WOLVERINE CAUGHT

Rare Animal on Vancouver Island Trapped at Horne Lake—Wild Man is Also Seen

Nanaimo, Dec. 24.—William Buss, the well known resident of Qualicum, brought a wolverine to the city yesterday which he caught in a trap at Horse lake. Wolverines are extremely rare on Vancouver Island, and probably the majority of the oldest hunters here would also the three world.

rare on Vancouver Island, and probably the majority of the oldest hunters have would along that there was such an animal on the island, although they are quite plentiful on the mainiand. Mr. Buss is sending the animal to Mr. Kermode, curator of the provincial museum, Victoria. This is the second animal of the kind that has been seen in this district in many years. The wolverine belongs to the cat family, it is a very cunning beast, and when cornered will fight tenactionsly for its life. They are the despair of trappers where they are plentiful, being very destructive. The animal is known by the appellation of the "devil" among the French-Canadian trappers.

The innost sensational part of Mr. Buss' story of the capture of the wolverine is that he states he saw the famous wild man of Vancouver island near the trap, who fied with amazing rapidity when he approached. Mr. Buss does not treat the wild man story with the levity generally used with this story, but firmly believes in the wild man, and is as firmly convinced that he saw him on this last trip. He describes him in the conventional way of all those who have seen him.

The Wellington Colliery company broke all records yesterday at the Cumberland mines, when over two thousand tons of coal were hoisted from their four mines. The output of number four mines alone was 1,240 tons.
