,
As the waters of mighty old ocean
Are moved by the moonlight's control.

And if ever to mortals is given A feeling approaching the bliss Which spirits experience in Heave "Tis felt in the thrill of a kiss,

A smile may be given to many,
"Tis only of friendship a part,
But give not a files unto any.
Who has not the leve of your heart.

The Currency asys—"We readily admit that the Austrican coinage is liable to objections, but though it is possible that a decimal currency, eays—"We readily admit that the Austrican coinage is liable to objections, but though it is possible that a decimal currency may be defective in some respects, we are at a loss to conceive how any one, who is completent to offer an opinion upon the subject, can deny that a coinage may be so constructed upon the decimal principle, as to be, beyond all comparison, superior to any other: It is objected against dollars and sents that they are unsuited to the business of small traders; but is this a consequence of the decimal arrangement? Will any one pictual to say that if the shillings were divided into ten equal parts, instead of twelve, it would not be as convenient a coin as at present? It is frue the number twelve is divisible by 9,3,4, and 6, but we could not have aliver coins for each of these parts, without being subject to annoyance infinitely greater than that of being obliged, occasionally, to use aliver and copper together in the payment of amil sume. If the painty were made equal to the tenth of a shilling, and if there were two aliver coins of the value of five pence,—and the following sums could be paid in silver alone, 3 pence, 4 pence, 3 pence, 6 pence, 7 pence, 8 pence, 9 pence, 10 pence, (a shilling), 11 pence, 12 pence, 13 pence, 21 pence, 22 pence, 10 pence, (a shilling), 11 pence, 12 pence, 13 pence, 23 pence, 10 pence, and any two smaller aliver coins fand we could not have more than two without the most intolerable confusion), to pay a greater number of small cum than with a with any approach and any two smaller aliver coins fand we could not have more than two without the most intolerable confusion), to pay a greater number of small conductions of the value of five pence and two (five-tenths and two-tenths.) Who ever heard of the proposition that people were to go into shops and ask for one-tenths, or two-tenths, or three-tenths, &c., of anything they wanted to buy? In establishing a decimal system of measures, nothing of the kind was ever contemplated or expected. People would continue to ask for a half or quarter of a pound, onnes, yard, &c., just as at present. In short there would be difference in the manner of carrying on retail business, while in "written commercial transactions," as well as in wholesale trade and foreign commerce, it is admitted on all hands "that decimal, measures form the very perfection of convenience." We, the undersigned, are well acquainted with the above case, and certify to the above statement of facts, CHARLES CLIPPON

Doctor Toby, a regular practising Physician, of East Machiae writes us under date of March 20, 1847:

"Please send me half a gallon of your Cramp and Pain Killer—it is the best medicine to cure what it is represented to, that I even used."

used."

The Doctor first made use of it in his own case, for a severe sprain in the shoulder, caused by the upsetting of a stage, and found immediate relief, and has since used it in his practice.

Read the following. It apicaks for itself.

R HE UMATISM CURED.

I certify, that I was efflicted with a violent fibrumatic pain in the small of my back, which entirely disabled me, so that I could not get up without the greatest pain and effort; nor could I walk without a cane, and but very little with. I applied Doctor Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, or Liquid Opodeidoc, and several other remedies, without any relief. After suffering in this way about a week, I parchased a bottle of Cramp and Pain Killer, repeared by Cumris & PERKINS, Bangor, and after three applications was entirely relieved and free from pain, and am now entirely well. I also cured a friend of mine, who had been suffering for a long time with a lame side, with the same bottle. I believe it the best medicine in the world, and am happy to add my testimony in its favour.
