Two Fatalities at Cornwall Brewery

Last Wednesday night a fatal accident occurred at the St. Lawrence Brewery, Cornwall, when Louis Chevalier lost his life. Chevalier went into the brewery some time during the evening and proceeded to the mill-room. He was alone then. Shortly after 9:30, the night watchman, while on his rounds, found the body of Chevalier near an electric switch, his thumbs being badly buried. Coroner Hamilton decided that an inquest was unnecessary. Chevalier was about 31 years of age. He is survived by his mother and two brothers in Montreal. Thursday evening, as Omer Latour, who was in the bottling works at the brewery, was explaining how the accident to Chevalier happened, he also received a shock which resulted in his instantaneous death.

Nailed Hotel Doors

The Ontario License Board was told a strange story of a hotel at Nipissing which, without seeming reason, turned out its guests and nailed its doors tight shut, save one back door to the bar.

The hotel was that of Mr. Edward O'Leary which had done a very fair trade in providing board and lodgings for workmen and accommodation for travellers, who found it a convenient stopping place at the junction point of two stage coach routes.

On October 8th, stated Mr. Richardson, the boarders and one or two tourist guests had breakfast as usual and departed for the morning. On their return at noon they found the front entrance closed and nailed. A back door was open, but every room door was nailed shut. They were not even permitted to obtain their belongings until their bills were paid up in full. The place opened to permit them to remove chattels, and closed once more.

Probably the most noteworthy fact in the many hundreds that have come to light in regard to the Red Cross and Patriotic Funds throughout the country is that Bowmanville, a town of 3,240 inhabitants, raised $21,318.80 in a two days' campaign. This averages $6.58 per head. Bowmanville had previously contributed about $3,800, representing $1.17 per head, so that the town has now given over $25,000, averaging about $7.75 per head.

New Commission Met to Organize

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—The recently created economic commission held its first meeting in Ottawa to-day, the gathering being chiefly for organization purposes. The order-in-council setting forth the object of the commission was considered and plans of procedure discussed. It was decided to make such investigations as would enable the commission as speedily as possible to become informed on questions relating to the most urgent needs of the Dominion. Statement will be invited from farmers' organizations, including stock dealers' associations, as well as from authorities on practical farming. Other organizations concerned directly with shipping and transportation interests will be called upon immediately to assist in the investigation. Later leading authorities on various development questions will be called on and a general invitation has been extended to all Canadian organizations to help in the work.

To-day's meeting was attended by Senator Loughheed, chairman; J. W. Flavelle, of Toronto; S. J. B. Roland, Montreal; E. N. Hopkins, of Moosejaw; Hon. W. B. Ross, of Middleton, N.S.; Dr. J. G. Rutherford, Calgary; William Smith, M.P., of Columbus, Ont., and W. J. Black, of Winnipeg, secretary.

The Country Weekly

The writer spent a two days' outing with the members of the Canadian Press Association recently. To come in touch with these men and to gain an insight into their motives and reasons for engaging in the work of supplying the people of Canada with their daily and weekly supply of what the world is doing, enlarges one's faith in his native land. Party politics many divide the men of the press, but nothing else will, and behind it all is a sincere devotion to duty and to their country's best interest. And in no section is this more forcibly shown than among those who edit and publish the country weeklies. For the most part these men receive little of this world's goods. They work early and late—result, the man in the country gets the news, both local and foreign, and all for the sum of one dollar. In no other business on earth is so much value given for the money, a fact that the average reader may not appreciate. The country weekly editor continues in business just the same and by so doing is making for the country's well being and prosperity. What would the small town be worth without its local paper? It would never be heard of beyond a small radius. People in towns and cities and in the country as well, sometimes forget how much they owe to the press of the day in the upbuilding of this land and in making its great resources known abroad.—Markdale Standard.

Bee-Keepers, Convention

The Ontario Bee-Keepers Association will hold their annual convention in the convention hall of the Carls-Rite Hotel, Front street, Toronto, on November 23 24 25, 1915.

Bee-keepers from all parts of Ontario will be in attendance to give and take valuable pointers concerning their management and beekeeping methods. These meetings are purely educational and the practical value of the addresses of both the beekeeper managing colonies, and the scientist investigating bee-keeping problems can not be over-estimated.

The subjects chosen for discussion are all "live" questions of the day. Frequent heavy winter losses make "wintering" one of the most difficult problems. Dr. Phillips of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, will give results of scientific investigation throwing light on this important matter. "Producing Comb and Extracted Honey" always brings lively discussions. A special feature will be the exhibit of Apiary Appliances. Members will display models of their "pet" inventions that are proving valuable labour and time saving devices. This exhibit will be greatly appreciated by the bee-keepers.

Drunken Men Are Not Wanted in Newmarket

Newmarket, Nov. 4.—Two men were convicted to-day before Magistrate Brunton of being drunk in Newmarket, which is a local option district. One got two years in the Jail Farm and the other was fined. A third man was allowed to go, it being shown that he had been taken out of a livery stable, and the Court ruled that the arrest was not legal under the circumstances.

John Palmer of Richmond Hill, while driving his auto, passed a funeral and found his way into Police Court. He was allowed to go on payment of the costs.
