with a Managing Committee for the provision of the programme for each meeting, and a General Committee composed of ladies for the reception and welcoming of strangers, and members.

During the past year the attendance has not been so great as the previous year owing to various causes, one of which doubtless was the interblending of the Temperance Association with the Young People's, and the holding the meetings alternately.

During the winter we have been favored with addresses and readings by the Rev. Canon DuMoulin, the Rev. A. Townend, the Hon. S. H. Blake, and others.

The efficiency of the musical part of the programme has been largely due to the exertions of Mr. W. A. Geddes, whose labours and energy were indefatigable.

We would call attention to the prizes offered by the Association for the best examination on Ryle on St. John, Nelson on Infidelity, and Geikie's Reformation. The competition is open to all young men (not divinity students) members of any Association in connection with the Church of England in the city, and copies of these works will be lent to any intending competitors.
