person could always find something in it to suit his individual case. He compared human sympathy with the sympathy of Christ, and said the former sunk into utter insignificance beside the great and allabsorbing sympathy of the Son of God. He then went on to say that salvation was for everyone, no matter how degraded or utterly lost they were. Even if Satan himself would have nothing to do with them, God would willingly receive them into eternal joy and glory if they would only put their trust in Christ and his sympathy. As a friend, adviser or interceder, none could be compared to Christ. He said a good many persons were pleased with Christ, and imagined they had a kindly feeling toward him and his work, but they would not come forward and stand up for their friend, they preferred to remain half-hearted, or rather faint-hearted in his cause. He pleaded with all to come boldly out and nail their colors to the mast. If he was a friend at all, he warned them to delay not, to-morrow might be too late. He said the Spaniards had an old saying that "The road of bye and by leads to the town of nowhere," and the English had "Procrastination is the thie of time." He said there were only two kingdoms, the kingdom of God and the kingdom of the devil, and every person had to make their choice. Mr. Weaver gave several very interesting experiences in his work as an evangelist. The sermon was brought to a close by the large congregation heartily joining in the beautiful hynn, "Stand Up for Jesus!" Mr. Weaver will conduct a meeting in Victoria Hall to-night for men only, and each afternoon and evening of the week for the general public at the same place.
