A Fight to a Finish. The German people are now being Marion Rendell, sister of the groom, told that the war will be a long one, as is evidenced by the address of the King of Bavaria at Munich. The King of Bavaria at Munich. The steady blocking of all attempts at a steady blocking of all attempts at a ceremony a reception was held at German advance in the West during the residence of the bride's parents afthe past two months, in spite of the ter which the bridal party entrained enormous sacrifice of life of the Ger- for Holyrood to spend their honeyman active army and its reserves, and moon, leaving there for Heart's Conthe steady drive of the German and tent where they will reside in future. Austrian armies over the frontiers in The Telegram joins in the congratuthe East have proved to the Germans lations extended. that their anticipated walk-over France in a few weeks has become a delusion and a snare, and that now they are face to face with enemies who are determined to push them over their frontiers on both borders and to carry on war in their own territories until their martial re-sources are exhausted and Prussian militarism is absolutely crushed. With the present block in the West and the increasing pressure in the East, the future is clearly with the allies. Russian pressure in spite of any temporary set-back which may ensue will become greater and greater. Austria is already not far from the point of exhaustion, and she can

cr. Austria is already not far from the point of exhaustion, and she cannot contribute very material aid to the Germans. Britain is becoming more and more awake. It takes much to rouse the British bull-dog but when once roused he will hold in to a finish and win or die in the fight. To the million men afloat or ashore when hostilities commenced, already a million men have been added either to the Regular Army, the Territorials, or to the naval forces, and now the or to the naval forces, and now the Commons have passed an additional vote of a thousand million dollars and authorized the raising of an additional million dollars.

loans for the self-governing colonies, The Bruce arrived at Port aux Basloans for the self-governing colonies, to provide for the dependents of her own soldiers and sailors, and to provide the latter with the best armaments going to bring the war to a successful issue. While the Germans are giving way before the Russians, while they are breaking themselves in the rock-like defence of the French, they are exhausting their military strength to a degree far greater than the allies. The Strength of the British Empire has only begun to be tapped, the Empire is only getting roused, and when that strength is moulded in a military form it will begin to tell as surely as the Russian millions are telling,

BUSSIANS BLOCKED AT ERZERUM

LONDON, To-day. A Petrograd correspondent to the Morning Post says the Russians have not succeeded in marching on to attack the formidable position of the Dev-Boynn Range which protects th approach to Erzerum. The Turks brought up from Erzerum, from Trobisond and from Cryskala such large reinforcements with heavy guns as to compel the Russians already occupying Koprukae to retreat. Whether this retirement from positions secured after very heavy fighting must be reckoned as a Turkish success or not depends on factors of which we have
