

THAT NIGHT COUGH

You know it! It begins with a tickling, irritating sensation in your throat. You cough to clear the throat. In a moment—there it is again!

A minute's peace, then again you cough, and so on until you cough your throat sore, and by the time the cough is sufficiently allayed to permit you to sleep, you are thoroughly worn out. This kind of experience is particularly trying to old people.

Peps make it quite unnecessary for you to have this kind of thing happening.

These night coughs are due to the formation of mucus in the air passages, or to a little inflammation in the bronchial tubes. As soon as you put a Peps tablet on your tongue and allow it to slowly dissolve, healing balsamic fumes are liberated, which are breathed down the air passages and bronchi. These healing essences allay all irritation, and so transform the hard phlegm and mucus that it is easily expelled. They impart, too, a feeling of warmth and a glow of comfort in the region where pain and irritation were before felt. Remember, also, Peps contain no opiates—no poisonous compounds. This makes Peps so suitable for the coughs and colds of children; and mothers should quickly grasp and appreciate this vast superiority. For all kinds of coughs and colds they are the best and the latest remedy. Try them at our expense, as offered in our coupon below.

Daily Hints For the Cook

Old English Plum Pudding

Four eggs, not quite one-half pound of suet, one-quarter pound of orange and lemon peel, one-quarter pound citron, one-half pound raisins, one-half pound currants, one pint milk, 1½ cups of molasses, two cups sugar, one teaspoon salt, four teaspoon mixed spices, two teaspoons baking powder. Flour enough to stiffen. After you have it stiff add seven crackers (rolled), to make it more stiff. Put in linen bag and boil four or five hours.

Sauce—You may use hard or the liquid sauce, flavored with good brandy. This pudding keeps until summer. It may be covered with brandy and fired when sent to the table.

Snow Pudding

One pint boiling water. Stir in three tablespoons cornstarch wet in a little cold water. Have whites of three eggs beaten stiff and beat into mixture quickly and thoroughly. Flavor with vanilla.

Sauce—Have one cup milk boiling, beat yolks of eggs with one-half cup sugar and stir in milk till it thickens.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Changes tendency toward disease to tendency toward health. No alcohol. Sold for 60 years.

CANADIAN WOMAN'S CRUSADE

Mrs. Leathes of Toronto Unsettling Some of the Conventional Beliefs

(Times Special Correspondence).

London, Nov. 18—Mrs. Leathes, wife of Professor Leathes of Toronto University, is upsetting some of the ideas of many estimable people here in connection with Canada.

A few weeks ago she took a tilt against the suggested increase in the emigration of poor law children, on the grounds that they would become the companions of Canadian children, and that there might be something in connection with their parentage which would render this inadvisable. Now she is shattering the notion cherished by many influential women here that the settlement of the educated gentleman in the dominion should be encouraged, not only because the qualities and capacities implied by education brought the woman so endowed to the front, but on the score of increased opportunities for marriage. She spoke some plain words at the Women's Constitutional Club, at which Lady Sybil Grey was one of the speakers.

If there is an idea that a large number of Canadian men of the educated classes are going about hunting for a wife, it is quite a mistaken one," she said. "There are a large number of Canadian women quite happily unmarried. Speaking from four years' personal experience, Mrs. Leathes suggested that women who emigrated from this country were ignorant of the conditions of the life they so cheerfully sought to face. "A Canadian ranch is a terrible place," she said. "Lonely and comfortless; it is not until you have to do without books, pictures, music and other things which are the companions of life in England that you realize their value. Canadian girls, she said, refused to marry ranchers on account of the rough nature of the life on isolated farms. There were women living on the ranches who had not seen another woman for two years and this solitude sometimes resulted in insanity."

She agreed that there was room in Canada for all exceptionally endowed men and women, with initiative, good health, and a small amount of capital, but for the ordinary educated woman who had nothing but her education to fall back upon, the outlook was different.

A GOOD AD. FOR ST. JOHN

(Manchester, Eng., Gardian)

The expansion of the direct trade between Manchester and the Canadian ports was strikingly illustrated by the details of the principal imports during the previous winter season from St. John N. B. and Halifax. Less than twenty years have elapsed since steamships, which had previously sailed from United States ports in winter, began the service from St. John. The experiment of utilizing St. John as a winter port for the shipment of grain and other products was first made in the winter of 1865-6, and in that winter there were only thirty-six steamship sailings of lines to Liverpool and London. Last winter there were 160 steamship sailings to Liverpool, London, Manchester, Bristol, Glasgow, Belfast and Dublin, Continental ports, South Africa and Australia.

The value of goods exported has increased from a comparatively small value in the winter of 1898-9 to nearly $85,000,000 last year; while the imports, which at first were extremely small, have enormously increased, the value for last winter being fully 25 per cent greater than that for the previous season. In the first winter of the business there was only one small grain elevator. This has since been greatly enlarged, another has been built, and a third, with a capacity of a million bushels, will be finished in time for next winter's business, while a fourth will come when the Grand Trunk Pacific begins to handle business at St. John.

SCHOOL TEACHERS

There is no aspect of our education whether in the United States or in our own state that is more disheartening or that raises more questions of doubt than the adequate supply and the adequate quality of teachers for our schools of every grade. To overcome this, undoubtedly two things are absolutely necessary. First, the independence of the teacher, permanency of tenure, the respect that is due to a great and dignified calling. No class of men or women of any spirit or ability will enter a profession, or having entered long remain in it, if their independence, their right of initiative and free speech as American citizens is in any way in question. Nor will they enter a profession or long remain in it if their tenure of office is lacking in permanency or subject to uncertainty arising from the exigencies of politics or too frequent changes in administrative policy.

Unless these evils are remedied I fear, from many evidences during the last few years, that we must look for a decrease rather than an increase in the number and quality of our teachers.—Chancellor Frank Strong, of the University of Kansas, in Science.
