

careless James. "And what fitting one can I offer? If but a thousandth part of this treasure prove true, you, with your own portion, will be able to buy kings and kingdoms almost as great as mine."

Glenbucket made no specific reply but his face took on an expression of keen content which accorded well with his rubicund visage.

