hand.

In the kitchen there is not a day when cook can't find use for Edwards' Soup. To-day she strengthens her stew with it, to-morrow she uses it as a basis for a dish of her own, the next day she thickens her gravies with it. She says "It's the best thing I ever put into the kitchen cupboard."

TURN HAIR DARK
WITH SAGE TEA

if Mixed With Sulphur It
Darkens So Naturally
Nobody Can Tell.

The oldtime mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite possible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy looking at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because it body can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Weyth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustrous appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. TAKE SALTS TO
FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat If You Feel Back-achy or Have Bladder Trouble.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The line is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night. To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to cleanse and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases. W. T. MAROOINED 10 YEARS BUT FINALLY RESCUED

Party of Eskimos Found On a
Lonely Island in Hudson Bay.

Winnipeg, Oct. 30. — Hudson's Bay officials here have just received meagre reports from the north that a party of Eskimos, numbering, it is said, ten persons, were rescued from an island in the mouth of Hudson Bay, upon which they had been marooned for a period of ten years. It appears that the Eskimos were caught off shore on drift ice and carried after long weeks of hardship to the island upon which they were found. This island has been steadfastly avoided by passing vessels because of reefs and magnetic disturbances which affected ships' compasses. It is over 100 miles off the mainland. The Eskimos had lived during all the period of their forced stay on fish and seal meat. Several children were born during the decade of their imprisonment, and some of the party had died. Those who were rescued seemed all to be in good health.

150 CIGARMAKERS
ARE OUT ON STRIKE

Trouble Started Over Dismissal of Ten
Men at Montreal.

[Canadian Press.]
Montreal, Oct. 31. — One hundred and fifty men employed by Andrew Wilson & Co., cigar manufacturers, have struck, and another 500 workers have been thrown out of work here and at the company's plant at Toronto as a result. The trouble was caused by the dismissal of ten men. The men here demand the dismissal of the foreman, who dismissed their fellow-workmen, and their reinstatement. Mr. Wilson, president of the company, states that he has refused the request of the men and will not allow anyone to dictate to him how he is to run his business.

GLENCOE.
Glencoe, Oct. 31.—Sunday, Nov. 2, being missionary Sunday of the Methodist Church, Rev. A. J. Thomas, M. A., B. D., of Forest, will officiate at both services. The wedding took place on Wednesday of Miss Florence McEachern, youngest daughter of John McEachern, Glencoe, to J. A. Whitaker, of Mariette, Mich. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. George W. A. Gordon.

Miss M. McEachern, of the high school staff, attended the wedding of her cousin, Mr. Whitaker, at Forest, on Wednesday. Several local men and John Farrier, of Forest; John H. Langton, of Parkhill, and J. T. Medford, of Toronto, will speak.

FLORENCE.
Florence, Oct. 31.—Miss Anna Graham has left for Grimsby after spending some time with her mother, Mrs. A. J. Gordon. Mrs. McDonald visited her son, Dr. McDonald, in London for a few days recently. Mr. Thompson and children left yesterday for Strathroy, their new home, after a week's visit with Mrs. Thompson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Gordon.

Rev. Kitley will administer the sacrament of the Lord's Supper at the Methodist Church, of the Florence circuit, on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Miss M. J. M. and Mr. George were Thameville visitors yesterday.

Mr. Thompson is confined to the house through illness.

LORD BALLYROT
IN LANGLAND

An acquaintance one day implored me to accompany him to his tailor, where he wished to lodge a protest against the fit of a new garment, don't you know. Let me assure you it was decidedly embarrassing to hear him utter his complaint to the tailor person in this language: "Say, boy, is this here job a fit or just a spasm? Put me hep. Across the back this coat fits like a balloon, but across the chest it's so tight, can't heave my lungs without the buttons flying like a flock of clay pigeons. And, say, one shoulder slants down as if I had been wrecking baggage all my life. Nix on these pawnshop dumplings, make me some human-being togers, see."

THE REBUTION
A MYSTERY STORY OF NEW YORK
By WILL IRWIN
Copyright, The Bobbs-Merrill Company.

They walked a while in silence, then Rosalie stopped. "That's all arranged, then. We'd better be getting back. I'll take a cross-town car. We shouldn't be seen together in the middle of the city."

"Say," said McGee, as they turned, "why don't you ever let me see you between times? Course you must keep away from me now, but after this thing is settled, I want you to come out to lunch and dinner. I might as well be friends."

"After this thing is settled—oh, you're a cop, after all!" said Rosalie. Before McGee could unravel this cryptic, she resumed: "Haven't you ever thought what we're doing—two, gadding about talking of lunch and dinners? You've been a cop too long, I guess. I had a sitting with myself last night. If I succeed—if you make a good case of it, and if I get what I'm after—somebody goes to the chair. That's what we're doing. You don't think of it—you're a man and a cop. But I do."

"Not enough to make you stop?" inquired McGee, regarding her narrowly. "No, but enough to make me sure the right one goes, and enough to make me happen when we get through." Her voice caught on this. McGee looked at her sharply. He never expected swimming. "If you listened to the people they leave behind, as a medium has," she said, "but goodness—she said, 'This life on the flesh-pain is a hard thing.' They were at the car now, and she was about to get out. 'Remember—a purple atom veil in my right hand.'"

Rosalie did not return home at once. Instead she proceeded to that house in the Latin quarter before which she had paused and considered a probably three days before. It is one of Rosalie's peculiarities that she shrouds everything in mystery, but lets out a clue here and there to puzzle the observer and to satisfy her individual sense of humor. I who have been her friend since childhood, I will reveal now—Rosie would have revealed it with a flash of eyes and implies—that this place bore the sign, "M. J. Martin."

"I thought not to let myself go like this," said Betsy-Barbara, relieving her mind at once. "I'm as sure as I can be. At least, I never let Constance see how I feel. But sometimes when I'm alone—"

"I know, dear," said Rosalie, bustling about with water, towels, smelling salts, toilet water, all the restorative kinds of people in this world, devices—the post and rails. And I am posts. But there's times when a person would like to quit and be reborn, and save down and be a rail. Now, let me put this on your face, dearie, and you'll come to dinner as fresh as a cucumber. I've Betsy-Barbara's face with long, motherly strokes.

"But it's such a dreadfully long time to wait," sobbed Betsy-Barbara, her eyes living signs of a clearing shower. "That's what I dare look ahead. And when I think of the trial and the awful strain on Constance—"

"If there ever is a trial," replied Rosalie. "Why he hasn't been here long yet. You don't understand the game or you'd know how much that means. They don't dare indict him with the tiny little bit of evidence they've got. It's long, but the longer the night the brighter the day, say. At last when it comes you have a drop of strength left, is the very time you get strength from somewhere. I've got my own ideas about where it comes from—but there's that's religion, and we don't talk religion. Of course, you're going to let me help you. While Rosalie spoke, she had mechanically handed Betsy-Barbara the atomizer. Mechanical—Betsy-Barbara took it and sprayed her pearly throat with toilet water. Rosalie, again, Rosalie gave her a square of chamomile, white with face powder. Mechanically, Betsy-Barbara passed it over cheeks and nose.

"Thank you—but you have helped a great deal already," said Betsy-Barbara, emerging from these ministrations a delicious, white-faced little clown. "I don't know what I should have done without you." The added as she drew the superfluous powder with little dashing touches of her hands. "I'm a horse for carrying troubles—other people's, I haven't chick or child or husband or relation, which is why I never around any serious worries of my own. I've found enough and to spare of other people's since I took over the remains of this Hanska murder case. I've even been much there, long-standing cases. CONSPIRACY CHARGES

Many Navy Officers Are Under Arrest at Lisbon.

[Canadian Press.]
Lisbon, Oct. 31.—The Government has published a proclamation stating that since the recent uprising and the general unrest have been caused mainly by the religious sentiment of the people against the anti-clerical policy of the Government, further steps for the separation of the state from the church will be suspended. Several naval officers have been arrested, charged with complicity in a revolutionary plot.

LEGAL QUERIES

CONSTANT READER.—My wife deserted my home, and has been gone for ten years, during which time I have not heard directly or indirectly of her. If I married what could the Canadian laws do with me? ANS.—You would not be guilty of bigamy, as the facts stated are a good defence, and otherwise no action could be taken by the law against you, except to treat you as an unmarried man.

DEATHS FROM PLAGUE.

[Canadian Press.]
San Francisco, Oct. 31.—Correspondence from Manila reports two deaths there from bubonic plague, one of them being that of William Crozier, manager of the Daily Bulletin. A number of infected rats have been found and every effort is being made to rid the city of them.
