RURAL EDUCATION AT CITY COLLEGES

Need for Higher Education for Rural Scholars at Cheap Rates.

Rural education at city colleges was the subject discussed yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the county council. The Toronto school board proposes to raise the tuition of outside students to $100 a year, which the York Council feel will be prohibitive for many people in the townships. The resident pupils in the city get their first year at high school free, the second costs $9, the third $15, the fourth $21 and the fifth $27.

The cost of educating a pupil for one year, as estimated by the educational department, is $131.05. This includes outlay of capital, teaching, etc. The statistics provided that the county may not make a grant to the city colleges, the reason being that there would be a rush to attend city schools, and proper buildings, capable teaching staff and appliances could not be afforded for the smaller towns. The law, however, does allow the township to make arrangements with centres like Toronto, whereby the township scholars may be taken care of.

Continuation classes are being started in Mimico. Here for the first two years there is no tuition cost, and the classes are a success. Mr. Chadwick of Kilmichael, who is in charge of the arrangement, could be made with the city then continuation classes would have to be started there, too. J. D. Steward, afternoons, thinks that a new high school system is necessary for the entire county, and it is the council's duty to do it. Mr. Edmunds of the Toronto School Board was present in an unofficial capacity, and very emphatically emphasized the need of providing higher education for every boy and girl who wished it. He thought the county council should approach the city for any arrangement whereby county pupils would be charged the same tuition as resident ones.

Mr. Pearson, chairman of the educational committee of York, advocated either the leaving of the matter to the township to make arrangements with the city individually or the establishment of high school districts throughout the county. Finally it was resolved: "That a committee composed of Messrs. Pearson, Griffith, Cornell, J. M. Gardhouse and Danbridge be appointed to confer with the Toronto education officer of the City of Toronto to re-charge county pupils attending the city schools."

RETURNING SOLDIERS UPSET RED COUNCIL

Four new labor bureaus have been opened by the government in addition to those now at Toronto, Ottawa, London, Hamilton, Brantford, Fort William, Port Arthur, St. Thomas, Walkerville, Kitchener and Kingston. The new bureaus may be found at Sudbury, the Soo, Windsor and a new one in Toronto. These have been formed to meet the demands of the returning soldiers, and the soldiers' civil re-establishment will take care of those men whom the bureaus cannot handle.

GRAND TRUNK-PACIFIC APPOINTMENT.

H. Hulatt, manager of telegraphs, Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, announced the appointment of W. E. Bell as acting division superintendent of telegraphs in Alberta and British Columbia. Mr. Bell has been associated with the Grand Trunk Pacific telegraphs at the headquarters in Montreal since 1915. In the new position of increased responsibility to which he has been called he will have jurisdiction over all matters pertaining to construction and maintenance of telegraphs and telephone lines, and operation of railroad and commercial telegraphs in the two western provinces, making his headquarters in Edmonton. He succeeds W. J. Rooney, who has been granted leave of absence.

MORE THAN HE ASKED.

Walter Miller, a teamster employed by the British Imperial Oil Co., was yesterday awarded $12,500 instead of the $10,000 sued for before Mr. Justice Lenoir and a jury. The suit was against the Toronto Railway Company and in respect to an accident in November, 1917, in which a street car was struck by a street car and he himself seriously injured.

WOMEN'S PLACE AFTER THE WAR

Miss Wiseman Addresses Business Women's Club on After-War Problems.

Miss Wiseman, president of the Business Women's Club, had an enthusiastic audience at the Electric Club luncheon yesterday, when she spoke on "Women's Place After the War." Kenneth Dunstan presided. The first problem to be faced, Miss Wiseman thought, was the returned man returning after four years, expecting to find women as he left them. Women who never earned money before were now drawing their own pay cheques. They could never go back to the entirely dependent position. Women had a vote also, and they must learn how to use it. Mothers would have to be recognized, and their ideas on education considered. The mothers might find it difficult to settle down to the different life of the home, but they would probably maintain their interest in outside affairs and in civics.

The training of women hitherto had made them petty and personal in their outlook. Their experience in business tended to rid them of this. Bank managers complained that a girl would be huffy all day after being shown some error. A good girl would appreciate advice given by her employer. Women must be taught to think in a large way. Girls have been inclined to be frivolous, she said, and failed to take an interest in their work because they thought they might be getting married and leaving it. But if they make their living in a city they should take some interest in its affairs.

Business experience would enable women to be more appreciative of the worries and trials of a business man, and incline them to make it pleasant for him at home, she thought. She hoped that employers would recognize the claim of women for equal wages for equal work. She recognized the difficulty where a woman who did not expect to retain her position competed with a man who would stay with it all his life. She imagined the case of a man appointed under a woman in an office but did not tolerate this, and Miss Wiseman thought she was right. Women should be given place on committees and other boards. The more men and women co-operated the better it would be for both.

ISLAND RAPIDLY BECOMING LAKE

So rapidly is the south shore of the island being washed away that trees, telegraph poles and sidewalks as well as the beach are disappearing into the lake. The damage extends about 500 feet westward from Manitou road, and the westward have washed back for nearly 75 feet.

The commissioner Chambers fears that the erosion will spread unless early measures are taken to protect the shore by means of groynes, which would have to be built at the cost of this work and the financial damage done he could give no estimate.

The shore line of the island eastward from Manitou road is protected by the government, but the government and the city and the harbor commission all disclaim any responsibility for protection of the part now being washed away, although in the opinion of Mayor Church there is abundant evidence that the government is responsible.

RUMOR WITHOUT FOUNDATION.

It has been commonly reported round town that the government was about to appoint several more liquor vendors. Vice-Chairman W. S. Dingman of the license board stated last night that as far as he knows there is no intention of doing so. He could not understand how the rumor originated.
