THE CRITICAL MOMENT. There are seasons—there is pre-eminently a moment—in the moral history of every man who is favored with the faithful ministrations of the gospel, pregnant with consequences most solemnly momentous and enduring—a moment, in which their Gestiny is decided forever. Professor Pond, in his luit to train the reason of the sole sole and there are many rainy days and "odd spells" when these jobs can be done. their destiny is decided forever. Professor Pond, in his little treatise on "Probation," remarks, of awakened and convicted sinners, that "they are often brought to a point in their existence, when, by the most trivial circumstances—a mere breath of influence one way or the other—their condition is settled for eternity." Among the illustrations which he has drawn from facts, he relates the following:

According to letters from Derna, in the Regency of Tripoli, the pestilence was decreasing in viru-lence, but it had reached the city of Ogisa, four days' journey in the interior. The lazaretto at Malta has been re-organized. The public health, except in Tripoli, is satisfactory. Plague of the virulent mediæval type has laid waste the States of Barbary. It broke out first amongst a tribe of Arabs near Bengavi The binoc, but its had reached the city of Ogisa, for they are, and looking rationally say, gate one verse only:—
