RACEHORE SAVED ITSELF FROM DEATH
Leaped Overboard in Seattle and Clings to Pile Until Rescued

Seattle, Sept. 18.—After keeping aloft for five hours in the choppy waters of Puget Sound, Raratan, a thoroughbred racehorse, which jumped overboard while being conveyed by steamer to Victoria, was rescued by a party of stowaways under a wharf clinging with its teeth to a pile. The animal on board the steamer became frightened and leaped into the water. When last seen, he was headed for the West Seattle shore, and a searching party, after cruising about in a dense fog, gave him up for lost. The horse appeared well-nigh exhausted when rescued, but will apparently be as sound as ever. There is no means of telling how long he had the assistance of the pile in keeping aloft.

Building Permits Issued.
Yesterday building permits were issued to J. J. Sparrow for a dwelling to be erected on North Park street to cost $1,200; to Messrs. Cameron & Clark for a dwelling on Fairfield road to cost $3,000, and to S. Cruickshanks for a dwelling on Hillside avenue to cost $2,590.

PROGRAMME READY FOR EXHIBITION

More Entries and Better Attractions Than in Past Victoria Shows

(From Saturday's Daily)
There are few, if any, matters of importance to be decided in connection with next week's exhibition before Tuesday, the opening day. All preparations have been made and the business which will occupy the time and attention of J. A. Smart, the secretary, and his assistants from this date forth is attention to those multitudinous details which always crop up in the arrangement of a show the size of that to take place here. A few scattered entries are coming to hand every hour, some for the horse show classes, others for general stock, and a few for the commercial fruit and the various special departments to be features of the interior display. Those which can be handled without inconvenience are being accepted but many have been turned away. As a result of the last lot of entry forms it is found that several of the competitors of this year are doubtless the same of those of last fall while there are none which do not show a marked improvement on comparison.

Hive of Activity
Although the secretary has not yet moved his office from the city to the grounds he spends much of his time there. The interior of the main building is a hive of activity. From an early hour this morning the exhibitors were out in force preparing the industrial exhibits in order that all may be complete before 8 o'clock on Tuesday morning when the gates, for the first time, will be thrown open to the general public. The agricultural association officials, in letting the space for displays, made it one of the conditions that everything should be in readiness before the commencement of the fair in order that the confusion, which usually has marked Tuesday would not be in evidence on this occasion. This is believed to account for the exceptionally prompt manner in which the majority of the merchants concerned have begun to make preparations.

Attractions Arranged
The list of attractions is complete. From 10 o'clock in the forenoon until late in the evening there will be something in progress to entertain. In the morning the judging starts. In the afternoon of every day there will be novel balloon ascensions and horse races. Some description while on Wednesday will open the grand meet which, it is expected, will be the finest track event ever brought off in Victoria. At eight the horse show will be under way in the pavilion. Different bands will entertain the people throughout the week. Among those engaged are the City band of Victoria, the Sixth D.C.O.R. band of Vancouver, Wagner's band of Seattle and the noted serenaders, the Cornet band of Seattle.

FUMIGATION STATIONS HERE AND VANCOUVER

Dr. Fagan Sends in Account of Regulations Agreed Upon With Dominion

(From Friday's Daily)
Acting on the instructions of the Hon. Dr. Fagan, provincial health officer, has succeeded in coming to an arrangement with the Dominion authorities in respect to the treatment of immigrants arriving in British Columbia in regard to precautionary measures from plague stricken ports, and to the handling of such of them as have been allowed to land but fall ill within two weeks after their arrival.

It has been held by the Dominion government, although to some extent a dual system of control exists in regard to health and sanitary regulations, that a thorough understanding seemed advisable to prevent difficulties from cropping up in the administration of the immigration regulations. This Dr. Fagan, whose report was received yesterday, appears to have succeeded in accomplishing.

He was sent east by Dr. Young with several objects in view, and in furtherance of this part of his instructions he has had interviews with Dr. Montzambert, the Dominion health officer at Ottawa, and the Hon. Frank Oliver, and as a result of these conferences it has been decided to establish fumigation stations at Vancouver and Victoria for immigrants.

It is further arranged that in future boats arriving in British Columbia from plague stricken ports will be fumigated on arrival, with the exception of the regular passenger steamers. These will be fumigated once a month, and a certificate of fumigation will be sent to the captain so that he may be able to satisfy the local authorities that his ship has complied with the regulations.

It has also been decided to establish a quarantine station at Prince Rupert in addition to the precautions already taken at that place. It was pointed out to Mr. Oliver and Mr. Scott, chief of the immigration department that a great deal of confusion existed in connection with the immigration regulations in British Columbia, occasioning a good deal of suffering among the Indian community, as well as being a source of considerable precaution for the provincial health authorities. The Dominion officials recognized that as these persons were admitted into Canada under Dominion regulations and that the province had no control over them, it was but fair that the Dominion should bear the resultant expense. Consequently regulations will be put in force by the Dominion government, providing that Hindus suffering from consumption, who have not been two years in the country, will be deported to their native country at the expense of the Dominion. This regulation, while primarily put in force to apply to the Hindus, will also include immigrants of other nationalities who are suffering from consumption, and who are unable to pay for their passage.

Immigrants who have been less than two years in the country and who have become a public charge for any reason besides that of accident, may also be deported.

Another new regulation which is fair to the province is the rule that henceforward immigrants who have been less than two years in the country, and who have entered a hospital and are unable to pay for their passage by the Dominion government at the rate of $1 a day less any amount which the provincial government may allocate for this purpose. Hindus suffering from consumption, who have been two years in the country, but now all the hospitals will be notified to send in their bills to the Dominion in such cases. It was also intimated that applications for payment for services already rendered in such cases will be considered, and Dr. Young is circulating the hospitals in the matter.

In one matter Dr. Fagan was less successful. He had an interview with Sir William Laurier in which he sought to interest the premier in the new satirism at Transgully, but to quote the words of Dr. Fagan's report: "It is regret to say that the suggestions were coldly received and emphatically turned down."

Before going to Ottawa Dr. Fagan attended the session of the American Public Health association at Winnipeg, at which he read a paper on the sociological conditions in the middle west. He was well received and a number of eastern cities on both sides of the line looking into the methods of milk inspection. Among the places he visited were Chicago, St. Louis, Toronto, and he writes that he has received a number of useful suggestions to impart to Dr. Young and the ministers of agriculture when he returns.

Next week Dr. Fagan will be in Washington, D.C., where he will attend the meetings of the International Sanitary Congress, and during that time there will be a session of the principal reasons of Dr. Fagan having been to make the trip, were the latter's anxiety that British Columbia should not be abreast of the times in such important matters as milk inspection and other branches of modern public sanitary science, and he is gratified to learn from Dr. Fagan's report that his visit to the east has been so profitably employed in these important respects.

(From Saturday's Daily)
Searching for Father.
The provincial police department has been requested by Mrs. Anna Sophia Lawson, 75 Balfour road, Seattle, Liverpool, to endeavor to locate the present whereabouts of her father, Asmus Cleanssen, a Dane, who was last heard of in British Columbia, but whose daughter has not been seen for 37 years.

Meals at Exhibition.
A special effort is being made by the management of the forthcoming provincial exhibition to provide for the serving of first class meals at the cafe to be opened at the grounds on Tuesday. In the past there has been some complaint on the part of the exhibitors that it was impossible to procure appetizing and well-served refreshments while at the show. It is stated that this year the refreshments will be as good as can be obtained in the city for a similar charge and that, therefore, those attending will be able to count on the morning and afternoon day without fear of discomfort in this respect.

Hilarious Indians.
The residents of the Rocky Bay district are kept awake nights these days because of the sound of the grinding of graphophones and the shouts of hilarity from Indian campments at Shoal Bay and Gonzales Point. The natives have taken up a temporary residence at these spots in order that they may be convenient to their favorite dancing resort. This season and off Trial Island. It is reported that both the cohee and spring salmon are being caught in large numbers in that locality.

PASS MANY WORKS
Streets Committee Decides to Go on With Number of Improvements

The streets, bridges and sewers committee attended strictly to business at the regular weekly meeting last night and a large number of street improvements were passed. The remaining of the streets committee met at once and on Monday night Alderman Henderson will introduce a by-law regarding the improvement of Cook street, to lay permanent sidewalks on both sides of Belcher street from Vancouver street to Cook street, and on the south side of Simcoe street from Montreal street to Dallas road. The sewer for Simcoe street will be extended from Oswego street to Montreal street and a sewer will be constructed from Cook street to Dallas road. The water commissioner reported that to construct the water main along Scott and Shakespeare streets would require 4,500 feet of four inch pipe and cost $3,500. As there are no stations at Vancouver and Victoria for immigrants, the water commissioner advised that the work should not be done.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH IS VERDICT OF THE JURY

Recommendation That Greater Care Should Be Taken in Blasting Operations

(From Saturday's Daily)
That Charles Dymond came to his death through accident was the verdict rendered yesterday afternoon by the coroner's jury which investigated the circumstances surrounding the death of the young teamster who was fatally injured on Thursday morning on Trutch street by being struck on the head by a piece of tree root hurled through the air by a blast of giant powder, during blasting operations conducted by city workmen. To the verdict was added a rider that the jury considered that no blasting should be allowed within the city limits unless steps had first been taken to cover the blast as far as to prevent missiles being hurled through the air.

The information secured at the inquest added a few important facts to those already published. Alfred Leech, a city workman, testified to Dymond coming up near the spot where the blasting was being done, and to having warned the young man against the danger of flying debris. When the explosion occurred and pieces of wood were seen flying in Dymond's direction, the workmen shouted to the latter to warn him but it was too late. Dymond was then standing about 150 yards from the spot where the charge had been exploded.

William Burman, a rock driller, also told of Dymond having been warned to watch out for the flying debris, but at the time he was struck he was looking in an opposite direction to where the charge had been fired. Witnesses did not know whether care had been taken to cover the blast but he did not think so.

James Pope, foreman of the gang of city workmen employed in running the road from Richardson street to Fairfield road, stated that he had had experience with blasting work for fifty years and for over twenty-five years had been an employee of the city. The foreman of the sidewalk construction gang working on Trutch street had asked to have a stump blasted out and two sticks of powder had been used. He told two of the men to go along the road in either direction to warn passers-by. After connecting the wires to the charge he had called out "Fire" and the charge exploded. He had retired to a distance of about fifty feet before setting off the charge, a safe distance, he believed. He did not see Dymond struck and did not know if he saw some of the men gathered around someone on the ground. In rock blasting the blast is always covered, but in this particular instance he had not thought it necessary to take such precautions. It was always left to his men to warn the public, and he took steps to protect persons from injury, as he considered necessary. The charge used was a comparatively small one and only intended to remove the earth from around the roots so that the stump could be cut out.

William Symonds, employer of the deceased, and John Witty also gave brief evidence, the former as to the brief evidence, the latter concerning the warning given by the workmen to those nearby when the blast was about to be exploded.

Another point in summing up the evidence, pointed out that in order to hold the corporation guilty, should it be considered that the city workmen were in any way to blame for Dymond's death, it would be necessary to show that there had been gross negligence, and he did not consider that the evidence adduced showed such as to proceed in legal difficulties.

Trustee McNeill doubted if the board could attend to the Chinese boys attending city schools. The separate school idea was doubtless a good one and seemed to find favor with the Chinese parents, but the board, unless it moved very slowly, might find itself in legal difficulties. Trustee Staneland declared that the question had been hanging fire so long that perhaps after all the very best thing would be a law suit in which the board's status in the matter could be determined once and for all. Trustee Ritchie, in the opinion of the board could form a junior class for the Chinese scholars.

It was pointed out by Trustee McNeill that many Chinese children had previously over the school age of 16, had applied for admission to the schools. This permission, he felt, should be confined to the Chinese children, though it would probably be a difficult matter to say just how old the children are though doubtless the parents would be able to furnish the date of their school age whatever might be the fact.

What the Chinese Want
A lengthy communication from Hon. Fred Peters relative to the matter of a separate school for the Chinese was submitted and filed. It was as follows:
Re admission of Chinese students to the public schools in the city of Victoria.

Since I had the pleasure of being present at a meeting of the board of school trustees, I have seen the published account of what took place at that meeting after I had retired. From that report, I notice that the committee who were appointed to report upon this matter, were disposed to think that all the Chinese students, those at the present time attending the schools and those who have not yet been admitted, should be placed in one school separate from the white children, quite irrespective of whether they belonged to the primary classes or to the higher grades.

I further notice that on the report being brought before the meeting it was suggested by the chairman and by others that such a wholesale segregation could not be made, but that the Chinese should be placed in separate classes. This question having come up before the board, I deem it my duty to point out that it never occurred to me that there was any intention whatever to attempt to alter the status of Chinese students in the higher grades, or of those at present actually attending the classes, and anything that I have heretofore said was always under that impression.

I respectfully submit that all that is required is that a separate school be established for the education of Chinese children in the primary class, and that all Chinese children who have gone through their first reader should be admitted to the general public schools.

If the board decide that all Chinese children should be compelled to go to the Chinese school, the grade they were in, it would have the effect of greatly putting back Chinese students who are now in the higher grades, and against whom no complaints have, or can be made, besides which it such a separate school is established, for Chinese in all grades, it will certainly require the appointment of quite a staff of teachers, whereas if the primary classes alone is sent to the Chinese school, probably one teacher would be sufficient. At all events, not nearly so many teachers would be required as under the other proposition.

The establishment of a separate school for the education of the Chinese in the elementary class will be acceptable to the Chinese as a whole, providing their attendance at such school does not deprive them from entering the higher classes in the public schools later on, but the Chinese will not be satisfied with a general school for Chinese only for all classes.

It was suggested by the chairman of the board at the meeting at which I was present, that some years ago the chief superintendent of education, at such school does not deprive them from entering the higher classes in the public schools later on, but the Chinese will not be satisfied with a general school for Chinese only for all classes.

It was suggested by the chairman of the board at the meeting at which I was present, that some years ago the chief superintendent of education, at such school does not deprive them from entering the higher classes in the public schools later on, but the Chinese will not be satisfied with a general school for Chinese only for all classes.

Now, if you establish a separate school for the primary classes, you are giving the grounds that it is advisable that they should be kept separate from the general mass of students until they acquire a sufficient knowledge of the English language, and that they take full advantage of the teaching in the schools, you would not in any way infringe upon the opinion given by the Chinese children and their parents, because you would be establishing a separate school for a temporary purpose and it would not be based upon other religious, racial, or color, but the separation being merely for the purpose of convenience and the well-being not only of the Chinese students, but also of the other students in the public schools.

I venture to hope that you will take steps to have this communication laid before the committee to whom the matter has been referred, and also before the board. I remain, your sincerely,
FREDERICK PETERS.

School Board Finishes
Some discussion took place over the question of Chinese students who submitted a statement showing the state of the various accounts. There is now at the disposal of the board between $6,000 and $7,000 with which to meet all demands. Several of the schools require repairs and a new frame building of two rooms will be erected on the Centennial school grounds to relieve the congestion at that school. This building to cost from $1,500 to $1,800, while the balance due the Victoria West school, some $2,327, has yet to be paid.

Trustee McNeill declared that the board could spend $250,000 on school buildings in Victoria and yet not spend a cent on the maintenance of education, is far behind the city's needs.

The international yacht races come to Victoria in 1910. Let the local club be in position by that time to make the meet a record one in the annals of yachting in the northwest.

NEW VARIETY OF GAME RELEASED

Sportsmen Warned to Look Out for Hungarian Partridge

A warning has been issued by A. Bryan Williams, provincial game warden, to sportsmen of this part of Vancouver Island to the effect that Hungarian partridges have been released and that to kill, or to be found in possession of them, is illegal. The notice reads as follows: "Notice is hereby given that Hungarian partridges have been released in this vicinity. It is illegal to shoot, hunt or have these birds in possession at any time. Hunters are warned that partridges are much larger than a quail and are of brown color, and very slightly resemble a small willow grouse. Hunters are warned that they must use particular care not to mistake those birds for the willow grouse."

In reference to this matter A. E. Tow of this city, who was instrumental in the importation of the partridges, stated that the foregoing precautionary measure had been taken owing to the close approach of the sportsmen to the birds, and the necessity of sportsmen being aware that a few such birds were about in order that they might avoid killing them in the course of their sport. The partridges were last February and March numbers of partridges were let loose near Duncan, while fifteen were distributed at the Victoria station and the Cement works, Seaside. It was his intention to give others in his possession their freedom in the near future.

GAME WARDEN LEAVES
W. H. Heald Transferred to Alberni—Railway Company Will Not Replace Him

W. H. Heald, the E. & N. game warden, has been transferred to Alberni, and will not be replaced by his new duties at north to take up his new duties at the first of the month. His duties there will be more varied than they have been here, as the change is in the nature of a promotion. It is understood that Mr. Heald will not be replaced as the railway company thinks that the government should assume the expense and responsibility of preserving the game and seeing that the law is enforced.

While here Mr. Heald has fulfilled his duties to the entire satisfaction of all sportsmen, and their good wishes to accompany him on his new post. The government has not considered the question of appointing a game warden in his place.

Rosh Hoshona
Next Friday Rosh Hoshona, the Jewish new year, will be celebrated. The day, which is the first day of the 5,800th year, like all Jewish holidays, this day starts at sunrise and ends at sunset. There are ten holidays between Rosh Hoshona and Yom Kippur, which falls on Oct. 6.

allowed to stand until further information of just what the board was able to do had been secured from Dr. Alexander Robinson, superintendent of education. Several points might arise in connection with the setting aside of a separate school for Chinese children, and it would be well to consider what the possible results of such a step would be. The board would have to be very careful how it proceeded. The fact too that the residents in the vicinity of Rock Bay school were objecting to that school being set aside for Chinese solely would indicate that the question of a locality would prove troublesome.

Trustee McNeill doubted if the board could attend to the Chinese boys attending city schools. The separate school idea was doubtless a good one and seemed to find favor with the Chinese parents, but the board, unless it moved very slowly, might find itself in legal difficulties.
