How "A Game of Chance" Lost. A Game of Chance, formerly owned by Bert Lint of Fredericton, made the racing enthusiasts at the Detroit Grand Circuit take notice on Monday when he paced the first two heats in the 2.10 class in 2.05 1-4. He lost the race, however, to Fern Hal, a fast Canadian pacer, which came from behind and won the next three heats. A Game of Chance lost the race as a result of breaking. Arion, 2.07 1-4, died on last Friday at his owner's farm near Lexington, Ky., at the age of 28. J. Malcolm Forbes paid

There is some talk of matching Tommy Cotter, Gil Vail's great free-legged pacer, and Fleet Bonita, a game little Waterford mare for $200 or $300 a side. If the race materializes it should be the best match race seen on a Cape Breton track for some time.

At Mamaux Suspended

It became known in New York on Sunday night that Hugo Bezdek, new manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, had suspended the pitcher, Al Mamaux, who in the seasons of 1915 and 1916 was one of the club's mainstays in the box. The supension is indefinite and will depend largely on the conduct of the Pirate twirler in the future. Insubordination and breaking the club's rules were the reasons ascribed for Bezdek's action, as it is charged that Mamaux falled to return on Saturday night to the hotel where the team was staying while in New York. Bezdek, in making known his decision to Mamaux,

The cases of Eddie Rousch and Dick Rudolph are perhaps the most predominant. Rousch is near the top among National league batsmen. Rudolph is Boston's most effective pitcher and was one of the main reasons why the Braves were able to battle their way to a National league championship, and a subsequent world's championship. Both those men once were Giants. Rousch was kept mainly doing bench duty, while Rudolph scarcely got that far.

Milton Stock is another example; Fred Merkle is a fair idea of a ball player discarded as a has been, and who is doing great work. There are many others. McGraw has cast them aside to make room for men he thought would do better with the men making up his team. He has been successful in winning pennants and has to his credit one world's championship, but if he would gather the stars he has let slip from his grasp and
