A POOR BREAKFAST.

Very Few People Eat a Good Breakfats.

"All I want for breakfast is a roll and a cup of coffee"

This remark is heard not only in hotels, restaurants, and lunch rooms, but at is the usual breakfast order in the home circle as well. After a twelve hours' fast it would seem that the first meal of the day should be a hearty, substantial one, and if we all lived natural, unartificial lives, it would be so, but none of us do, hence breakfast is a mere pretence.

Says a latter day philosopher:—
"During many years of active business life, I never remember having eaten a good substantial breakfast but supposed it was of no importance until I began to lose appetite for lunch and danner.

My physician told me I was a vic-tim of nervous dyspepsia and must take rest and recreation, as no medicine would reach the trouble, but this advice I could not follow as my business affairs would not permit it, and to get relief. I resorted to medicines and perscriptions and it was purely accidental that I hit upon one remedy which did the business. While in a drug store one levening I noticed a number of people buying Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, a widely advertised preparation for stomach troubles, and the force of example was too much for me, and I bought a fifty cent package.

I took a tablet or two after each meal, and in a week, my appetite picked up, I began to feel my old ambition for work returning and I could eat a good breakfast because I wanted it, and from that time to this I take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets as regularly as I take imy meals, not because I now have any trouble with my stomach, but because I don't want to have.

A fifty cent box of Stuart's Tablets will last me a month and keep my digestion in good order and I know no better investment a business man can
