DEAR FRIENDS,—Your kind address is very gratifying to me. Theartily thank you for it. It is very gratifying, and encouraging, to be welcomed back to my Diocese, with such cordial expressions of a street of this success. Nothing like this can be shown any where else in our country. What is the secret of this success!

The secret lies in faith working love,—in the deep heart-felt conviction of the truth of the Gospel, as taught in the Church, and of that inseparable alliance between cordial expressions of affection and respect, by the lay members of my flock resident in St. John's, and to be certified by you that

Let us hope, and pray, that the great mercies already shewn as may be pledges and earnests that Almighty God, for His holy house, for the honour of His name, and the increase of all spiritual graces and blessings amongst us. Our christian (Church et al., 2011) and the first succeed any where; and it will be the duty of the Church et al., 2011 and 11 and 12 and 14 and 15 and 16 af all spiritual graces and blessings amongst us. Our christian friends at home have furnished means of commencing the projected, and much-needed, Cathedral and mother church of the Dioceses, however, the projected of the Dioceses have been considered to the day of the Dioceses have been considered to the day of the construction of the Dioceses have been considered to the day of the the Diocese: but they entertain no thought of taking from us, and the generations after us, the duty and privilege of completing, adorning, and enlarging it. No christian, no pious person, will choose to sacrifice unto the Lord his God of that which costs him nothing. (See 2 Sam. xxiv. 24.) Is it much to expect that a tith. pect that a tithe of what will be expended in rebuilding dwellings and stores, be devoted to God in restoring and adorning His holy house? But let us especially hope and pray, that while the material temple is cared for, and carried on, we also as lively stones may build up a spiritual house, to offer up spiritual sacrifices, acceptable to God by Jesus Christ. (1 St. Peter, ii. 5.)

Only one painful circumstance is connected with your adnecessity laid upon me of reading and noticing the etter to which you refer, published in an English newspaper, up to this very day I had neither seen nor heard it. It was of course mentioned to me by friends in England, but I purposely applied to the supposely applied to the suppos Posely avoided and refused to read it. As I would not be supposed to regard with affected, or unbecoming, indifference a document, which you justly view in a very serious and offensive light, it is due to you that I state some of my reasons for so treatment.

1. Whatever might be the nature of the charge, I consider the charge that the charge the ered that I should furnish its best refutation by pursuing, silently and steadily, the great work I had undertaken, for the glory of God, and the love of you. I knew not how much I might be troubled, and hindered, if I descended to newspaper trimination or controversy. I was doing a great work, and I could not come down (Neb. vi. 3.)

The shows having been read by G. B. Garrett, Esq., all of them, we believe, deacons, left the city of New York, to carry the Gospel in the Church into what were then the wilds of Wisconsin. We have great reason indeed to thank God for the succour and sympathy so bountifully extended to us by our chiristian incacas at home. Their bounty was ready before hand: it was unnecessary to seek and solicit it. Their hearts were enlarged, and their hands opened, towards us, in a degree, which, though their hands opened, towards us, in a degr the two; which we have heard happily compared to the connexion between the candle and the candlestick, of Throng of grace. DEATH OF THE DUKE OF NORTHUMBERLAND .- It is with sincere regret we announce the demise of the above respected Nobleman. His Grace expired on Thursday last, at his seat ciery to extend the benefits so long and largely vouchsafed, by their liberality, to this Colony; and I confidently believe the society and Church were never served by more faithful and devoted to the second by the second wife, third daughter of Peter Burrell, Esq., of Beckenham, in the county of Kent. For the last few years his Grace has interfered but little with public affairs, though during his lifetime he filled many very important offices. This position the wome Ducke maintained with a truly princely magnificence. The robes and jewellery which he wore alone cost upwards of 5,000 guineas, and, with a characteristic manificence, having insisted on defraying his own expenses, he was, on his return, presented by the government with a sword, valued at 1,000 guineas.

The next great appointment held by his Grace was that of Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, under the Wellington Administration, in 1828-30. By an outlay of several thou-sands from his private purse, he established an institution for relieving the distressed poor of Dublin, which still flourishes a monument of his Grace's disinterested generosity. The Noble Duke returned to England with the good wishes of all classes of the Irish people, especially the poor, his year of office having, as it is generally believed, cost him upwards of £100,000. It should be stated that he declined to enter on the office except on the understanding that the usual salary of £25,000 should be reduced to £20,000. In 1840 the Noble Duke was elected Chancellor of the Uni-

In Februray, 1844, his Grace openly avowed his disapproval of the proceedings of the Anti-Corn-law League, and about the same time joined the Agricultural Protection Society, but on the appearance of Sir Robert Peel's Free-trade measure last year, a change took place in the Noble Duke's views, and the the appearance of Sir Robert Peel's Free-trade measure last year, a change took place in the Noble Duke's views, and the

A New COMET.—Last Saturday evening, Mr. Hind discovered a telescopic comet in Cepheus. The comet is a faint nebulosity, with a slight condensation in the centre, though no po-

CURIOUS PHENOMENON.—A letter from Ulm (Wurtemburg) of the 8th inst., says, that between the hours of seven and eight o'clock on the morning of that day, the temperature being clear and cold, and the sun having risen with more than usual splendour, the population witnessed the effects of a mirage, a phenodour, the population witnessed the effects of a mirage, a phenomenon unknown in those parts. From the steeple of the Catbedral a narrow ray, of a deep colour, rose almost in a vertical line, with a slight inclination of the upper extremity towards the west. Close to this ray the upper half of the steeple of the Cathedral, with its many and delicate gothic ornaments, was beautifully reflected. The reflection was as perfect as if it had been taken by been taken by a daguerreotype. Eight times the mirage van-ished and re-appeared, lasting each time for about the space of three or four minutes, with various shades of colouring, varying rom light to dark.

About two mouths back, in referring to the fact that a great reportion of the influx of bullion which took place to this ountry during 1846, and consisted of gold coin from Russia we mentioned that this had not only entirely ceased, but that there were symptoms of the commencement of an opposite ac-, tion. GOVERNMENT SUPPLY OF SEED POTATOES FOR IRELAND. The Cork Examiner contains the following important letter om Messrs. Keeling and Hunt, who have been commissioned by Government to look out in the different grain markets of the world for a supply of seed. The letter is addressed to Mr. D. Kenhealy, of Cork:—

The 'Azores' have likewise stopped the shipment, the drain of Indian corn from that quarter compelling the authorities to fall back upon the crop of potatoes, to prevent a dearth of provisions themselves, in proof of which the shipment of Indian corn is now stopped as well.

There was a tone of superclifous flippancy, united with no inconsiderable post-poolity, in Mr. Watson's speech, but ill-adapted to inspire confidence or win support:—

He knew what ideas the word "Jesuit" carried along with it to many persons in this country; he knew the alarm which the existence of such a body was calculated to create in many quarters, and how, as on the lustings at Birmingham, it had the effect of frightening old ladies. (A laugh.) But the House would not allow itself to be carried away by such fancies as these. Jesuits had no doubt done some harm, but they had

Fire.—About a quarter past five yesterday (Sunday) morning the lamplighter, on his way to St. George's Church, discovered that the back-premises attached to the residence in John street, of Mr. G. A. Barber, (Proprietor of this Journal) were on fire; the alarm having been giving the family were providentially did. tially enabled to make their escape unburt; but so rapidly did the flames communicate with, and force their way into the house that Mrs. and Mr. Barber, and the children, had barely time to get out of doors in almost, literally, nothing more than their night-dresses. Owing to the entire worthlessness of the waterworks, the engine could render no help in staying the progress of the flames, which in an incredibly short space reduced the building and its contents to ashes. By this calamity Mr. B. has lost almost all he had in the house—Furniture; Library of Boyles, Westign supposed, Chine, Chee, See, House and family Books; Weating apparel; China, Glass, &c.; House and family linen; and many other necessaries of domestic use, &c. &c. —for, with the exception of a few articles rescued from the par-lour, everything else was consumed. The fire also communicated to the stable, where a horse and a cow were burnt to death before help could reach them, together with a dog-cart, sleigh, harness, saddles, &c. Unfortunately but a comparatively small proportion of the heavy loss was insured. The house which was owned by the Hon. Mr. Caley, was we believe, fully insured. The adjoining premises, occupied by J. L. Robinson, Esq. also suffered considerable damage, but the flames did not penetrate further than a portion of the upper story. It is not known how the fire, originated, as the greatest care had been observed in going round the premises over night to see that all was right.—

It is with unfeigned sorrow that we announce the decease of Colonel Sir Charles Chichester, commanding the 81st Regi-ment in Garrison here—which melancholy event took place vesterday (Sunday) afternoon, after an illness of only four days, -Thid.

MR. MOONEY,-This gentleman has again visted Toronto, and again has given a concert to its unenlightened citizens.— On the last occasion of Mr. Mooney's visit here, we had occasion to speak in no measured terms of the views he sought to disseminate among the loyal subjects of her Majesty in Western Canada. He seems, however, to have learned a proper lesson, or at least to tell his tale in a less offensive may or at least to tell his tale in a less offensive manner. But to our task. Tuesday evening must have satisfied all present that Mr. Mooney has no pretensions whatever to be considered a vocalist. His voice is weak, and lacks the richness so essential for a proper delivery of the songs of his native land. But, voice or no voice, taste or sans taste, Mr. Mooney had evidently visited the store over which is suspended a sign, "Renommer pour les coupé des cheveaux," and was well begloved beside. The best part of the whole affair, however, was the song in which Braham was at one period so justly celebrated, "the Bay of Biscay." On arriving at the words,

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever ings, often the most acute, were always borne with a degree of patience and submission which won for him the affection of all those with whom he came in contact. His death was at the last unexpected: he had been suffering from an attack of insping and prayer the Bishop delivered an adhich was followed by a collection, and the contact with the Aparticle Parallel Parallel lence. From this, Mr. Mooney danced off to the Committee of Taste—then to the Throne Room—thence to the Royal Academy, whose President was found to be an Irishman—thence to the Earl of Rosse, who, Mr. Mooney said, had raised his telescope in Ireland to "get a nearer glimpse of the moon."

This was a joke too good to be lost; the audience clapped right heartily, Mr. Mooney bowed most obsequiously, and we noted it down carefully. Thus ended Mr. Mooney's speech. He is, withal, a clever fellow; clever, because he has the surance, and, more than all, the tact to induce an audience to hear him sing "God save the Queen" (that is, attempt to sing it), notwitstanding he had before taught us anything but a love our elbow said, "he no like the Queen; he like one King of Ireland." All we have written will not tell more truthfully than do these few words, our opinion of Mr. Mooney.

We trust, ere long, we shall have the pleasure of welcoming

Samuel Lover here; then we shall meet a musician, a scholar, a gentleman, and a patriot!— Colonist.

(From an Extra of the British Colonist.) WEDNESDAY EVENING'S REPORT. From Albany, Three o'clock, P. M., Wednesday, April 7.

VERA CRUZ CAPTURED!-800 AMERICANS KILLED.

An express from Philadelphia reached here this morning, with the important intelligence that Vera Cruz is captured.—
The news reached Charleston as the boat was leaving, and few particulars, and by a steamer direct from Vera Cruz, and was believed to be true.

A passenger says that just as she was casting off her line, an agent came running down, hallooing out that Vera Cruz was taken. He states that our forces had all landed by the 18th, with all their guns and munitions of war, and that the town and castle were immediately deserted and attacked on the 19th.

The naval force reached within gunshor of the town and castle, and the batteries on land commenced the work of death.—
The whole heavens seemed illuminated with fire works and EASTERN of the Americans is said to be about 800. The battle raged for several hours, but after a desperate resistance the city surrendered, and General Scott and army marched in with flying colours. The battle was fought with the thermometer at 85°. Our troops are now in comfortable quarters. Since their disembarkation they have been sleeping on the ground without

New Orleans papers say that a revolution was progressing in Mexico against Goniez; and that there is now a coalition between Santa Anna and the priests, from whom the former had received 20,000,000 dollars to carry on the war.

Later from Europe!

The packet-ships Northumberland and Columbia arrived this to France and the continent.

Liverpool Grain Market to 6th March closed firm. The relations between Turkey, Greece and France threaten a speedy war. There had been dreadful food riots in France, Belgium, and Scotland. Supplies were pouring into Ireland, and the famine is greatly arrested.

The French Government had made a loan of 5,000,000 francs for the relief of the poor. Several of the leading European powers are on the point of war.

LIVERPOOL MARKETS. - Some wheat was selling at 2s. per quarter, and flour 6d. per barrel higher than it was on the 4th BUFFALO, MARKET .- Market to-day continues with the same firmness up to the time of the receipts of the intelligence by the packets at New York, with large orders from the East, many of which were limited below the views of holders. Sales of 1500 barrels Michigan flour were made in the morning at 5 dols. 25c

The news from Liverpool is two days later than that by the steamer at Boston. NEW YORK MARKETS.

New York, Wednesday, April 7th, 7, P.M. In Flour and Meal continued firmness. Flour, on the spot, sales 500 to 1000 bbls. at 7D. 62\frac{1}{2}c. @ 7D. 25c for Northern sales 500 to 1000 bbls. at 7D. 62\frac{1}{2}c. @ 7D. 25c for Northern and Genesse. The markets almost bare. The demand, to arrive, is still large, and better prices for late delivery are offered.

Meal is held higher, and holders are unwilling to sell below 5 dols.—the demand large. About 500 or 1000 barrels were picked up at 4D. 87\frac{1}{2}c. of Jersey. Sales of 300 bbls. extra.

Rye Flour at 4D. 87\frac{1}{2}c. Exports from the West to the 6th instant, 29,555 bbls.

GRAIN—Of Wheat, a percel of 10,000 bushels to arrive in May, sold at 1D. 55c. for Genesse. The demand is good.

Corn continued in great request. On the spot is very scarce; the prices show a further advance to-day,—the transactions to arrive in June, at 78c. 500 bushels Northern yellow at 1D.

WESTERN.. Oats—the demand is large, some 10,000 bushels sold at 43c.

@ 44c., part to arrive. Rye is 90c. Barley is entirely nomi nal. Wheat-8826 bushels. Rye-6979 bushels. Barleynone. Oats-12,455 bushels.
