BAD ATTACK OF LA GRIPPE.

ALL NIGHT UP A CLOTHES POLE

NEW YORK, July 31-Henry Vogel, 27 years old, a clerk, living at 149 Ridge street, has been acting strangely for several weeks. On Saturday night he shinned to the top of a forty foot clothes pole in the yard of his home and perched there until 4 o'clock vesterday morning. These policemen the same course three weeks ago. In that race the competitors started at intervals. Today all plunged into the water simultaneously at a pistol shot an ambulance surgeon and the crew of a truck company tried their best to get him down, but all falled, and it was only after the would-be rescuers pretended to leave the scene that Vorel came of his perch gel came off his perch.

Three weeks ago Vogel disappeared from his competitors and soon was from his home. A general alarm was sent out, but nothing was seen of him clearing showed Baroness de Isacescu until Saturday night, when he was found in Seward Park. He went home with his father and went to bed at 9 o'clock. An hour later he got up and dressed and rushing out to the yard shipned up the clothes pole like a monkey. He lay across the top and rested himself from his competitors and soon was leading by nearly 100 yards. The same clearing showed Baroness de Isacescu of Austria last, though she had been heralded as the great long distance swimmer of the Danube.

Bands in boats accompanying the swimmers playing the liveliest airs and crowds along the quays and on all the bridges made the contest interesting and more exciting. his feet on a spike, His father aroused and more exciting. Jarvis's swimming was a joy to see He lay on his side and easily stroked apparently lightly, but rhythmically as Pfeiffer was reinforced by other po-licemen during the night, but none could hit upon a plan to capture Vo-gel. Several times the police took turns at shinning the pole and at-tempting to coax him into descending peaceably but each failed. The policemen feared that he would jump to the yard at any moment and they pro-ceeded to make the expected descent as easy as possible. Mattresses were placed around the pole, but Vogel probably had made up his mind not to neighbors kept watch and tried all sorts of dodges to get Vogel to the ground. Some of the women offered to marry him. At 4 o'clock yesterday morning the firemen of a truck com-pany were summoned, but before they carried in a fifty foot ladder Vogel saw that the coast was clear, the po-licemen having hid in a woodshed, and he slid down the pole. Then he started to run to the street, He was scized and bundled off to Bellevue Hospital, where he was put in the
