FROM $40 TO $40,000,000! Pittsburg's millionaires are an in eresting class.

From $40 per month to a fortune of $4,000,000 or $40,000,000 is a fascinating change. Says H. N. Cusson in Mun-sey's Magazine: "Frick, unlike Phipps, is still busy. He will never be anything else unless he undergoes a chemical else unless he undergoes a chemical transformation. He is the real estate king of Pittsburg He is the umpire in many a politicial and financial dispute. He has a half dozen ways of becoming rich too fast. From steel, coke, real estate, apartment hotels, speculation in railway stocks, and from trust companies, he could have today a yearly pension of $3,000,000 if he chose to retire and become a looker-on. He has joined the Pittsburg colony in New York; and the Henry Clay Frick who was living in half of a coal miner's was living in half of a coal miner's shanty thirty-three years ago finds himself today the welcome occupant of a Vanderbilt palace."

Incidentally, Mr. Frick perhaps trades in bigger blocks of shares than any other man in Wall Street.

OUTPUT OF DOMINION COAL.
The Dominion Coal Company's output for August was 327,734 tons. This is better than the July output, but not quite as good as the output for August, 1905. From all accounts the company is still short of labor. The output by months is as follows:

August .... 327,734 Total .... 2,359,381 2,025,605

While the men stood at the edge of the thicket the brute pounced on Mr. Goldfinch and threw him to the ground. It bit him on the thigh be-fore Mr. Lucas lodged a bullet in its neck.

Maddened by the wound, the animal turned its attention to Mr. Lucas, whose horse it felled, and then pinned the rider to the ground, inflicting terrible lacerations on his face and biting his right arm. He was saved by Mr. Goldfinch, who, sitting up, rolled the lioness over with a well-aimed shot.

The beast was about to spring on its victim again, when another discharge from the same weapon proved fatal. The wounded men were taken back to town, where they received medical aid.

EXPLOSION DOES FORCED TO EAT

Awful Result of Accident at Lynn, Mass.

Two Men Fatally, one Seriously, and Ten Slightly Injured by Explosion of New Compound

LYNN, Mass., Sept. 7.—Two men were fatally, one seriously and ten or a dozen others slightly injured by an explosion on Lennox hill, Granite street, this city, late today. The fatally injured are Frank W. Wordenberger and George Tattnall, both of New York City. Wordenberger died at the Lynn hospital tonight. Francis Chicoine, an Italian laborer, who lives in Swampsott, was seriously hurt, but will undoubtedly recover. The seriously injured include a number of Lynn and Salem contractors.

REGINA, Alta., Sept. 6.—Fourteen Doukhobors, incarcerated in the jail here, absolutely refuse to partake of food. Nourishment has to be forced through their teeth by scientific means. These men are leaders of the famous band that braved the prickly cactus with naked feet while they wandered in nude condition over to face of the prairies.

But hymiliation has only steeled their hearts with a firmer determination, and they have resolved that if the police authorities will not allow them to turn Saskatchewan into a veritable.

Salem contractors.

Wordenberger, a German by birth and chemist by occupation, was the inventor of a new explosive compound, and Tattnall is the president of a company formed to exploit it. The two men had been touring throughout New England demonstrating the new explosive in the presence of contractors and quarry workers.

Lurn Saskatchewan into a veritable Garden of Eden, they will starve their bodies.

Doukhobor families who were imprisoned in the same jail, refused to eat unless they were fed on California peaches, unwashed potatoes, and peanuts. But these fourteen will not even eat the rawest of vegetables or the plosive in the presence of contractors and quarry workers.

Today's demonstration was given on Lennox hill, and some forty or more contractors from this city and Salem had assembled to witness the work of the new explosive. Five holes had been drilled in the ledge and filled with dynamite. Three other holes contained the new explosive.

Wordenberger was to read to the floor, and liquid nourishment to the floor the new explosive.

Wordenberger was tamping one of pumped into the whole outfit by scien-

the holes containing the new explosive and Tattnall was beside him oversee-ing the work. Suddenly, without warn-ing, there was a terrific explosion. For some reason which will never be known, the new explosive was detonated, the concussion causing the compound in the other two holes to explode.

wordenberger and Tattnall were blown nearly thirty feet and when picked up were pitiful sights. Nearly every stitch of clothing had been torn from their bodies by the concussion, their faces and bodies were unrecognizable, flesh hung in shreds and they were bleeding profusely. So far as could be ascertained by a hurried examination, no bones were broken, but both men were filled full of minute particles of the splintered rock.

Together with Wordenberger and Tattnall the Italian was taken to the Lynn hospital where it was said that he would recover. The physicians, however, said that there was no hope for either Wordenberger or Tattnall. Wordenberger died about 9 o'clock.

Some ten of the spectators who were at some distance from the scene of the explosion, were cut and bruised by falling stones and splinters of rock.

wordenberger was the victim of a similar explosion last spring in New York city, although on that occasion he was not nearly so seriously injured as today. He was able to leave his home only a short time ago. home only a short time ago.

All regard the blowing up of the English company's railroad bridges as a serious matter and likely to invite international action by Great Britain, or at least an interrogation of the government at Washington by Great Britain as to whether the former intends to intervene to end war conditions in Cuba.
