

loamy soils, but in sandy soils the yield was about the usual average.

Wheat—This crop was somewhat affected by the fly and rust, and did not come up to the average of last year.

Oats—This crop far exceeds that of last year both in straw and grain.

Barley—This crop being a good average crop, exceeds that of last year both in quantity and quality.

Buckwheat—This crop has been entirely destroyed on most of the low land farms owing to a heavy frost on the first of August, but what was sown on the upland, has yielded well.

Potatoes—This crop was in many instances cut down by the early frost in August, thereby retarding the growth of the crop very materially, but on the whole turned out a paying crop.

Green Crops—Turnips, cabbages, and carrots turned out wonderful results where particular attention had been paid to the culture of the crop.
