Capt Lewis deposed that he employed the prisoner to convey the goods to his residence; showed him the stand produced and told him to be careful and not break the glasses. When witness got to the house he found the stand and an ise-pitcher missing; com-plained to the suctioneer. Afterwards, saw plained to the suctioneer. Afterwards saw the prisoner arrested and asked him where the stand was. He said he delivered all that was in the bill. Paid him for his services. Never paid for the stand as it was hot down in the bill and was never delivered to me. The prisoner did not tell me he had the stand in his possession. stand in his possession. conver Island to employ every legilimate means for having the terminus fixed at Esquimalt, should such a thing prove to be at al practicable, he felt that it would be a reat mistake to require the Canadian Government to fix the terminus there now, as a con dition of our en ering the Dominion. Ted

Mr DeCosmos followed, taking very much the same greund, and oxpressing a wish that the question of making the location of the terminus a condition of Confederation, might not be raised at all: He proceeded to point out the great disadvantage under which out railway would have to compete with the North Pacific railway, should the former stop at Burnar Onles. He was in favor of drop-ping the issue about making the terminus question a condition of Confederation, and going in for asking merely that it should be at Victoria and Esquimalt, it found practicable. He moved that "In the opinion of this meeting a railway ought to be constructed to Nanaimo as a part of the transcontinental railway, MIAS HEATI GAV SAETIA Some one having suggested that Esquimalt. should be inserted in the resolution as the terminus, Mr DeCosmos replied, No, let no. place be named as the terminus neither. Es-quimalt, Barelay Sound, Bute Inlet nor Burrard Inlet Liet the survey decide that.
