

A SPLENDID PLAY; SMALL AUDIENCE

Miss Isabel Irving Appears With "The Girl Who Has Everything."

Miss Isabel Irving appeared at the Grand last night in a play of splendid interest, entitled, "The Girl Who Has Everything." The audience was very small, and was an utter disappointment to Manager Bowers, who has done everything in his power to bring first-class attractions to London, only to see them poorly patronized. Last night's audience, in point of numbers, was simply a joke, and was anything but an incentive to Mr. A. J. Small to send first-class attractions to London. Miss Irving is undoubtedly one of the most talented emotional actresses on the stage today, and the play was one of the best written, and best produced which has delighted Londoners for very many moons.

It is by Clyde Fitch, and does credit to its author. The plot revolves around a girl—Sylvia Lang—whose sister has died leaving a husband and two children. The husband is a rake, and he dissipates his wife's fortune. After the latter's death, a will is produced showing that all the wife's property is to go to the husband and nothing to the children. Philip Waring, a young lawyer in love with Sylvia, advises the girl to go to law on behalf of the children in an endeavor to break the will.

She did so, and won her case, but it was then ascertained that the fortune had been dissipated by the husband previous to his wife's death, and that on her deathbed in order to save him from prosecution in love with Sylvia, she had made the will which he had produced. Before the action was tried, Guy Weems, the brother-in-law, went to Philip Waring, who was to marry Sylvia, and told him that in order to protect himself he would besmirch the character of his dead wife, unless the suit was dropped. Waring then tried to have Sylvia stop the suit, to prevent a scandal, but she would not listen to him, her mind having been poisoned by Weems, who told her that Waring was after her money and that when he heard there would be no money, even if Weems was beaten, in the action, he would want her to withdraw the suit.

It is a play which is brimful of clever lines and interesting situations and it was admirably carried out by the splendid cast.

Miss Irving never appeared to better advantage in London. In the scene where he quarrels with her husband she was very strong, rising to great heights in her emotional work.

She was given a capable support by Mr. Harry Hilliard, as Philip Waring; Mr. H. R. Roberts as Guy Weems; and Miss Emily Wakeman as Philip Waring's mother.

The settings were superb.

CAN'T KILL SQUIRRELS EXCEPT IN NOVEMBER

Several copies of the new game laws of Ontario, which came into force June 6, 1907, have been received in this city, and according to the new regulations squirrels, black and gray, may only be killed from Nov. 1 until Dec. 1, both days inclusive.

The regulations governing the shooting of ducks have also been changed, and now reads as follows: "No blinds or decoys for use in hunting ducks or other waterfowl shall be placed at a greater distance than two hundred yards from the shore, or a natural rush bed thick enough to conceal a boat."

THE ELLIOTT REUNION

Interesting Family Gathering at a Dorchester Home.

The home of Mr. Robert Wilson, North Dorchester, was the scene of a very happy event yesterday, it being the occasion of what was known as the "Elliott reunion." Guests to the number of 83 were present, being the descendants of three different branches of the Elliott family, namely, Mr. O. H. Elliott, Riddick and Mrs. Wilson. Those present represented three generations.

The visitors began to arrive in the early morning from Belmont, Port Talbot, Verschoyle, Ingersoll, Woodstock, Dickinson's Corners, Dorchester Station, Thamesford, London, Banner, Nilesstown and surrounding country, and the stream of new-comers was kept up until dinner was announced at 12 o'clock, when a sumptuous repast, including all the delicacies of the season, was served by the ladies.

During the afternoon selections on the violin and gramophone lent enjoyment to the occasion. Messrs. Geo. Leslie and Robt. Wilson were chosen as captains of a keenly-contested baseball match, in which young and old alike participated, the former being the winner by a score of 24-23.

When the afternoon had been spent in social intercourse and games, the party reassembled at the tea-table, where justice was done to the good things provided.

Mr. Lawrence Wilson, of London, had his camera, and obtained several photographs of the group. At about 7 o'clock, the party commenced to break up, each one delighted with the outing.

CHARGED WITH POISONING.

CLAUDE JOHNSON WOULD NOT ELECT

Alleged Forger Arrested Here Was Arraigned in Stratford.

Claude N. Johnson, the alleged forger, who was arrested in London recently, was brought to Stratford Wednesday evening by Chief McCarthy. This morning Johnson was arraigned before Magistrate O'Leane on a charge of uttering forged notes in 1904, and when asked to elect how he would be tried, declined to answer until he had consulted his solicitor. He was remanded till Monday or Tuesday of next week.

The Stratford Beacon says: The manner in which Johnson made his escape in 1904 will be recalled with interest. Hearing that the authorities were after him he managed to get away, with the assistance, it is said, of a young woman in the city. Driving to Ailsa Craig he disposed of his horse and took the train for Windsor, where he was later arrested on a charge of horse-stealing, the charge being laid by the Windsor police. For this offense he served three years in Kingston Penitentiary, and upon his release he again immediately got into trouble, having been arrested on a charge of horse-stealing at the London Fair.

METHODIST ACTIVITIES

District Meeting and Sunday School
Convention at Centralia.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

The financial district meeting of the Methodist Church for the Exeter district was held here yesterday morning. The meeting opened at 9:30, with Rev. A. H. Going, of Exeter, in the chair. The work of the district was passed in review along the lines of missionary, educational, and temperance operations. The chairman said it was the "banner" district of the London Conference as far as the general average of circuits was concerned. About 25 ministers and laymen were in attendance, and a most enjoyable meeting closed at noon.

A Sunday school convention had been arranged for the afternoon and evening, and a large delegation of Christian workers was in attendance. The afternoon session opened at 2 o'clock, with the chairman of the district presiding. Reports from the various schools showed the work to be of a progressive character, not a doubtful note being sounded by a single delegate. Interesting and practical addresses were delivered by Rev. S. Baker, of Ailsa Craig, and Rev. John Hart, of London.

At the close of the afternoon session, the delegates repaired to the basement of the church for luncheon. A sumptuous repast had been prepared by the ladies of the Centralia Methodist Church, who have made a reputation for themselves as culinary experts.

The church was decorated with hunting flowers and evergreens, and presented a most attractive appearance. The people of Centralia well deserved the hearty vote of thanks accorded them on the occasion.

The evening sessions were largely attended and the meeting was in charge of the Sunday school secretary, Rev. E. A. Fear, Strong, eloquent addresses were delivered by Rev. L. Bartlett, of Woodham; Mr. H. Hueston, of Exeter, and Rev. J. E. J. Millard, of Birr.

Mrs. (Rev.) Baker, of Ailsa Craig, a trained singer, gave a most appropriate and beautiful solo in her usual attractive style, while the choir, which is a most excellent one, under the leadership of Mr. Nelson Hicks, rendered its quota of choice music. The meeting closed a little after 10 o'clock, and all pronounced this convention—the first in ten years—one of the best they ever attended.

The weather was ideal, and in the bright light of the moon the school drove from ten to fifteen miles to their homes, rejoicing in the good time spent in planning for future good.

TWINE WAS SHORT

Government Inspector Heavily Fines
an American Company in the West.

Ottawa, Sept. 20.—J. L. Haycock, Dominion inspector of binder twine, who is now in the city, says that while in the west he imposed fines amounting to $3,600 for short twine. One American firm was fined $1,400, but as an illustration of the far-reaching results of such a fine it actually cost the company $12,000 by being forced to retag what was in the hands of the dealers. Some 250 tons had to be retagged, reducing its value $40 per ton, making a loss of $10,000. There were other cases somewhat similar, but this was the worst.

The deficit for the Pacific Cable last year was $335,340. Of this amount Canada will have to pay $53,150.

STOCK MARKETS.

H. C. Becker, stockbroker, received the following by private wire from Bartlett, Fraser & Carrington, today:

New York, Sept. 20.—After some hesitation during the first fifteen minutes the market became decidedly strong and advanced rapidly. A favorable influence was to be found in the large transactions in the New York City 4 1/2% at rising prices, one lot of 50,000 changing hands at 106 1/2.

There seems to be little doubt that the investment demand is slowly improving, and that the persistent absorption of the city bonds since they were dotted in London clearly that the supply of money for investment is larger than had been generally supposed. There was good buying of Amalgamated Copper, preferred, and talk in regard to the copper stocks is less bearish than
