Is That Somebody You?

By Rev. W. H. Baker, Newark, Ohio.

Somebody says he wants to say.

Says, "We can do it if we try."

Says, "Put the ban on whiskey and gin."

We should go into the fight to win!

Is that somebody you?

Is that somebody you?

Somebody's boy is learning to drink.

Causing his parents worry (think).

Somebody's girl being led astray.

Into the places of vice, so gay.

Is that somebody you?

Is that somebody you?

Somebody's going to lend his aid

To save that young man and that young maid.

Is that somebody you?

Is that somebody you?

Somebody wants to lead the way

Against the wrong.

Fighting for victory all the day long.

Is that somebody you?

Is that somebody you?

Mother and father, hear the refrain.

Don't let this warning to you be in vain.

Someone must stand for home and the right.

Someone must lead the rest in the fight!

Is that somebody you?

Is that somebody you?

Somebody wants his colors to show.

Waiting the leader's orders to 'Go'!

Is that somebody you?

Is that somebody you?

Somebody wants his colors to show.

Waiting the leader's orders to 'Go'!

Is that somebody you?

Is that somebody you?

Somebody wants his colors to show.

Waiting the leader's orders to 'Go'!

Somebody's willing to step in between.

And make us and dry nineteen-seventeen.

Is that somebody you?

Is that somebody you?

Now we have come to the test of our worth.

Showing the world our breeding and birth.

Answering truthfully, "Now that I see,

Yes, that somebody surely is me!"

Yes, that somebody is me!

Yes, that somebody is me!

—New Republic.

Canada's Grand Old Man.

The following sketch of Nova Scotia's greatest son who has just passed away in England at the age of 96 years will be opportune and full of interest:

The Right Hon. Sir Charles Tupper, G. C. M. G., the eminent Canadian Conservative statesman, and last remaining Father of Confederation, was born at Amherst, Nova Scotia, July 2, 1821. He was educated at Horton Academy, graduated in medicine at Edinburgh University, and returning to Nova Scotia began practice in his native town, and soon reaching eminence in his profession was president of the Canadian Medical Association, 1857-73. Having the Nova Scotia legislature in 1855 as member for the Cumberland district, he identified himself with all important legislation of the period and was provincial secretary, 1855-60. While in England in 1858 or 1859 he was connected with the Intercolonial Railway, he conferred with a number of prominent statesmen regarding the project for confederating the Provinces of British North America. He was Prime Minister of Nova Scotia, 1864-67, during which period he passed the free school law, and the union of Canada. His party being defeated in the Dominion of the Commons about 1870, when he entered the cabinet as president of the council he filled the post of minister of interior, 1872-73, and minister of public works, 1873-79, and minister of railways and canals, 1879-84. He was knighted in 1879, and in 1898 was created a baronet for his services in connection with the Fisheries Treaty at Washington. He was high commissioner for Canada in London, 1894-97, and after a year as minister of finance in the Dominion Government was recalled to London as high commissioner in 1898. In January, 1898, he entered the Ottawa administration as secretary of state, and later succeeded Sir Mackenzie Bowell as prime minister of Canada. His party being defeated in June on the Manitoba School Bill, he resigned, and at the assembling of the Canadian Parliament in August following became leader of the Opposition, while Sir Wilfrid Laurier succeeded in the Premier's post. Sir Charles was a great campaigner, and a forceful and at times eloquent public speaker. Since his retirement he has resided in England.

The times have become more orderly and these peasants indulge in wholesome amusements. These people now save fifty-five per cent of their earnings, which formerly went for drink and they have increased their earning capacity through sobriety. This extra money is now devoted to the necessities and comfort of life.

This startling regeneration of the peasantry is in the opinion of the Russian authorities, likely to have an important effect on the social and economic conditions of all Russia. A change in the large cities is also noticeable. Liquor still is sold in first-class cafes, but these are practically empty. The Nevsky Prospect is now famous for its gay midnight life is now quiet, without a sign of revelry.

Visitors arriving from southern Russia say there is such a change in that region that the country is hardly recognizable. Peasants who, before the war, had fallen into hopeless indolence and depravity already have emerged into self-respecting citizens. The effect on character is already visible in neatly brushed clothes instead of the former ragged and slovenly attire. Hats which were formerly dilapidated are now kept in first class condition.
