ROOSEVELT STRONGLY SUPPORTS HUGHES

In a Letter to Marcus Braun He Declares
His Endorsement.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The first message from President Roosevelt touching upon the campaign in this state was conveyed to a Republican mass meeting at Cooper's tonight in this form, endorsing the candidacy of Chas. Hughes, Marcus Braun, chairman of the gathering, read the message which, he said, he had today received from the President.

President Roosevelt, the chairman stated, said:

"Anyone who in any manner has tried to convey the impression that I am not heart and soul for Mr. Hughes, is either wilfully or inadvertently laboring under a delusion. I am first, last and all the time for Governor Hughes because I know and feel that he stands precisely for the same principle that I stand for.

I authorize you to make that statement to your friends and my friends that is in you."

Mr. Braun went to Washington to carry to the President the congratulations of the Hungarian Republican Club of this city on the anniversary of the President's 48th birthday.

PUT THEM ON THE LIST.

Day after day the police magistrate sits on the bench doling out imaginary punishments to habitual offenders; day after day the same old soaks get drunk, their one idea being to find a place where board and lodging may be had without the trouble of working for it. The task of reforming these habitual drunkards is seemingly a hopeless one, and unless some more effective method of treatment can be instituted they will continue to the end of their days receiving a free living at the public expense. Such characters, many of them at least, do not deserve any sympathy. Some are worthless through weakness, but a fair proportion are nothing but lazy, and should be taught that their duty is not to sponge on others.

Under the liquor license law it is provided that the magistrate may at any time order to be placed on the list of interdicts the names of persons who are addicted to excessive drinking. The magistrate is well aware of many cases in which this section, now fallen into disuse, might be applied. There are numerous frequenters of the police court who could be kept sober for a large part of the time and still be at liberty, if their names were on the list. The manner in which the interdict law is violated is notorious, but the law is still sufficient to have a marked effect on the giving of liquor to confirmed inebriates. The plan seems to be one well worth trying, and at any rate the public cannot lose.

RIFLE CLUBS IN AUSTRALIA.

Major General Finn, commanding the Australian militia is making a visit to Canada. A day or two ago in Montreal, he held of the establishment and development of rifle clubs in his country.

"Our permanent force is very small," he said, "consisting principally of artillery, but our militia is now in very satisfactory condition, and we have besides a great number of rifle clubs. This movement has become very popular in Australia, and there are no less than thirty and forty thousand riflemen in the colony. The interest people take in this sport is wonderful, and their devotion to it contains great possibilities of national defence. Also there is a strong development of cadet work in connection with the schools, and as being subsidiary to the militia. This movement, too, has a great future before it and will be of the greatest assistance in giving boys a preliminary training, and as also inclining them to enter the militia and to take more interest in things military. The great difficulty, however, in the way of progress in this direction, has been the lack of funds. But this is now being more or less remedied and the development is likely to be rapid in the future."

BETTER EDUCATION.

For so young a country, Canada is the possessor of a splendid educational system, but there are indications of marked advances in the near future. The provinces have obtained increased subsidies, and already the Premier of New Brunswick, P. E. Island, and Quebec have announced that all the extra money will be expended on education, while the Premiers of Nova Scotia, Ontario and Manitoba intimate that at least a portion will be set aside for this purpose. In addition there is every prospect that the federal government will in the not distant future take up the question of technical education with the object of establishing such a system on a national basis.

AFTER CIVILIZATION, LIQUOR.

The flag follows the missionaries, and liquor follows the flag, is an old proverb and a true one. Every country entered by civilization must prepare to suffer the penalty. This is simply a reminder that only a few years ago the Saskatchewan was almost a wilderness. Today it is thickly settled with white men, and a brewery to cost anywhere up to a million dollars is to be erected at Saskatoon. If a million dollars were put into any other industry it would be a source of great wealth to the country. A brewery will create nothing but poverty.

The present year has seen the greatest progress in the history of railroad building in America, in new lines and in earnings. It has also seen a series of terrible accidents among which the Atlantic wreck, near Atlantic City, will rank as one of the worst.

Members of the council submit to public opinion in regard to the Union street land. If the same policy prevailed in all things a new council would now be necessary.

GIANT OF THE ANDES IS CLIMBED BY SWISS

Herr Helting Stands on Very Top of South America

Feat is Attempted by Comrade, But Fierce Storm Makes It Failure.

GENEVA, Oct. 27.—Herr Helting, the Swiss Alpine, tells in "Alpinist" how he climbed Aconcagua (22,800 feet), the giant of the Andes, in January last, a feat which was briefly announced at the time.

"We started at daybreak, but at eight o'clock Helting was done, and gave up. He could not stand the fatigue and the cold. He took with him his own and my porters, and descended in safety."

"From 12,000 feet onward I was alone. The cold was so intense, in spite of the fact that the sun was shining, that I thought I should be frozen to death, although I was wearing three thick woolen undersuits, two heavy waistcoats, two pairs of gloves, a heavy suit of clothes, and a specially made overcoat."

"At last I arrived 500 yards from the summit, to reach which was only a walk up a couloir, but I thought I would never finish the climb. With force of will more than strength of body, I continued the terrible ascent, forced to stop to take breath every twenty yards or so, and at last, just as the sun was setting, I arrived at the top—the top of South America."

"I cannot describe my first impression of feeling, but my happiness was complete. I was at a height 22,800 feet. After a short rest in the twilight, at this height it is never dark, I began the descent as if in a dream, and finally arrived at our camp three hours before the morning, nearly dead but very contented."

"My friend Helting attempted the same feat next day, but failed, and was obliged to return, owing to a strong wind."

It looks as though the splendid bit of little roadway of which we were just told, that I thought I should be frozen to death, although I was wearing three thick woolen undersuits, two heavy waistcoats, two pairs of gloves, a heavy suit of clothes, and a specially made overcoat.

"I want to know," said the attorney for the plaintiff, who was cross-examining the witness, "just what the defendant said to the client about the fact that he was a bigamist, and that the facts had been found out."

"Well, what did he do?" "He acted kind of queerly," he answered. "I want to know exactly how he acted."

"The witness suddenly reached over, grabbed the attorney by the hair, and threw him down on the floor and proceeded to hammer him."

"This is the way he acted," he said, "but the other fellow interfered. Some of you chaps pull me off, will you?" It was tough on the lawyer, but it won the case for him.

NO WONDER HE WAS HELPLESS.

It is not necessary that a lawyer should be eloquent to win verdicts, but he must have the tact which turns an apparent defeat to his own advantage. One of the most successful of verdict winners was Sir James Scarlett. His skill in turning a failure into a success was wonderful. In a breach of promise case, the defendant, Scarlett's client, was alleged to have been coaxed into an engagement by the plaintiff's mother, who was a witness in behalf of her daughter, and completely baffled Scarlett, who cross-examined her. But in his argument he exhibited his tact by this happy stroke of advocacy.

"You saw, gentlemen of the jury, that I was but a child in her hands. What must my client have been?"

OTHER PERSON'S HEELS.

In a spirit of patriotic lamentation The New York Herald-Tribune deplores the fact that the people of the United States borrow their fashions from this country. "It is," says the paper, "galling to our nation pride to have to admit that we tread on the heels of England." The Herald-Tribune ought to cheer up. After all, most of the heels of England are made in America.—London Tribune.

KAISER REFUSES CUMBERLAND'S PLEA

Will Not Permit Younger Son of Duke to Become Brunswick's Ruler.

BERLIN, Oct. 27.—The Kaiser has refused the offer of the Duke of Cumberland to renounce his claim and that of his eldest son to the throne of Brunswick, if his youngest son may become the Duke.

The Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, which publishes the correspondence on the subject between the Duke and his offer conditional on the renunciation of his eldest son, the right of succession in the event of the extinction of the line of his youngest son. The Emperor replied that he is not in a position to further consider the request, as the resolution of the Federal Council of all still prevails. The resolution decided that the Duke's accession to the Duchy of Brunswick would not be reconciled with the fundamental principles of the treaty which constituted the Empire, owing to the nature of his relations with Prussia.

Prince Buelow, in replying to the Duke, who asked that he should support his proposal before the Emperor, wrote that he was unable to do so.

MODERN WOMAN IS WALKING BONFIRE

Her Wear of Celluloid Ornaments Beset With the Gravest Dangers.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The modern woman is a walking bonfire, only waiting for a naked light to come anywhere in her immediate neighborhood to burst into flame."

The above sentence is from a letter to the press from a leading physician, who asks, for reasons of professional etiquette, that his name may not be quoted.

In spite of the various warnings which have been issued from time to time," he continues, "women still persist in decking themselves with celluloid ornaments, and with the full knowledge that the heat thrown out from a fireplace may result in the horrible fate of the modern woman."

A reporter who has collected information on the subject has learned that the case is by no means exaggerated. The society woman who goes out calling fastens her hair with celluloid hairpins, which are made in a variety of colors to match each gown. She adds a couple of jeweled celluloid side combs and a celluloid slide set with paste.

The straw or felt hat is trimmed with bunches of celluloid grapes, currants or cherries, and stabbed by a pair of celluloid-headed hatpins. She wears a pair of celluloid rings for her ears in a delicate shade of turquoise blue, with a necklet of celluloid beads to match.

A celluloid buckle, set with jewels or hand-painted, clasps her waistband. Celluloid buttons fasten her gloves. A celluloid holder raises her dress in muddy weather.

The dancing girl is in the same predicament. Celluloid requires cover her gown with glittering emeralds. Wreaths of celluloid fruits deck her hair, or a pink celluloid camellia is fastened beside a "Marguerite" plait.

GETTING THE MINES IN WORKING ORDER AGAIN

THE FISHERY TROUBLES IN NEWFOUNDLAND

How Local Men Shipped on United States Vessels—Trying Experiences in Earning Their Living.

BIRCHY COVE, Bay of Islands, Oct. 24.—An object lesson was furnished today, demonstrating that, through the bungling of the Newfoundland authorities, the Americans hold the key to the Bay of Islands Herring Fishery.

Shortly after 2 o'clock the U. S. steamer Potomac steamed up the Bay, having behind three American vessels and forty boats in which the Newfoundlanders shipped outside the limit will fish. As the flotilla passed slowly over the calm surface of the Bay the outside were dotted with men, women and children, watching the unusual picture.

A little wonder that the boat within these British breasts boiled at the injustice presented to them, or that curses were hurled at the Americans who, for reasons of professional etiquette, that his name may not be quoted.
