To Prospective Stallion and Mare Buyers

We have at our barns the largest and finest bunch of imported approved Percheron Stallions and Mares ever brought into this country. Our stallions range in age from two-year-olds to six, and are all the large, drafty, heavy-boned type and good movers.

Our mares, of which only a few are left, range from two to five years old, and are all in foal.

As we buy for each direct from the small French farmer, we are able to sell at prices that will save any buyer from $200 to $500 on a stallion, and give more quality and breeding.

To all parties contemplating buying a stallion, we feel confident that it will be to their advantage to inspect our stock, as we sell below competition.

one point indispensable to his business He finds this man usually in some graduate of a technical school or college in which he has been trained for his life work.

"In just the same way the farmers should benefit by the advice of the technical men who have been trained in phases of the very work the farmer does.

"The rich man, who spends a fortune upon a fancy farm, with entire indifference to cost, does not do much good to farming; but, on the other hand, just as little is done by the working farmer who stolidly refuses to profit by the knowledge of the day, who treats any effort at improvement as absurd on its face, refuses to countenance what he regards as newfangled ideas and contrivances, and jeers at all 'book farming.'

DUTIES OF THE WOMEN.

"Country life should be as attractive as city life, and the country people should insist upon having their full representation when it comes to dealing with all great public questions. In other words, country folks should demand that they work on equal terms with city folks in all such matters. They should have their share in the memberships of commissions and councils; in short, of all the organized bodies for laying plans for great enterprises affecting all the people.

"The country church should be made a true social center, alive to every need of the community, standing for a broad individual outlook and development, taking the lead in work and in recreation, car ing more for conduct than for dogma, more for ethical, spiritual, practical bet terment than for merely formal piety.

"The country fair offers far greater possibilities for continuous and healthy usefulness than it at present affords. The country school should be made a vital center for economic, social and educational co-operation; it is naturally fitted to be such a center for those engaged in commercial farming, for those who live on and by the small farms they themselves own. The problem of the farm is really the problem of the family that lives on "One feature of the problem should be recognized by the farmer at once, and an effort made to deal with it. It is our duty and our business to consider the farm laborer exactly as we consider the farmer. No country life can be satisfactory when the owners of farms tend, for whatever reason, to go away to live in cities instead of working their farms, and, moreover, it cannot be really satisfactory when the labor system is so managed that there is for part of the year a demand for labor which cannot be met, and during another part of the year no demand for labor at all, so that the farmers tend to rely on migratory laborers who come out to work in the country with no permanent interest in it, and with no prospect of steady employment.

"The woman who shirks her duty as nousewife, as mother, is a contemptible creature; just as the corresponding man is a contemptible creature. But the welfare of the woman is even more important than the welfare of the man; for the mother is the real Atlas who bears aloft -d tender arms the destiny of the world.

"She deserves honor and consideration such as no man should receive. She for feits all claim to this honor and consideration if she shirks her duties. But the average American woman does not shirk them; and it is a matter of the highest obligation for us to see that they are performed under conditions which make for her welfare and happiness and for the welfare and happiness of the children she brings into the world."

The preacher's evening discourse was dry and long, and the congregation gradually melted away. The sexton tiptoed up to the pulpit and slipped a note under one corner of the Bible. It read :

"When you are through, will you please turn off the lights, lock the door, and put the key under the mat?

"What kind of a career have you mapped out for your boy, Josh?'

"I'm going to make a lawyer of him," answered Farmer Corntassel. "He's got an unconquerable fancy for tending to other folks' business, an' he might as well git paid fur it."
