

London Advertiser.
TWO EDITIONS DAILY - WEEKLY.
TELEPHONE CALLS.
Job Department175
Editorial Department134
Business Office107
LONDON, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 21.

The Imperial Commercial Congress.

The party of Canadian manufacturers, delegates to the congress of the Chambers of Commerce of the Empire, were welcomed by King Edward on Monday at Windsor Castle. They will have a good time in the old land. They will be dined and wined with the elaborate rites of British hospitality, which is the finest thing of its kind. If the delegates keep their eyes open they may see many things in the world's workshop which will be of practical value to them. They will meet many of the British captains of industry. There will be a fine display of fraternal feeling, and much after-dinner oratory on the theme of imperial unity. When the congress gets down to business, however, British and Canadian manufacturers will find that while they are brother Britons, they are also commercial rivals. Preferential trade is sure to be the piece de resistance. The Canadian Manufacturers' Association has assured Mr. Chamberlain of its sympathy and moral support. But what if some blunt British statesman should put the test by asking the Canadian delegates how far they are prepared to widen the opportunities of British manufacturers in the Canadian market? We can see the congress splitting on the rock of the quid pro quo. What answer, for instance, would the representatives of the Canadian woolen industry give? Or the representatives of the Canadian cotton industry? Both are bemoaning British competition and clamoring for higher barriers against the products of Lancashire and Yorkshire. Is there a Canadian manufacturer in any line willing to lower the duties against his British rival?

The majority of the Canadian manufacturers believe in a tariff for protective purposes. This probably explains their admiration of Mr. Chamberlain, whom they hail as a convert to their faith, and the arch-enemy of Cobdenism. The object of their regard is Mr. Chamberlain, the protectionist, not Mr. Chamberlain, the advocate of imperial preferential trade. It will be well if that point is made clear to the British people. Many of them have been misled by Mr. Chamberlain's rhetoric and believe the colonies are ripe for exploitation by the British manufacturers. The Canadian Manufacturers' Association, and various boards of trade and other organizations, have encouraged this delusion by passing resolutions which have only a sentimental value.

The British Cotton Industry.

Mr. Chamberlain's tariff commission has issued its first report on the textile trades. It deals with Britain's greatest industry the cotton industry. The gross value of the output in 1904 was £28,000,000, and the exports, exclusive of yarns, have increased 25 per cent in value since 1891-95. The increase of cotton exports from other countries has averaged 66 per cent in the same period. The export of yarns from Great Britain has diminished 32.1 per cent to all countries. The report notes a diminution in the number of persons engaged in the British cotton industry, but it is admitted that this may be due to the fact that operatives can now tend more looms and spindles on the average than formerly, while fewer children are working half time. The commission finds that foreign competition of an unfair kind has as yet only made itself felt in the home market, except in certain classes of finished goods and small wares. Here are some of the conclusions reached by the commissioners:

(1) While trade with the continent is declining or stationary, trade with British colonies and dependencies is increasing, and has been encouraged by colonial protective tariffs. (2) While the home trade shows no sign of permanent and substantial increase foreign competition in the home market of an unfair character has not so far assumed such proportions as to call for remedial measures, except in regard to certain finished products. (3) No considerable expansion of the trade in cotton goods can be looked for with those foreign countries which manufacture for themselves and use tariffs in existing conditions the decline which has commenced, is likely to become more marked; but a moderate reduction of foreign tariffs would do much to increase the volume of the trade. Such reductions can only be secured by using a general British tariff to obtain concessions from foreign countries. (4) In regard to neutral markets, some decline of trade is, in existing conditions, unavoidable. This decline may be postponed and perhaps prevented by remedying the adverse conditions of competition between the United Kingdom and foreign countries. These conditions are largely the result of the tariff policy of foreign countries and tend to increase costs to the British manufacturer by restriction of his output and his consequent inability to run his machinery running full time. (5) The British colonial markets are capable of almost indefinite expansion, and, in our opinion, the adoption of a satisfactory scheme of preferential arrangements within the Empire would secure the largest proportion of this growth for British trade.

How do Canadian cotton manufacturers like the last clause? The commissioners, elsewhere in the report, express the opinion that the markets in British colonies and possessions "are the only markets open to British cotton spinners and manufacturers which are capable of great expansion." But the Canadian market will not be open to them if the Canadian cotton manufacturers have their way. Undoubtedly, there will be a great expansion of the Canadian market, but the Canadian manufacturers want a first mortgage on it. They are petitioning for higher duties, and will be satisfied with nothing less than a virtually prohibitive tariff.

Is Mr. Chamberlain's commission honest with the British public in taking a position which ignores the protectionist sentiment of the colonies?

The Moroccan Question.

The Moroccan situation is more reassuring. It seems now certain that France will agree to Germany's demand for a conference of the powers. The French Government is endeavoring to restrict the scope of the convention, or obtain from Germany some recognition, in advance, of France's paramount position in Morocco. It is said that Germany concedes France's special rights but desires a formal guarantee of the integrity of Morocco and an equality of commercial opportunity for all nations. The general impression is that the Kaiser has deliberately affronted France and Great Britain with the object of straining the Anglo-French entente. He might have raised the Moroccan question at a more seasonable time and in a less flamboyant manner. He chose to wait for a year after the Anglo-French agreement, when it could be reasonably assumed that the policy outlined in that agreement would meet with no obstruction. There is a shrewd suspicion that the Kaiser is piqued by the growing amity between Great Britain and France, which has defeated his cherished design of a Franco-German rapprochement. He sees France's ally, Russia, in a condition of helplessness, and he feels himself for the time being master of continental Europe. France's one prop is the friendship of Great Britain, and that friendship good faith requires that Great Britain shall lend moral support to her neighbor in the present crisis.

The Undone Things.

[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.]
"Isn't the thing you do, dear, it's the thing you've left undone. Which gives you a bit of heartache the tender word forgotten, the letter you did not write, the flower you might have sent, dear, are your haunting ghosts tonight. The stone you might have lifted out of the brother's way, the bit of heartsome counsel, the loving touch of the hand, dear, that you (since no time nor thought for, with troubles enough of your own. The little acts of kindness, so easily out of mind, the threatenings of angels, which every mortal finds. They come in night and silence, each child who never knew, when hope is faint and fading, and a blight has dropped on faith. For life is all too short, dear, and sorrow is all too great. To suffer our slow compassion that carries into late, and it's not the thing you do, dear, it's the thing you've left undone, which gives you the bit of heartache at the setting of the sun."

End Seats.

[Baltimore American.]
The street railway system will never be perfect until cars are introduced that are all end seats.

It Improved Business.

[Cleveland Plaindealer.]
"Did the bride feel very much depressed because it rained on her wedding day?"
"Not at all. Her father sells raincoats and she is his only child."

See the Boss.

[Exchange.]
Harold—Dearest, having gained your consent, I presume I must ask your father's permission.
Marie—Father's permission! No, indeed—mother's!

Something New.

[Exchange.]
Mrs. Shiley looked up from the magazine she was reading.
"What is a mixed metaphor, John?" she asked.
"Mixed metaphor?" echoed her husband. "That's a new one on me. I'll ask the bartender tomorrow."

The Old Scrap Book.

[Telling of a Mother's Love.]
It is only a book of pictures, above whose pages old Bonnie head once often bent. It is only a book of pictures, and a sweet little face oft waited for its tales to be begun. That was ready to hear them. Before the last was done.

It is only a book of pictures. He read beside her knee. But it is a book of pictures, and a sweet little face oft waited for its tales to be begun. That was ready to hear them. Before the last was done.

It is only a book of pictures. He read beside her knee. But it is a book of pictures, and a sweet little face oft waited for its tales to be begun. That was ready to hear them. Before the last was done.

It is only a book of pictures. He read beside her knee. But it is a book of pictures, and a sweet little face oft waited for its tales to be begun. That was ready to hear them. Before the last was done.

It is only a book of pictures. He read beside her knee. But it is a book of pictures, and a sweet little face oft waited for its tales to be begun. That was ready to hear them. Before the last was done.

It is only a book of pictures. He read beside her knee. But it is a book of pictures, and a sweet little face oft waited for its tales to be begun. That was ready to hear them. Before the last was done.

It is only a book of pictures. He read beside her knee. But it is a book of pictures, and a sweet little face oft waited for its tales to be begun. That was ready to hear them. Before the last was done.

It is only a book of pictures. He read beside her knee. But it is a book of pictures, and a sweet little face oft waited for its tales to be begun. That was ready to hear them. Before the last was done.

It is only a book of pictures. He read beside her knee. But it is a book of pictures, and a sweet little face oft waited for its tales to be begun. That was ready to hear them. Before the last was done.

It is only a book of pictures. He read beside her knee. But it is a book of pictures, and a sweet little face oft waited for its tales to be begun. That was ready to hear them. Before the last was done.

It is only a book of pictures. He read beside her knee. But it is a book of pictures, and a sweet little face oft waited for its tales to be begun. That was ready to hear them. Before the last was done.

It is only a book of pictures. He read beside her knee. But it is a book of pictures, and a sweet little face oft waited for its tales to be begun. That was ready to hear them. Before the last was done.

It is only a book of pictures. He read beside her knee. But it is a book of pictures, and a sweet little face oft waited for its tales to be begun. That was ready to hear them. Before the last was done.

It is only a book of pictures. He read beside her knee. But it is a book of pictures, and a sweet little face oft waited for its tales to be begun. That was ready to hear them. Before the last was done.

It is only a book of pictures. He read beside her knee. But it is a book of pictures, and a sweet little face oft waited for its tales to be begun. That was ready to hear them. Before the last was done.

It is only a book of pictures. He read beside her knee. But it is a book of pictures, and a sweet little face oft waited for its tales to be begun. That was ready to hear them. Before the last was done.

for that. The chief mission of Russia will be to reshape its own institutions, and if this is done wisely the war will be viewed as a Russian blessing before the end of the present century.

Slow to Anger.

[Chicago Record-Herald.]
"A man should be slow to anger." "Yes," answered the woman with a look of patient forbearance, "only he shouldn't invariably postpone getting angry at the annoyance of the day until he sits down at the supper table."

A Strategist.

[New Orleans Times-Democrat.]
He was a very aged man, of ninety years or more. And at the thought of dying he did was exceeding sore.

And what did he aged man, to wholly calm his fears? He robbed a safe so they could give him ten or fifteen years!

An Optimist.

[Philadelphia Press.]
"Oh, yes, he's quite an enthusiast. He goes in for things in real earnest." "Yes, if you know where to send him on a wild goose chase he'll speak of himself afterward as a sportsman."

A Timely Tip.

[Philadelphia Press.]
"Is Mrs. Gabbie at home?" asked the caller.
"Be good luck, ma'am she's not," replied the wise servant girl, "but y'd best have yer maid call on her. She's back most any minute now."

WOMAN IN LATEST NORTH POLE HUNT

Miss Mamie Babb, School Teacher, Will Accompany Peary to the Arctic.

Norway, Me., June 19.—Love for adventure and a desire to be the first woman to reach the north pole has caused Miss Mamie Babb to abandon her school-teaching, and, with Lieutenant-Commander Robert E. Peary in his quest of the north pole, from the peak of the explorer's new steamer will float an American flag over the pole, which she will present to Miss Babb by her pupils at the Little School at North Harpswell.

"What a danger can there be in such a journey?" she asked yesterday of an Arctic trip are pointed out to her by relatives who are opposed to her. Each child, she said, will be a man, and she shall be the first woman to reach the pole, because I know Mr. Peary will find it this time."

Mrs. Peary and her daughter, Marie, 12 years old, also will be passengers on the Roosevelt, but they will return home when the steamer arrives at the point where relief supply stations are to be established. Miss Babb says she will stick to the ship until the end of the trip.

"If the men stand the trip I guess I can," she says.

Miss Babb is 30 years old, tall and handsome. For several years she has lived with an uncle and aunt at West Brooks, who are greatly averse to the trip she is about to take.

Miss Babb has been a friend of Mrs. Peary, and as a stenographer has done much of the work of the expedition. She has read much about the frozen regions. She has prepared maps and routes for the coming trip, and all have been approved by her. When she submitted to him for examination.

When Peary came home last year to make arrangements with the shipyard for the construction of the Roosevelt, he called upon Miss Babb and her pupils in great detail what he intended to do on his next trip toward the pole. Invariably any changes in the itinerary which Miss Babb made were heeded by Peary, who submitted the revised details to the Arctic Club of New York, which is financing the forthcoming trip.

After Peary's departure, the project, which is the latest of the project, the pole failed he abandoned the project, thinking that it would be impossible to reach that point. Then it was that she began to think that a nice woman's voyage would be for a woman to make.

Miss Babb talked with her relatives and when she had gained the opinion of several persons she flatly told Peary that she intended to make the trip with him if he would let her go. She has no other relatives. If not, she was gone, anywhere.

Miss Babb went to her home in West Brooks today and at once began preparations for the trip. She will leave here next week for New York, where the Roosevelt will be tied up until July 4. She will look after the instrument while in the Arctic. She has learned telegraphy, and stenography, and is an expert at thinking that a nice woman's voyage would be for a woman to make.

Miss Babb talked with her relatives and when she had gained the opinion of several persons she flatly told Peary that she intended to make the trip with him if he would let her go. She has no other relatives. If not, she was gone, anywhere.

Miss Babb went to her home in West Brooks today and at once began preparations for the trip. She will leave here next week for New York, where the Roosevelt will be tied up until July 4. She will look after the instrument while in the Arctic. She has learned telegraphy, and stenography, and is an expert at thinking that a nice woman's voyage would be for a woman to make.

Miss Babb talked with her relatives and when she had gained the opinion of several persons she flatly told Peary that she intended to make the trip with him if he would let her go. She has no other relatives. If not, she was gone, anywhere.

Miss Babb went to her home in West Brooks today and at once began preparations for the trip. She will leave here next week for New York, where the Roosevelt will be tied up until July 4. She will look after the instrument while in the Arctic. She has learned telegraphy, and stenography, and is an expert at thinking that a nice woman's voyage would be for a woman to make.

Miss Babb talked with her relatives and when she had gained the opinion of several persons she flatly told Peary that she intended to make the trip with him if he would let her go. She has no other relatives. If not, she was gone, anywhere.

Miss Babb went to her home in West Brooks today and at once began preparations for the trip. She will leave here next week for New York, where the Roosevelt will be tied up until July 4. She will look after the instrument while in the Arctic. She has learned telegraphy, and stenography, and is an expert at thinking that a nice woman's voyage would be for a woman to make.

Miss Babb talked with her relatives and when she had gained the opinion of several persons she flatly told Peary that she intended to make the trip with him if he would let her go. She has no other relatives. If not, she was gone, anywhere.

Miss Babb went to her home in West Brooks today and at once began preparations for the trip. She will leave here next week for New York, where the Roosevelt will be tied up until July 4. She will look after the instrument while in the Arctic. She has learned telegraphy, and stenography, and is an expert at thinking that a nice woman's voyage would be for a woman to make.

Miss Babb talked with her relatives and when she had gained the opinion of several persons she flatly told Peary that she intended to make the trip with him if he would let her go. She has no other relatives. If not, she was gone, anywhere.

Miss Babb went to her home in West Brooks today and at once began preparations for the trip. She will leave here next week for New York, where the Roosevelt will be tied up until July 4. She will look after the instrument while in the Arctic. She has learned telegraphy, and stenography, and is an expert at thinking that a nice woman's voyage would be for a woman to make.

Miss Babb talked with her relatives and when she had gained the opinion of several persons she flatly told Peary that she intended to make the trip with him if he would let her go. She has no other relatives. If not, she was gone, anywhere.

reveals the plain-spoken, yet withal, perfectly-loyal fashion in which he spoke to the Emperor, telling him of the universal distrust which pervaded all classes, attributable to the conviction that his majesty was being deceived by those about him, who were interested, not in the realization, but in the destruction, of the proposed reforms. Prince Troubetsky rose above details. He said those whom he represented had not presumed to indicate the exact form of national representation demanded, but one principle they regarded as vital, namely, that the representation should be based on universal citizenship, in which no class should be excluded.

"It must not be based upon estates," the prince continued. "You are the Emperor, not of the landowners, merchants or peasants, but of all Russia. The bureaucracy, which has a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

In conclusion, the prince declared, it was absolutely necessary that facilities should be afforded, both in the press and in every government institution, a place in yours, but the national representation must be independent of the bureaucracy, which must not be allowed to build a wall between you and the people. Your majesty will realize that when you stand face to face with the people, the delegates."

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrup. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhoea and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTRAL COMPANY, 17 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

REST

IN ONE OF WESTMAN'S HAMMOCKS

AFTER you have cut the lawn with one of WESTMAN'S LAWN MOWERS

Hammocks, from $1.00 up. Mowers, from $2.75 up.

A. Westman

121 Dundas Street. Phone 360.

Nestle's Food

It's the perfect substitute for mother's milk. In summer and winter, always the same.

Sample (enough for 8 meals) sent free to mothers.

THE NESTLE MILK CO., LIMITED, MONTREAL.

When Accidents Occur

be prompt to apply Pond's Extract—the old family doctor's soothing, healing, restorer of the skin. Cures burns, scalds, cuts, bruises; relieves all pain. 10 years it has been the one family remedy for every emergency. Limitations: never watering, worshipping; Pond's Extract is pure, powerful, priceless.

Sold only in sealed bottles under leaf wrapper. ACCEPT NO SUBSTITUTE.

Easy to Dye

Maypole Soap not only gives a rich, brilliant color but makes home dyeing safe, sure, pleasant, easy. No mess or trouble. It's a cake of soap that makes and dyes at one operation. Made in England but sold everywhere. 10c. for Colors—15c. for Black.

Easy to Dye

Maypole Soap not only gives a rich, brilliant color but makes home dyeing safe, sure, pleasant, easy. No mess or trouble. It's a cake of soap that makes and dyes at one operation. Made in England but sold everywhere. 10c. for Colors—15c. for Black.

Easy to Dye

Maypole Soap not only gives a rich, brilliant color but makes home dyeing safe, sure, pleasant, easy. No mess or trouble. It's a cake of soap that makes and dyes at one operation. Made in England but sold everywhere. 10c. for Colors—15c. for Black.