The thermometer registers 15 degrees less at the Exposition grounds than it does in the city. It was quite cold there all the time that the ticket agents were in St. Louis. Mr. Rispa wore his overcoat and required extra bedding at night. They stayed at the hotel which is located on the grounds. It is called the Inside Inn, has 2500 bed rooms and covers 15 acres. There, 6000 people can be accommodated. There were about five thousand people staying at the hotel and the service was splendid. Mr. Rispa was often in the dining room when 4000 people were being served, but he never had to wait. The ticket agents went via Grand Trunk and returned via Wabash and C. P. R. They were accompanied by the G. T. R. and Wabash officials on their respective lines. These gentlemen spared no pains in making the trip pleasant for the excursionists.

At the annual meeting of the ticket agents' organization the election of officers resulted in the re-election of Mr. E. De la Hook, London, to the position of secretary-treasurer. Mr. De la Hook's election was by acclamation and was exceedingly popular. Mr. Chas. Morgan, of the G. T. R., Hamilton, was chosen president; Mr. W. H. C. McKay, C. P. R., St. John, N. B., first vice-president; W. H. Harper, C. P. R., Chatham, second vice-president; W. Bunting, G. T. R., Peterboro, third vice-president; executive committee—Messrs. W. Maughan, C. P. R., Clinton; —Hanley, G. T. R., Kingston; W. Mellroy, C. P. R., Galt; J. Ryder, G. T. R., Toronto.

The Canadian exhibits are among the very best and the agricultural and mining exhibits are second to none. Mr. Rispa was much surprised at the excellence of Canadian display. He says that it would take six months to see all that is to be seen.

ENTIRE TRAINS ADDED

Phenomenal Enlargement of Ringling Brothers' World's Greatest Shows.

Ringling Brothers' World's Greatest Shows, which will exhibit at Chatham, Saturday, June 11th, has been enlarged upon such a broad scale of liberality as to almost preclude the depiction of its real magnitude on paper. The Ringling Brothers, always modern and progressive, have had for years the biggest and best show on earth, yet this season they have more than tripled their immense amusement enterprise by the addition of complete new trains, hundreds of horses and people, and by entire new shows. The crowning feature of these almost unlimited additions is the grand spectacular and pantomimic production of Jerusalem, and the Crusades, in which are shown twelve hundred characters magnificent costumes, fifteen carloads of special scenery and an enormous triple strength cathedral pipe organ of rare volume, power and sweetness of tone. This spectacle is shown in the largest tent ever made for a circus—a vast canvas theatre, arena and aerial enclave, brilliantly lighted by electricity. Jerusalem and the Crusades is but one of the hundreds of marvelous attractions the Ringling Brothers have gathered from all points of the compass. The monster extravaganza, a glittering pageant fully three miles in length, is alone worth the amount charged for the circus proper. It is replete with new and novel professional attractions, displaying beautifully carved and decorated floats representing every country on the globe, richly attired horsemen from every known nation, and monster herds of elephants and camels, with a division for the children, and a full hundred cages of the rarest wild animals known to zoologists. In the arena performance the Ringling Brothers introduce 375 performers, each a premier artist. Among them are the marvelous six Glissaretis, the most famous acrobats of Europe; the rasmans, from Australia; the Dollard troupe, from Germany; and the eight Colli-Clairons, from France. These celebrated artists appear in America for the first time with Ringling Brothers' World's Greatest Shows. Other gymnastic performers of international fame are the three Rios, the Fortuns Brothers, the Tybell Sisters, Genaro and Theol, the Flying Fishers and the wonderful Dacoma family. Heading the great assembly of riders are the greatest assembly of riders ever brought together are the four Bedlins, the most sensational horseback riders in the world. The equestrian acts of these renowned artists are thrillingly original and perilous, and have never been accomplished before. Other distinguished riders are Orra Davenport, the Hobsons, Rhoda Royal, Reno McGree, Lulu Davenport, Royal Agce, Madame Royal, May Davenport, Frank Snadle and John Slater. There are more than two hundred acts in the circus program, and most of the acts are exclusively novel and sensational. In the featured animal display the Ringling Brothers present three herds of huge elephant, astors, under the direction of Pearl Souder, troops of cute, little ponies in acts that never fail to please the children, Captain Webb's wonderful performing seals and cake walking and high school horses in exhibitions of the highest type of equine intelligence and marvelous new conceptions. The circus performance is given on two stages, in three rings, and on a wide quarter mile hippodrome track.

Ringling Brothers' World's Greatest Shows will exhibit here one day only, and give performances at 2 and 8 o'clock. Admission tickets and reserved numbered chairs will be sold at Ringling Brothers' downtown ticket office, Central Drug Store, circus day at exactly the same price charged in the ticket wagons on the show grounds.

ONE STEP MORE

Will be fatal to the sleep-walker. Will he draw back or will he take the final, fatal step? A great many people are in peril like the sleep-walker. They are diseased. The disease is progressing day by day. The time comes when one more step away from health is fatal. The man who has suffered from indigestion or gastric trouble goes some night to a dinner and returns home to find he has taken the last step from health which can never be taken back.

To neglect the cure of indigestion or some other form of stomach trouble is dangerous. It is also incurable. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It purifies the blood, stimulates the liver, cures biliousness, and eliminates bilious poisons from the system.

"The praise I would like to give your 'Golden Medical Discovery' I cannot utter in words of describe with pen," writes Jas. B. Ambrose, Esq. of 1205 1/2 Millin St., Huntington, Pa. "I was taken with indigestion and was indigestion. I doctored with the best around here and found no relief. I wrote you, and you advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took three bottles and I feel so good that I stopped—being cured. I have no symptoms of gastric trouble or indigestion now."

If you ask your dealer for "Golden Medical Discovery" because you have confidence in its cures, do not allow yourself to be switched off to a medicine claimed to be "just as good," but which you did not ask for and of which you know nothing.

You can get the People's Medical Adviser, 1008 pages, paper covers, free by sending 31 one-cent stamps, to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

TWO GREAT MEN.

Romantic History of Two Widely Different Types of the Makers of Canada—Papineau and Cartier.

It is strange to find two great men of such different types as Papineau and Cartier treated under one cover and by one pen. But Mr. Alfred DeCelles has woven around these two great French-Canadians a story that is at once interesting and instructive. While it is said that these powerful leaders were the reverse of one another in methods and ideas, it is yet to be noted that they met at one point in their history. Cartier, as a matter of fact, fell under the influence of Papineau, and then branched off to lead his fellow-countrymen on better lines and to a better condition.

Papineau's Agitation.

Papineau, a man of remarkable oratorical power, came to the fore in Lower Canada before the concession of responsible government had been made. He felt deeply the conditions under which the province was ruled, and devoted himself to the agitation for reform embodying complete control by the people through their representatives. Antagonized by the governing men, he was soon at issue with the Governor, and his attitude, together with that of the Administration, affected the populace deeply. It does not appear that anybody experienced any oppression or restriction personally. The masses rather felt that they were the object of political ostracism. The theory that they were deprived of the right of choice, chiefly for racial reasons, was, we may be sure, by no means calculated to reconcile them to the regime under which they lived. Papineau and his companions worked upon the sensibilities of their compatriots, and passed far beyond the limits of constitutional agitation in their efforts to bring about a change. It is impossible to read of their proceedings without remembering that Joseph Howe secured constitutional government in Nova Scotia without, as he once said, firing a shot, or even breaking a pane of glass.

The Revolt in 1837.

Agitation was accompanied by unfortunate advice. Rebellion was spoken of, and a proposal was made to memorialize the Congress of the United States to interfere. At this point many of the supporters of Papineau dropped aside. They were not prepared to pass into the perilous path which was opening up before them. But numbers of people saw the thing through, and among them was a young man—a descendant of Jacques Cartier, the discoverer of Canada—by name Georges Etienne Cartier. Cartier was a young lawyer. Although a close student of what was going on around him, he supposed that he and his compatriots were banned by the British. When he heard, as others did, that Papineau, the tribune of the people, was to be arrested for seditious language, he made to the place where the leader was to deliver his next speech. As serious work was impending, he was armed. The anticipated trouble came. The military appeared, and there was a fight. Papineau escaped, and was for years an exile. Young Cartier spent a winter in concealment, and then hastened to the United States, returning, however, when an amnesty was announced. The leader also came back later on. He was irreconcilable, and after a brief political career was supplanted by a more moderate man, Mr. Lafontaine. Papineau then went into retirement, and made his home at his beautiful seat, Montebello, on the Ottawa, dying soon after Confederation was accomplished.

Birth of Cartier.

Georges E. Cartier entered public life in 1849, representing the County of Vercheres. The times were troublous, and the sentiments of the two races towards each other were none too cordial. One of the first things the coming statesman did was to reproach the leaders of the agitation which had resulted in making him a rebel. Of Papineau he said that he should have used his great influence to give better advice to his fellow-countrymen. Then he turned his attention to the healing of the wounds. He was an early advocate of Confederation, and at the same time a valiant defender of the rights of his compatriots. Making an alliance with Sir John Macdonald, he succeeded in uniting the interests of the French and English. He was not afraid to say that he was a French-speaking Britisher. Nobody did more than did Cartier to produce harmony and to combine the two great races on the basis of mutual interest.

Honored by the Queen.

For his work in behalf of Confederation Cartier became a baronet. But there was an unfortunate incident in connection with this honor. The Confederation distinctions when distributed revealed the fact that the Upper Canadian leader, Mr. John A. Macdonald, had been created a knight, but that Cartier had been given a simple C. B. Mr. Cartier promptly declined the decoration. He had been a prime factor in the completion of the union, and the inferior distinction was a reflection upon his race and upon his work. One of the least important features of the discrimination was Sir Charles Tupper. After that Sir George Cartier was gazetted a baronet.

Death.

It is a melancholy fact that a man who stood so high and did so much should have suffered a humiliating defeat. But such was Cartier's fate. East Montreal went back upon him on a question with which he had no connection, and he passed out of Parliament, in the height of his power, never to re-enter its doors, for death shortly afterwards claimed him. Papineau created a condition that was not hopeful for peace in this country, and Cartier, who his fellow-countrymen had helped to give us a consolidated Canada.
