

FOR WOMEN

MAUVE AND BROWN NEW COMBINATION

Henna Still Holds Favor—Pea
Green May Supercede Jade
—Honey Odd Shade.

Lewis has made frequent use of brown in his new net hats. In these tones his favorite seems to be a rich chocolate. Some times he combines this with silver. One of the most talked about of his hats from the point of view of color was of mauve faced with brown. This has suggested the combination of these two colors that are not often combined but has already borne fruit in the working of less distinguished milliners.

It may be that this device of facing a mauve hat with brown as to make the mauve more becoming to the brown-haired woman. So this much talked about combination may have been a matter of experience after all. Many of the dressmakers are showing a different line of color in their clothes for very young women from the colors exploited in clothes for mature women. This one of the new dressmakers stresses green and light copper for daytime clothes for the debutante, with evening frocks of white or pink or pink mauve. Before long we will see a return to the sentiment that black is an unsuitable selection for the debutante, especially for evening.

Black and white combinations are still seen, though this is a combination always more favored in summer than for autumn and winter. Still, white or gray is regarded as the suitable complement of black, while many of the new frocks show the combination of scarlet or rose or green with dark blue.

Nothing seems utterly to sidetrack henna and copper tones. The lighter copper tones are especially liked. Among rose tints there is the new-fangled Gonzales, and old rouge is a favorite of Jenny, who also makes use of pinks de rose or rosewood.

Premet has shown a new sea-green hat may take the place with her and possibly with others of the various colors that we have called fade. Several of the houses are showing a color hat has been called henna. Ochre has been revived, and there is a reddish copper that is well spoken of.

It is the fact in Paris now to talk about the Carthage. Fashionable and this adjective is most usually applied to the heavy metallic girdle placed about the hips over straight-line frocks of navy texture. That is, they would be heavy were they not so frequently made of aluminum.

Catarrh Of The Stomach Is Dangerous

"Thousands Have It and Don't Know It," Says Physician. Frequently Mistaken for Indigestion—How To Recognize and Treat.

"Thousands of people suffer more or less constantly from indigestion, coated tongue, bad breath, sour burning stomach, frequent vomiting, rumbling in stomach, bitter eructations, gas, wind and stomach acidity and call it indigestion when in reality their trouble is due to gastric catarrh of the stomach," writes a New York physician.

Catarrh of the stomach is dangerous because the mucous membrane lining of the stomach is thickened and a coating of phlegm covers the surface so that the digestive fluids cannot mix with the food and direct them. This condition soon breeds direct disease in the fermented, unassimilated food. The blood is polluted and carries the infection throughout the body. Gastric ulcers are apt to form and frequently an ulcer is the first sign of a deadly cancer.

In catarrh of the stomach a good and safe treatment is to take before meals a teaspoonful of pure Blaud's Magnesia in half a glass of hot water as hot as you can comfortably drink it. The hot water washes the mucus from the stomach walls and draws the blood to the stomach while the blaud's magnesia is an excellent solvent for mucus and increases the efficiency of the hot water treatment. Moreover the Blaud's Magnesia will serve as a powerful but harmless antacid which will neutralize any excess hydrochloric acid that may be in your stomach and sweeten its food contents. Easy, natural digestion without distress of any kind should soon follow. Blaud's Magnesia is not a laxative, is harmless, pleasant and easy to take and can be obtained from any local druggist. Don't confuse Blaud's Magnesia with other forms of magnesia, milks, citrates, etc., but get it in the pure blauded form (powder or tablets), especially prepared for this purpose.

BOTH SEEN AND "HEARD"

Attractive enough for the most critical inspection and with a color scheme that makes itself "heard" without "screaming," this youthful model fulfils the first half of the adage about children, and ignores the second. Pink and green chambray makes the dress, the collar, cuffs and sash being of pink organza. The corners of the collar are embroidered and there are tiny frills to outline the edges, repeating themselves on the cuffs. Medium size requires 3 yards 36-inch chambray and 3/4 yard organza.

THE MING TEA SET.

It stands upon my table there With such a quaint and artless air, Within its yellow garden close, Twin turquoise ladies, so demure, Tread purple bridges miniature, To pluck a glowing, golden rose.

One would not dream to see them smile, Those turquoise maids with witching wile, Ehat some six hundred years have sped Since first they saw spring's blossom-ing When came the dynasty of Ming, And Jubal Khan's hordes fought and died.

Hung Wu, the Son of Heaven, is dead, His temples dust, his glory fled; That potter, too, at King-te-chen, Who wrought with such consummate art, In centuries past each smallest part, Will paint no rose, nor maid again.

Strange, kings and dynasties are gone, And still this fragile thing lives on, As though death's self it could defy, The mind that planned the hand that wrought, Are naught, say, even less than naught To beauty's immortality.

DE MONTS CHAPTER REGULAR MEETING

A meeting of De Monts Chapter, I. O. D. E., was held yesterday morning at the residence of Miss Edith Skinner, Coburg street, the Regent, Mrs. W. E. Foster, presiding. There was a large attendance. Plans were completed for the holding of a rummage sale at St. Andrew's rink on the 23rd inst. The sum of $100 was voted towards the War Memorial Fund; also $10 a month to the Victorian Order. A motion was passed that a note be sent to the Municipal Chapter urging managers of motion picture houses to exhibit pictures on Saturday afternoon more suitable to children. The report of the National Annual, written by Mrs. Lamoureux, was read.

BOY WANTED HEAD START

Scene: King Street East. Dramatis Personae: Two children, a girl and a boy, both seven years old. Both mounted on what used to be called velocipedes. They are all ready for a race and the boy says to the girl: "Say, give me a head start will you?" to which she indignantly replies: "No, I will not."

Is this typical of the modern man and woman? was the thought in the spectator's mind. Certainly women of today don't want any allowances made for them in business, politics or any other competition, nor do they want to give any. They want to start even and take their chances. But the boy, has it come to that? Must women give men a head start or was this an exceptional boy?

WOMAN TRIES TO END LIFE AFTER BEING ARRESTED

Evelyn E. Howard, Portland, Saved After Attempt to Swallow Poison.

Portland, Oct. 5.—Evelyn E. Howard, wife of Alexander Howard, attempted to end her own life at police headquarters today following her arrest, with Howard E. Beede in a lodging house on High street. Mrs. Howard attempted to swallow bichloride of mercury tablets after being taken to headquarters and was prevented from accomplishing her intentions by the quick action of Police Officer P. J. Feary and Police Matron Mrs. E. McDonough. Two physicians, Dr. Hamel and Dr. Drake, were summoned and this afternoon Mrs. Howard recovered.

According to the story told to the police, Mrs. Howard has been living apart from her husband. Her maiden name was Evelyn Leavitt and she is a musician. When placed under arrest in the high street lodging house the police claim that Mrs. Howard asserted that she and Beede had been married in Belfast. Later, according to the police, both admitted that they had never been married.

Beede gave his age as 24 while Mrs. Howard claims to be only 21 years of age. The couple were arrested by Inspector William E. White and were arraigned in the Municipal Court Wednesday morning.

Nervous Breakdown

The extreme depression and discouragement which comes over one at times is the most alarming symptom of nervous exhaustion.

This letter is a message of hope to all who find themselves in this unfortunate condition.

Mrs. Geo. T. Tingley, Albert, N.B., writes:

"For years I was in a very nervous, run-down condition. I was much depressed in spirits and suffered a great deal at times. The least noise would irritate me and at times I felt as though I was going to lose my mind. I consulted different doctors to no effect. A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and I can truly testify today to the great benefit received. There was a marked change before I had finished the second box and when I had used a dozen boxes my nerves were thoroughly restored and I was entirely relieved of those terrible feelings I used to have. I shall ever be ready to testify to the benefits of this wonderful medicine, feeling sure that it will give to others the quick and permanent relief it has given me."

Bird Was Probable Cause of Accident

Propeller of Sadi Lecointe's Plane May Have Struck a Partridge.

Paris, October 5.—Was Sadi Lecointe's smash during the Deutsche Dela Marthe Cup race Saturday, caused by an unlucky bird which got in the way of the propeller, travelling at a speed of about 300 kilometres an hour? The question is being asked seriously in aviation circles here. This theory was suggested by the fact that the wings of the winner's aeroplane were found after the race to be covered with blood slashes and the remains of small birds, which Kirsck struck while flying. It is thought possible that Lecointe's propeller may have hit a larger bird.

He was flying very low, and game was plentiful all over the course. The propeller, turning at the rate of 1,900 revolutions per minute, striking, say, a bird, would be quite sufficient to cause it to splinter to bits.

Lecointe is reported to be doing well. He is now in a hospital, but he is not fractious, so he has escaped with a sprained wrist, ankle and a severe shock.

Kirsck, interviewed after the race, said he was feeling splendid, and when asked "whether he did not get cold feet after Lecointe's accident," replied, "no, they were burning." As a matter of fact they were blistered by the intense heat of the motor.

Recognition By U. S. Near, Mexican View

Fletcher's Statement Believed to Pave the Way for Move by Washington.

Mexico City, Oct. 5.—The statement of Under Secretary of State Fletcher, as quoted by Representative Huipich of Texas, bearing on the conditions upon which recognition may be extended to Mexico by the United States is treated conservatively by the Mexican newspapers, but the American colony in general accepts it as an opportune pronouncement, in view of the many reports current that the United States would give immediate recognition to this Government.

While Mexican Government officials have in no way put an official stamp on these rumors, a majority of the Spanish language local newspapers have announced almost daily that recognition now was a matter of a few days only. It was at first predicted that recognition would come on September 16, the nation's greatest holiday, and when this prediction proved untrue the cause was assigned to the desire of the United States to make recognition a birthday gift to Mexico. And now there are persistent reports that recognition will come in November before the conference on the limitation of armaments opens in Washington.

The Mexican Post, an English language newspaper published by the owner of El Universal, printed the following editorial: "Mexico has no worse enemies today than those Americans, no matter how highly placed they may be in financial or other planes, who hold out baseless hopes and assurances that recognition by the United States will be extended to Mexico on other bases substantially than those which have been publicly set forth by Washington, or who represent that huge loans may be obtained by Mexico for the mere asking."

Mexico's true friends can only hope that her officials do not accept these promises and statements at more than their face value, which is nil. It is impossible for Mexico now to float a foreign loan. No responsible foreign banking group will undertake to underwrite a Mexican loan before Mexico is recognized by the United States. No money will be loaned Mexico without the assent of the United States Government. No genuine serious offer to loan Mexico money has yet been advanced to the Mexican Government, or is now before it for consideration.

Celebrates Her 100th Birthday

An interesting event took place at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. S. M. Crawford, Lakeside, on Sept. 28th, when about fifty friends of Mrs. Mary M. Bull, assembled to congratulate her on her one hundredth birthday. Mrs. Bull is the widow of the late James Bull of French Village, who died in 1855, and the daughter of Isaac and Katherine Rutherford of Hampton, (now called Nauwigewauk). She was born in Hampton in the reign of George IV. In 1821, and has lived under the rule of five sovereigns, and has always been a resident of New Brunswick. She has always been a faithful helper of the church, and a kind friend to all who know her. On the afternoon of her birthday, being St. Michaelmas Day, the Rev. G. Gordon Lawrence read the Communion to her with a full Communion Service; her daughter and three granddaughters being present, using the Fair Lanes Cloth he used in France during the war. The hymn, "Jesus Christ, the Son of David," being sung. On the morning of her birthday Mrs. Bull breakfasted at seven o'clock, and at noon came from the hospital to her home, where she was met by her friends. She was seventy-two miles. As friends called both afternoon and evening, she did not retire until twelve o'clock. Mrs. Bull has seven grandchildren and twenty-one great grandchildren. Four grandchildren and eight great grandchildren being present. She recognized some of her old friends whom she has not seen for years. Dainty refreshments were served; she putting first out in the birthday cake, which was decorated with one hundred roses and birthday greetings. The evening broke up after all singing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow," "Auld Lang Syne," and "God Save the King." Mrs. Bull received many useful presents, as well as letters, cards and telegrams of congratulations. Her friends wish her health and happiness the rest of her days. Mrs. Bull hopes to be able to attend the service to celebrate the 50th anniversary of St. Paul's Church, Lakeside, on October 16th.

STATUS OF THE WOMEN OF SERBIA

The flag of Serbia, our gallant little ally, still hangs among Canadian memorials of the Great War, and Canadian women may be interested in knowing something of conditions among our Serbian sisters. "Woman's position in Serbia is in a state of transition," says the Serbian Mena, Christitch. "Work as well as men can attend the public schools," but whereas the male who passes six of the fourteen classes is regarded as being "finished," the "weaker vessel" must pass the whole fourteen to gain the same standard.

U. S. Pays Tribute To The French

Honor Medal Placed
Tomb of Unknown
by Gen. Pershing.

Paris, Oct. 5.—The United States, following the ceremony, paid its highest tribute to the French soldiers of France who died in the trenches of the Great War, by placing an Honor Medal upon the tomb of the unknown soldier in the American cemetery at Meuse-les-Vallées, near Verdun. The medal was the work of the artist known as the "Unknown Soldier." The ceremony was the most impressive expression of the American unity since the States declared war on Germany, April, 1917.

A military review, second in only to the historic victory parade following the ceremony, followed the ceremony. A picket line of American troops, representing all units comprising the American forces on the Rhine, lined the parade which was reviewed by General Pershing, General Headquarters, American Expeditionary Force, and all the staffs of France. The presence of a large body of American troops in Paris for the first time since the outbreak of enthusiasm, the thousands of Parisians who the Avenue des Champs Elysees, the Place d'Alsace, where the American soldiers were located.

Before placing the decoration on the unknown soldier's tomb, Gen. Pershing stood before it at midnight several minutes. Then he declared: "In the name of the United States of America, I place this medal upon the tomb of the unknown soldier of the American Expeditionary Force, who died in the trenches of the Great War, and as a mark of respect and admiration to you and your countrymen, I place this Honorary Medal of Honor upon your tomb."

The American headquarters from Colliens then played the solemn and The Star Spangled Banner.

Referring to the unknown soldier of France dear friend andrade, the general said: "I salute in your noble life an your tragic death—a word you have come to the world an immortal symbol of devotion to the highest ideal of mankind. Your valor and fields will ever remain an inspiration to living mothers who weep over your loss. They recall the heroism of their own sons."

"Your allied comrades remember with deep emotion how you cheered them as you fell. They praise you, the general said. Then he declared: "I salute in your noble life an your tragic death—a word you have come to the world an immortal symbol of devotion to the highest ideal of mankind. Your valor and fields will ever remain an inspiration to living mothers who weep over your loss. They recall the heroism of their own sons."

"You fought against the calamity of war, but your work will not be completed until the burdens which the people alone were unable to bear are lifted from the shoulders of all peoples. You gave your last drop of life's blood for your country, and in the glorious sacrifice of your youth, was born the hope of those you left behind. In your hearts there is malice toward none, but charity for all. It is this spirit and this alone which will establish confidence among nations."

Referring to Ambassador Herrick's speech, which was a reaffirmation of the feeling of friendship that America has for the soldiers of France who died defending their country against an unprovoked invasion," M. Baillou declared:

"I think you, Mr. Ambassador, for having said here especially that the security of France is the basis for the peace of the world."

"The sword has done its work," asserted Ambassador Herrick, "and now is now no problem for the sword. We hear whisperings of selfish greed hidden in the stolen cloak of commerce. We behold plottings, for some piece of earth which mocks the name of revolution or derides the epithet of patriotism. Our souls are weary with quibblings, with bickerings and with monstrous manoeuvres. What we need to
