GRAND MASTER MAKES HOME RULE REFERENCE

Charity

The grand master then said:—The many calls on me for financial assistance and relief has led me to examine our mode of dispensing charity, which seems to be a kind of haphazard way. We have no central board of relief, no special benevolent fund in grand lodge, and the dispensing of charity is largely left with individuals and does not fall evenly on the association. On examining our grand treasurer's report I see we have a surplus each year of $1,200. Why should not a portion of this be laid away each year and allowed to accumulate for the benefit of the distressed, the widows, and the orphans? It is true we have from time to time appropriated a part of our funds to assist the orphan, but we have no control over the institutions to the support of which we subscribe, and it often happens that there are individual brethren who require relief.

"The general declaration attached as a prelude to our constitution, among other things says we are formed to afford assistance to distressed members of the association, and otherwise promote such laudable and benevolent purposes as may tend to the due ordering of religion and Christian charity." We are formed, etc.; that means we should all act together, and in my opinion it is about time we did act, and I earnestly solicit your consideration of this important subject. I would recommend that we establish a charity fund in grand lodge to be under the control of the grand master, the grand treasurer, and the grand secretary, and two others of our members to be appointed as a "benevolent committee"; that such fund shall consist of any amounts that may be subscribed and paid into it, with such annual appropriations from the income of grand lodge as may be decided upon; and that the monies of such fund shall be invested and the income appropriated exclusively for the relief of such poor and distressed brethren, and the widows and orphans of deceased brethren in good standing, as may be deemed worthy of assistance.

"I have only briefly referred to some of the things that have occurred, and thoughts that have passed through my mind during my past year, and time prevents my discussing other topics that are the foundation for many present concerns in our province and Dominion, but I have been led, to observe that the doctrine of Imperial unity has progressed with marked rapidity, and England has shown a strong tendency to increase in the last few years. In this Dominion we have the right of complete local autonomy and instead of this leading to a desire for independence or complete separation, as has been the case elsewhere, it has led to a strengthening of the doctrine of Imperial unity. Some of us think trade is the medium through which we can solve the problem, and others look to defence as a foundation, but I can safely say that we all have our idea of Imperial federation on the principle of loyalty to a common empire."

In conclusion, Mr. Wallace thanked all for the consideration and gracious manner in which he had been treated, and he especially thanked the grand secretary and Past Grand Master Hipwell for their advice and ready assistance.

—You see, her first husband left her without a penny—and with three little children to bring up. You can hardly blame her—can you?

Tragic? Yes! "Of course," you'll say, "that won't be said of my wife if I should die suddenly."

But stop a moment! How would your wife and kiddies fare if you should die today? What provision have you made for such a contingency?

If you haven't provided as much protection as you know they should have, you need an Imperial Home Protection Policy. Let us send you our pamphlet and full particulars. You will find them interesting.
