

MUST BE SELF-GOVERNING

SIR C. H. TUPPER AND THE COPY-RIGHT ACT.

The Minister of Justice speaks hopefully of the future of Canada—Citizens' Day witnesses the largest gathering since the opening of the Fair—the speaking in the ring.

Despite the threatening weather Citizens' Day at the Fair was a big one, all the world and his wife being there, apparently.

The closing of the stores was not very general, owing to the numerous holidays of late, but the attendance was fully as large as in previous years.

The chief guest of the day was Sir Charles H. Tupper, Minister of Justice, who was escorted to the grounds by a following composed of Acting Mayor Shaw, Robert Birminghams, W. D. Macpherson, Dr. J. O. Orr, Dr. R. B. Orr, Dr. R. A. Pyne, Dr. Beattie Neill, A. W. Ross, M.P., Ald. Sheppard, Scott and Hubbard, R. J. Shore and Capt. Thompson.

Sir Charles Tupper's important delivery at the directors' luncheon he sat at President Withrow's right hand, and in response to the toast of the Cabinet and Commons delivered a most important address.

The youthful Minister of Justice said he had struggled for many years to take advantage of the kindly hospitality of the Board and to be present on the occasion of this magnificent Fair, but had always been prevented by circumstances over which he had no control. Even this year he had been unable to attend on the opening, and had almost thought he would have to wait for another year.

He had been informed that last week his colleagues had ventured on dangerous grounds and had placed themselves in a general way to aid the Exhibition. Up to this time nothing definite as to the shape and form of the Federal Parliament might assume had been announced. He could say nothing improperly that no man in the Government had a greater desire to assist the Exhibition than he. He did not hesitate to say that he would give it in the Cabinet all the assistance in his power. There were difficulties in the way of any effort to recognize the locality at the expense of any other.

He shared those difficulties, but he believed that much could be done with out opposition from other parts of the Dominion. He did believe that there were ways in which the Government could assist the board without offence to any one and they could rely on his aid.

The speaker went on to tell those present why he believed the Exhibition to be of great national importance. Not only did the exhibits excite healthy rivalry between provinces, but when you give public men, men prominent or humble personally, but still holding respectable positions a stimulus to claim great things for Canada, when you stir them up to do something for the nation's advancement, you are rendering a grand service to the country.

The spirit of hope abroad in the country today. We have good news from the west and good news for Toronto west points east of it. The North-west Territories could not prosper without our feeling it. Taking one the whole country over, having traveled across the continent, he had seen the whole country and he had seen the whole country and he had seen the whole country.

He was a loyal subject of Her Majesty, most of those around him were loyal subjects of Her Majesty. Our loyalty had stood the test. We had been subjected to misgovernment by Her Majesty's ministers in the past, and might in the future. We must remember that we had not only the rights of 5,000,000 citizens to consider, but of millions and millions of subjects. If the ties between Canada and the Mother Country were to be cemented and made stronger our rights of self-government must be respected.

In regard to the copyright question, we must know whether the usual will of the House of Commons is to be respected. He believed that Mr. Hamlin, great man as he was, would be equal to the occasion. It was not a question of right, but of expediency. We have a right to misgovern ourselves if we choose, either in regard to copyright or in regard to tariff matters, which would be glad to see our tariff laws reversed. We must be given the right to work out the burden of our responsibilities.

The demand of the House of Commons from 1858 to the present time on a matter respecting the rights of the people kind were springing it all over the West, and all the world and his wife were there, apparently.

Mr. Chamberlain's Aid. Therefore he hailed with pleasure the news that the new Colonial Secretary was going to give us the advantage of his great ability in the amicable settlement of the difficulty.

Mr. A. W. Ross, M.P., for Selkirk, was the next speaker. He congratulated the directors and said he could recall the Exhibition so long ago as 1854, when the Provincial Exhibition was held in London. Lord Elgin was present, and on that day he saw a locomotive for the first time, the Great Western having just entered London. Looking back to the immediate progress of the country, he said that N.W.T., 14 years ago, was composed of 2 cents; today it is a great country, the Territories, and this year had a great exhibition. Fine enterprises of the kind were springing it all over the West, and all the world and his wife were there, apparently.

Acting Mayor Shaw, the next speaker, congratulated those present on Sir Charles Tupper's presence and said that he had uttered the words of hope he had uttered. He advised all who would see the country proper to keep up the spirit of "Canada, Canada."

He liked Jeffrey also spoke, and said he liked to hear words of loyalty. He liked the breadth that had characterized the utterances of the previous speakers. If anything were desirable it was to get rid of our geographical and racial differences. His only hope was that we might talk too much loyalty, that it should exist more in profession than in action.

Other speakers were Mr. W. D. Macpherson, Mr. Henback, director of the Manitoba Exposition, and Mr. L. Wolverson, representing the fruit exhibitors. The last gentleman spoke of the great impetus given to the industry by development of the British market for Canadian fruit. The Government had supplied them with opportunities of cold storage in transporting delicate fruits. He had a letter from Commissioner Larke which showed that there might be a good market for Canadian apples in Sydney, N.S.W. The speaker also announced that a Russian commissioner, who is examining Canadian methods of fruit growing, would be at the Exhibition this week.

THE SAENGERFEST.

The First Day of the Great Canadian Saengerbund Singing Societies. Concert in Massey Hall.

Yesterday was the first day of the grand Saengerfest of the Canadian Saengerbund Singing Societies. The band of the Royal Grenadiers, by the Liederkreis Society of Toronto and marched in procession, headed by the band of the Royal Grenadiers, to the Liederkreis Hall, Richmond-street west, where an address of welcome was given by Mr. Karl Zeller.

A large audience, which completely filled the lower part of Massey Hall and also the first gallery, gathered at 8 o'clock to listen to the Volkslied, or song of the people of Germany, participated in by the Concordia Society of Berlin, who gave a fine rendering of "Ost- und West-Heimath." The Germania Society of Hamilton; the Harmonia Society of Waterloo and the Liederkreis Society of Montreal. The soloists were Frauella Adele Strauss and Mr. E. W. Schuch, who were accompanied by the Liederkreis Society of Toronto.

The piano accompaniments were ably played by Miss W. E. Hackett, and Mrs. E. W. Schuch. In the absence of Mayor Kennedy, Alderman Shaw made a capital speech, in which he lauded the good citizenship of our German fellow-citizens. The only thing he regretted was that there were not more Germans amongst us. He hoped, however, that the existing state of things in the world would soon be so far removed that Germans from far and near might enjoy those privileges which they desire and will have. The speech of the director, Mr. Fritz Vogt, was a masterpiece of eloquence, and was applauded to the echo, and his combined efforts under Mr. Fritz Vogt's direction were a masterpiece of eloquence.

Special mention must be made of the rendering of "March to Batavia" with incidental solos by Frauella Strauss and Mr. Schuch, and piano accompaniment by Mr. Hewlett and Mrs. Hackett, which, in a pleasing manner, came in alternately. Mrs. Hackett for the soloists and Mr. Hewlett for the chorus. Mr. Schuch was never in better voice. His first number, "The Trumpeter of Sackheim," received an enthusiastic reception, and Mr. Schuch's rendering of "In der Kuehle" was a masterpiece of eloquence.
