

Tables will need to be diligently used ere the undertaking is brought to a satisfactory conclusion, and there is little doubt that many a heartfelt sigh will be breathed over our "dear departed," still "so beautiful in death."

In bidding farewell to his patrons and fellow-sufferers, the Author, while disclaiming any political motive beyond the matter in hand, cannot refrain from wishing them all success in the work of "Conversion," and a happy issue out of all their troubles.

W. S. S.

HALIFAX, April, 1871.