

bishop must be without crime as a steward of God."

After the final absolution, the body was carried down the centre aisle preceded by the cross-bearer, Rev. Father O'Leary, the priests and bishops chanting the litany for the dead.

The pallbearers were: Rev. Fathers Keown, London; McRae, Goderich; Egan, Stratford; Sullivan, Thorold; Dollard and Whalen, Toronto.

The remains were borne to Mount Hope Cemetery, where the prayers for the dead were recited by Bishop Scollard, of North Bay.
