

Florizel's Rough Trip.

The s.s. Florizel, Capt. Smith, arrived here from New York via Halifax at 8 a.m. to-day after a very rough run from the latter port. The ship left New York and made the run to Halifax in 49 hours, with extra fine weather prevailing. She left that port Sunday evening at 7 o'clock and had fine weather for the first few hours, only to be succeeded by heavy seas from the N. and N. W. with thick snow squalls and a mountainous sea, which lasted until this port was reached. Yesterday terrible weather prevailed and time and again heavy waves swept over the ship. At 5 a.m. one tremendous sea swept on board over the port rail, beat in the saloon doors on that side and sent tons of water down into the saloon, flooding it completely and doing considerable damage. The water entered several of the state-rooms and overturned tables, etc., drenched everything about and while the ship was pitching in the sea everything was turned topsy turvy, tables were broken and a good deal of damage was wrought. The seas also beat in several of the saloon port lights and a great quantity of water was let in through these apertures. Another sea took away the after flagpole and did some damage about the decks. The ship steamed through a lot of heavy slob ice to the eastward of St. Pierre Bank and lost two patent logs while coming through this. She brought a full cargo, some mail matter and these passengers:—Mrs. F. Long, E. L. Elizer, Jno. F. Evans, J. M. Marshall, R. Marshall, Jno. Anthony, W. Norman, Leo Fitzgerald, L. Mold, A. P. Colman, Mrs. P. Winslow, J. B. Crutcher and child, W. H. Thackeray, G. G. McMillan, H. F. Fennell, G. C. Hafferson, F. E. Hall, W. H. Patterson, A. W. Meade, W. B. Williams and 5 second class.

How the Accident Occurred.

Sergt. Jno. Byrne of the Detective Department of the police force, narrowly escaped sharing the sad fate of Rev. E. Curran in the terrible explosion of Saturday evening at Pouch Cove. While Fr. Curran was in the generator house charging the cylinder with the gas, Sergt. Byrne remained with him from 5 to 6 p.m. and then left for Grouchy's hotel. But that the Sergeant had some business to perform he might have remained with the priest, who left the place for a short time until he returned with Nellie Wall, who brought a lantern. Sergt. Byrne says that when the Priest reached the generator house he stood in the porch, which leads to the house and on opening the door the fumes of escaping gas met him. The girl, Wall, stood outside the porch with a lighted lantern behind her back, and when Father Curran closed the door to the generator house which he did almost instantly some of the gas which came through the door was ignited by the flame of the lantern, and this communicating with the gas which filled the generating house caused the explosion, while the deceased priest stood in the porch. Some weeks ago a brother of the girl Wall, while helping Father Curran to charge the generator was overcome by gas which escaped and almost lost his life. The poisonous vapour was inhaled by him in large quantities and extreme measures had to be taken before he could be revived. He narrowly escaped death.

Railway News.

The east bound express left Arnold's Cove at 8 a.m. to-day. The west bound express was at Woodford's at noon to-day. The plow special that left here yesterday morning taking Mr. Conroy and 50 men to do snow fighting and relieve the outgoing express, arrived at Briggs Junction at 10 a.m. After relieving the train this afternoon the relief train with plow and a gang of men will go on to Carbonear to clean up the road there and allow the local to get on to town. They will then go on to the Broad Cove line to clear the snow. The Bonavista line is closed. The Carbonear train will be free to-night. One of the big rotary plows started from Bay of Islands coming east this morning and the other left Bishop's Falls also coming east to clear the road and relieve the express that is at Arnold's Cove coming this way.

Coaker's Reception in Bay de Verde

Special to Evening Telegram. OLD PERLICAN, To-day. President Coaker held a meeting here last night and spoke three hours, delivering the best speech ever heard here. The audience was delighted and amazed, and cheered and applauded. A grand reception was accorded him on his arrival on Friday. Grand send off to-day. Volleys of musketry for an hour rang out all over town. Grate's Cove on Saturday accorded Coaker the best demonstration ever held there. Bay de Verde on Friday received Coaker royally. People of both places met him a mile from the settlements and greeted him with cheers and volleys of musketry from hundreds of guns. Coaker will eventually be a big factor in the future of the Colony. He is a coming man. CORRESPONDENT.

George Street Epworth League.

Last evening in spite of the storm a goodly company gathered under the auspices of the above League when the most interesting debate entitled, "Is woman man's equal and ought she to be accorded man's privileges?" was under discussion. The affirmative was ably upheld by Mr. G. W. Rabbits, Mrs. Cockram and Mrs. Tucker; while the negative was supported by Mr. C. Pratt, Mrs. J. W. Bartlett and Mrs. A. S. Butler. In the general discussion which followed the debate was sustained by Rev. J. W. Bartlett, Messrs. R. Herder, J. Bowden, B. Edgewood, C. Bowden, Misses Butler and Parsons, Mr. H. T. Courtney, and the beautiful solo, "Queen of the Earth," with sweet expression. The President, Mrs. Hunter, in a few well chosen words welcomed all the visitors present and announced the Devotional meeting for next week. After the collection and usual closing exercises one of the most interesting and I trust, profitable meetings was brought to a close.—Com.

Rossley Star Theatre.

Last night the greatest crowd yet attended the Star Theatre to witness one of the best acts ever given in any theatre for the money. McPhee, J. P., in an act every one should see, while there are nine people in the cast, and every character has an important part. Billie Bravley, impersonates an old Irish woman with a grievance, which is a genuine piece of acting. McPhee, J. P., was funny as Mrs. McCallum; Percy Orth, made a great lawyer; Lilie Bravley, and Bonnie Rossley, each played their parts with the spirit of old times; Wee Willie, caused roars of laughter when he brought his ladder and mounted it to speak to the judge; Joe, the comical Joe, Burkhardt, as the pride of the force, with his smart strut delighted one and all. Joe Burkhardt is only a very young man, but we prefer a great future for him as a born comedian. Then Jack Rossley who has kept his audience laughing for over a year, an unheard of record, as McPhee, J. P., was one continual laugh; his sentences on the various prisoners being too funny to express. It's the greatest show yet. Joe Burkhardt does a fine single specialty before the big act. Bonnie Rossley sang an illustrated song, that got her two encores. The pictures were new and very good. Then the Star Orchestra played some beautiful selections with Miss K. Ring at the piano. Jack Rossley is being complimented on all sides for his class of entertainment and packed houses. He deserves it.

As a Cure for Whooping Cough

A medicine that will cure whooping cough can certainly be relied upon to overcome all ordinary coughs and colds. This is about the severest test, and one to which Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has frequently been put with the most satisfactory results. Mrs. John Chesney, Innerkip, Ont., writes:—"We have used a dozen bottles of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It cured my little girl of whooping cough when the doctor had given her up, and since then we always keep it in the house as a treatment for coughs and colds. It is the best medicine we ever used. In spite of imitations and substitutes the sales of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine keep right on increasing, and this, we believe, the most substantial evidence that can be offered as to the reliability of this well-known medicine as a cure for croup, bronchitis, whooping cough and kindred ailments; 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Priest Had Narrow Escape

Last week Rev. Fr. Caelella, P.P., Barron Island, narrowly escaped being drowned. After a trying time going from the Island to LaManche on a sick call, he made a wearisome journey over land to Southern Harbor, accompanied by three men. A blizzard raged and all four were often on the point of complete prostration by reason of beating their way through the deep drifts, and when they arrived at their destination they were completely used up. After visiting several sick people the priest started to return to Barron Island on Saturday last. A gale of S. W. wind and snow prevailed with a big sea running in the bay. The priest and a man named John Flynn started in a dory to reach a western boat lying in the bay to take him home. They had not progressed far towards the boat when the dory was thrown broadside to a high sea which filled her with water, drenched both occupants and almost turned the boat over. The back wash of the wave

His 81st Birthday

Yesterday the veteran Capt. John Green, formerly manager of the Tur Co., celebrated his 81st birthday. His advanced age does not seem to affect the captain greatly, and he seems to be almost as energetic as he was 20 years ago. We wish the captain a continuation of his present health and hope to see him round out the century.

The Royal Cradle

King Edward Wanted Old Bassinette For His Grandchildren.

Among a host of other good things published in the Christmas number of The Strand Magazine is a striking article written by a member of the Royal Court on the home life of the Royal Family, in which an interesting reference is made to the late King Edward, who was always passionately fond of children. His grandchildren were immense favorites with him. Often, early in the morning, he would walk over to York Cottage, where his arrival was received with shouts of delight, and spend some hours in the prettily-laid-out gardens there, smoking his cigar and watching the children at play, entering into their enjoyment, with obvious delight. Queen Alexandra once remarked that His Majesty was as "great a child as anyone," and his delight was unbounded when the news of the birth of the present Prince of Wales was announced to him.

His first action was to telegraph to the late Queen Victoria and request that the old fashioned bassinette that had been used for himself, and his brothers and sisters might be sent for the occupation of the new arrival. This is neither hung, as is the modern style, nor is it in rockers. To it is affixed a silver plate with the inscription: "This bassinette was made for Victoria, Princess Royal (the late Empress Frederick of Germany) in 1840, and was used by all Her Majesty's children, and was given by the Queen to the Duchess of York in 1894."

It was beautifully furnished for the use of the Prince. The sheets were of the finest Irish lawn, embroidered in the corners with the royal arms surmounted by the crown and trimmed with Valenciennes lace. The pillows were to match. The blankets were of white Yorkshire wool, likewise bearing the badge of the royal arms, and several elder-down quilts accompanied the gift.

In this dainty cradle each of the children of King George and Queen Mary has slept, and Her Majesty has passed many happy hours by its side. It has now been carefully stripped of its hangings and packed away until such time as the Prince of Wales can have it passed on to him.

An interesting story is told in the same article concerning Prince Albert, King George's second son, who is the cricketer of the family, and among which most treasured possessions is a ball, now mounted on a silver stand, with which he began bowled with successive balls King George, the Prince of Wales, and Prince Arthur of Connaught.

One day the late King Edward was prevailed upon to play in a game at Windsor, between sides captained respectively by the Prince of Wales and Prince Albert. His Majesty agreed to take a place in the Prince of Wales' team provided he was not called upon to field. There was every prospect of a very close finish, and when there only remained His Majesty to bat, little Prince Henry expressed his fear to Prince Albert that they were going to be beaten.

"Pooh!" said the latter. "There's only grandpa to come, and I can bowl him any time."

His words proved correct, for King Edward, succumbed to the first ball sent down by his second grandson.

Delegation to Rome.

Follows Custom of Bringing Lambs to the Pope. Rome, Jan. 22.—The Pope, who appeared to be in excellent health Sunday, received a large delegation, which brought to him a number of lambs, following the custom of years. This being the feast of St. Agnes, the church bearing her name pays a tribute of lambs to St. John later. They are first brought to the Pope for his benediction. The Pope caressed the lambs, which were bedecked with ribbons. They will be used until Easter, their wool being used for the pallia conferred upon Archbishops.

Mr. Charles O'Neil Conroy was installed as Lieut.-Col. at the C. C. C. rooms last night. He was introduced by Hon. Jno. Harris, Chairman of the Managing Committee, who made a short speech and expressed his warm approval of the selection. It afforded him much pleasure to present to the Corps a citizen who was held in such high esteem. "We all realize," said Hon. Mr. Harris, "that Mr. Conroy is a busy man, and it can therefore be easily understood why he would accept the office with a certain amount of reluctance." In spite of this he believed that he had the right man. The Corps would, he believed, advance under the new Lieut.-Colonel Minard's
