

ULULATUS.

Mets ta roche, Baptiste !

"Bini" in Latin means two.—No misnomer, eh?

The recent influx of Fourth Grade students into the large study hall caused quite a flutter in commercial matters. That dandy from Cataraqui has already bought ten more shares in the establishment and comports himself accordingly. "Berty" dear, stays right with him, though

The Advocate of Agricultural Extension introduced a motion to exclude Fish from the Oyster Stew.

This fine spring weather has induced "Bob" to enter the yard without his blanket and at "Duck-on-the-Rock" he stands unrivalled as a keen and crafty player.

During the late spell of wet weather Mick was with good cause often heard to repeat that old-timer: "It's a terror how the weather keeps."

We are pleased to learn of the Actor's B. B. nine being organized, but if they want to make emmay success we'd advise them to put Tony in the box.

The lacrosse team is on the road to rapid development this spring. With "Baldy" as point, "Roork" as cover, and the old reliable Ned between the flags the defence will be an impregnable one and especially so when that "sweater" is laid aside.

Comments on their familiarity pass by unheeded now, and it is about time they were used to them. It is announced that their honeymoon trip will be enjoyed next month on the P. P. J. Ry. and Richmond stage. This may serve as a caution to some one.

The official scorer seemed to be rather at a loss in calling out the names of the visiting team at the last baseball match. We would suggest that he be given a dictionary of French nomenclature when our boys play the Hull team again.

Slightly "ostentaneous" these warm days, eh, Joe?

The latest echo from the campus:

D——, D——, ever so jolly,
Always laughing, chuck full of glee,
Happy, happy, as happy can be,
D——, Dick and The Joker.

Perhaps "the party" has forgotten enough about football to set up three or four men in the business, yet since that game the other day "Hardy" thinks that he should still know how to keep his man on side.

Since the Junior Department's "lamp of light went out, its mortal remains have lost their peculiarly striking bel air.
