THE FLOUR DEALERS.

At the risk of offending the imposing array of signatures to the resolutions of the flour dealers yesterday and of being included among those who have "made asses of themselves," we have no hesitation in taking the side of the H.C.L. Commission in the particular matter which has caused such a furor along Water Street. Our literal interpretation of the Commission's charges we would not do this, but there is enough of substance in them to entitle them in our opinion, to general approval.

The resolution says that no such combination exists or has existed for the purpose of controlling prices. We entirely agree, but we would point out that a combination has existed and does exist, of which the dealers have taken advantage—a combination of circumstances. Again, "to the best of their knowledge and belief there has been neither collusion nor even consultation in regard to the price of flour. Quite right, because there was no need. The price in fact has steadily mounted, the scale, and since it governs these transactions entirely, there has been no need for the dealers to look to one another's attention what all can see plainly. They declare that the market has been entirely free and untrammelled and has been governed by the cost of importation from producing markets. This is a little ambiguous, gentlemen. The "cost of importation" you are looking to the future and not to the past.

The merchants have every right to defend themselves against false charges, but we would like them better if they were honest enough to admit the plain truth of what has been going on. We notice they have a somewhat suspicious way of talking of "trade conditions" and "market prices," as if these were profound things which no one outside the trade can possibly comprehend; the ignorance of the uninitiated is to be pitied rather than condemned. But the uninitiated are coming to have a rather comfortable knowledge of these things and there is a futter in the deucefoot. They are not really at all profound. Flour dealing is pure gabling; there is far more real science in poker.

The plain truth of the matter is this. There has not been any real competition. There is no voluntary competition in normal times, but it is automatically provided by the market price away. A dealer has to keep his eye steadily on that price if he does not want another dealer to undersell him. In these abnormal times the steadily rising market price has eliminated all competition below it. The dealers have pushed their prices steadily up to it because that is as high as they dare to go. In normal times, with a fluctuating but generally level market, the purchaser at a higher price is compelled to come down to the purchaser at the lower price; in these abnormal times, with a rising market, the lower purchaser is enabled to come up to the higher. That is the difference.

There has been free and open competition, the dealers say. Will any of them deny that altogether unprecedented profits have been made? How does that consist with free competition? Will any of them deny that on the same day different shipments of flour, bought at different prices, have been sold for the same price? How does that consist with free competition? There has been competition, but only with the future market, which, as any tyro could have foreseen, has been beaten every time.

Flour Dealers Pass Resolutions. Action of H. C. L. Commission Condemned.

The wholesale and retail flour dealers held a meeting at the Board of Trade Rooms yesterday afternoon, at which the following resolution, proposed by Mr. W. G. Gosling and seconded by Mr. W. S. Monroe, was passed unanimously:—

Whereas,—The Report of the H.C.L. Commission on Flour published on Friday, June 8th, contains the following paragraph:—

"As a matter of fact the Commission has knowledge of purchases of Flour made last Fall, which were delayed in transit, and only entered the Colony recently, being sold to-day at a profit of four to five dollars a barrel. We feel confident that if the ordinary ebb and flow of unrestricted competition existed in the Colony for the past year, flour would have been sold at a much lower rate, and we think it is regrettable that this price-fixing system to follow the market should have been put in operation, resulting in so heavy a burden having been placed on the classes in the community least able to bear it."

"What we mean by free and unrestricted competition is illustrated by what happened here recently with regard to the product of the sealing voyage. By the exercise of competition the value of seals was increased from $6.25 per cwt. to $5.00 per cwt., and we cannot but believe that if similar competition had been applied to the sale of flour in St. John's the last few months flour would have found its level at the normal rate of profit."

It appears that this paragraph has been interpreted by the public to mean that a combination has existed in St. John's or in the Colony, for purpose of advancing or controlling the price of flour.—(See Daily News June 9th.)

The C. L. Report. "We congratulate the High Cost of Living Commission on the thoroughness with which they have conducted their enquiries into the Flour question. Their discoveries do not come entirely as surprises; for some time it has been suspected that the gentlemen who have been handling this commodity have not been doing so from purely patriotic and philanthropic motives, as some would have us believe; but it comes as a disagreeable jolt to learn that a combine has existed and that they have 'set a unit-price' for flour sold, no matter what the rates may have been at which they purchased the Flour. The dealers, we are told, defend the action on the ground that 'they are following the markets,' and have at no time risen above them. Consumers have had good reason to know this during recent months, for the combine have always 'followed' the market, and they have not remarked any particular anxiety to 'follow the market' down; and incidentally it might be observed that the Montreal Herald of the 31st May states that in the previous fortnight flour had dropped three dollars a barrel in that city. However, we have previously discussed this point and will not deal with it today.

"With regard to the recommendations made by the Commission, which are most commendable, we trust they are adopted as a whole will be considered by the Government. It is gratifying to learn through the Colonial Secretary that a Board of Food Control along the lines suggested in the report is to be appointed. This is the initiatory step, and the others must follow in due course. We can wisely and safely adopt methods which have worked successfully in other countries."

Be It Resolved.—The undersigned Importers, Dealers and Retailers, declare that no such Combination exists, or has existed, for the purpose of controlling prices. That to the best of their knowledge and belief there has been neither collusion nor even consultation in regard to the price of flour. They declare that the market has been entirely free and untrammelled and has been governed by the cost of importation from producing markets. They therefore respectfully call upon the H. C. L. Commission to make plain the meaning which they wish to convey in the above paragraph.

THE BURGLAR.

"I told you so!" said Abner Strong. "Who runs the general store? I always knew that kid was wrong and crooked to the core. His folks all thought he was so smart. When he went playing ball and bragged about his early start. The pay he drew and all."

"He's down South now on some dern trip. And papers from that place says yesterday that he got flip. And went and stole a base. I don't know what them bases cost. Or why he stole the same. But when they seen the base was lost. They knew jest who they'd blame."

"I hope his folks is satisfied. Now that their kid's been kitched. Reckon they won't be puffed with pride. At that there job he botched! You can't fool me, not much, by gee! I reckoned all along. A kid so slick would turn some trick!" Said good old Abner Strong.

"SLINKER" (Reprinted from the Toronto News.) "It has been brought to our notice that there are young men in this city who for selfish reasons are refusing to help any of those associations who are devoting the proceeds of their athletic exhibitions to hospital and other worthy patriotic purposes."

"Most of them young men (?) have 'not the time' to go to War, and yet 'refuse to part with some of their 'valuable' (save the mark) time to 'help assuage the pains of those who are fighting their battles for 'em."

"A new American word has been coined since the entry of the United States into the War. It is 'SLINKER'—meaning worse than 'slacker' and is odious to all ears and offensive to all nostrils. A slacker is one 'other, which is the lowest type of

In proposing the Resolution, Mr. Gosling said he was astonished at the Commission's Report, and that the opinion of business men was not in keeping with the facts. The report showed an imperfect knowledge of trade conditions. The Commission had done more than any business community in the Empire to keep trade conditions normal and they resented the reflection of the report, there had been no combine but to the contrary very keen competition and on one particular period the price of flour was only normal and if the dealer risked a loss he was surely entitled to a profit. No business concern could possibly be as a loss if he declined to "follow the markets" as they need only make the consumer pay for all. He pointed out where the editor of the Daily News was in error when he stated that a combine existed, and the $3 drop in the Montreal market was not adopted here, for the simple reason that flour was sold there at $19 a barrel when the highest price asked here was $15. It was the desire of the trade to act in harmony with any Board of Control that might be appointed, but suggested that half its number be representative of the trade. Unfortunately there is a shortage in the world's wheat and the problem is a serious one, which can only be met by the substitution of other articles of food.

Mr. Monroe congratulated the committee on their promptness in dealing with the matter, and stated that the imputation in the Commission's report and in the Daily News should be refuted without delay. Mr. R. E. Job requested the Chairman to read the resolutions which was accordingly done. Mr. G. C. Fearn thought the H.C.L. Commission's report was the means of spreading a great deal of misconception among the public, who were not in a position to know trade conditions. It would be ridiculous to ask the consumer to pay more than the current market price in order to save the imports from loss. It would be just as contrary to expect the importer to sell at less than current market value, after taking the risk. Yet the H.C.L. Commission had adopted such stupid, nonsensical, illogical ideas. Without reflecting on the personnel of the Commission, they themselves could be blamed for appointing them. Not one member understood trade conditions and the result was they were making a mess of themselves. The motion of Hon. J. Harvey to the effect that a copy of the resolution be sent to the Commission, with the understanding that they publish them within a week, was lost on a vote of 14 to 7.

Dear Home Products.

Boston Transcript: It should be a truism that home products are cheapest. The things we buy are luxuries when they come from a distance, and commonplace commodities, if secured at the source of production. An anomalous condition exists, however, in this respect in the United States, as compared with Great Britain, which is enough to give an impetus to the movement for control of food prices in this country. In this land of great production, consumers are forced to pay prices actually higher than what English purchasers give for the same products, so many of which come to them from the United States. And Great Britain records lower prices than we pay at a time when the overseas transportation conditions are such as to make for exceedingly high prices in England for everything imported.

Put Man and His Wife Atop U-Boat.

Closed Hatchway and Then Submerged—German Assassins Conduct. Christiania, Norway, June 1. — A German submarine captain, angered at a Norwegian steward for his refusal to give information about one of the U-boats' victims, put the steward and his wife atop the submarine, closed the hatchway and submerged. There was no mistaking the clear intent that the man and woman should drown. Both, however, succeeded in keeping afloat, though dragged below by the suction of the submerged U-boat. The steward—he was one of the survivors of the Norwegian steamer Fjeltoe—told his story when picked up after long immersion. His wife was also saved.

That Assault Case.

A sensational and somewhat exaggerated report was given widespread currency in the city a few days ago, it being stated freely that a female had been the victim of an indecent and serious assault and that the perpetrator was a medicine compounder. The Telegram learned the exact facts of the matter, which are that this man (married) put his arms around and kissed a girl who had come into his store to make purchases. She complained to her parents, who got in touch with the authorities and advised to issue a summons, as the assault, though common, was highly improper. The summons was issued and later withdrawn. There the matter rested. The accused was not brought before court and fined, as reported.

McMurdo's Store News

WEDNESDAY, June 13, 1917. The Strictly Prime Hayseed is well known to the city a few days ago, it being stated freely that a female had been the victim of an indecent and serious assault and that the perpetrator was a medicine compounder. The Telegram learned the exact facts of the matter, which are that this man (married) put his arms around and kissed a girl who had come into his store to make purchases. She complained to her parents, who got in touch with the authorities and advised to issue a summons, as the assault, though common, was highly improper. The summons was issued and later withdrawn. A Good Step.

We understand that Speaker Goodson presented the Prayers yesterday morning, in the presence of all the members of the Government Party, requesting the Government to appoint James W. Morris, Esq., M.P. H.C. to the vacant Judgeship of the Central District Court. This mandate from the party will have a salutary effect on the members of Executive and we may expect within a few days to have Mr. Morris officially gazetted.

Here and There.

COT FUND.—A Post Office Order for $4.60, the proceeds of a phonograph entertainment, held at Job's Cove, B.D.V., on Empire Day, has been handed to the Treasurer.

MORE PETTY THEFT.—Detective Whelan arrested last night two lads, who are old offenders in police circles. They broke into the Globe Steam Laundry and stole two shirts and a pair of socks. Both lads will be given a week of the birch switch this afternoon.

LECTURES ON JAPAN.—Miss De Wolff, who is on a brief visit to the city, gave a lecture on her work as a missionary to Japan at Gover Street Church last night. The prejudices, superstitions and ignorance which had to be contended with were fully explained. During the evening Mrs. John Duff, of Carboneau, rendered "Face to Face" a beautiful musical. Miss De Wolff has been in Japan for eleven years. She leaves for North Sydney by to-morrow's express.

THURSDAY COUNTRY STORE. Owing to the disappointment of so many people who could not be seated another big country store was held at the Water Street store on Thursday night when Corporal Jagers, the one-legged hero of Ypres, will have another complete change of act. This plucky soldier made a big hit last night, and his thrilling experiences were listened to with much interest. On Saturday night the big weekly grocery store, several sacks of flour and high-class groceries will be given. Don't miss Thursday's country store, lots of beautiful things all new and of good quality. A big shipment of latest film.
