Woman's Triumph.

"Tis not in mortals to command success, But we'll do more, Sempronius: we'll deserve it." The poet might have added, at the risk of sacrificing some of the nobility of the sentiment, that the one is after all one of the most practical ways of compassing the other. The women of Great Britain have at any rate found it so. When the militant suffragette smashed shop windows she did not exactly command success, except in getting herself into prison and the newspapers. She was so far successful in this latter that the matter-of-fact force of the announcement to-day that she will get the vote at last, and the quiet way in which it is being received, are eloquent of the changes wrought by the war in the spirit of the times and in men's view of them. Though, to give credit where it is due, it is not the war that has wrought this change, but woman's noble part in it. The victory has been won by the true militant that the false one put further away.

Yet it would be unjust and a mistake to say that the women of Britain are to receive this reward only because they have deserved it. That is only a triumph in theory and principle which no-one will deny them; they have scored a far greater one in sweeping away almost all the more serious and material objections that stood in the way of their demands. The war and their response have discovered in them new and unimagined powers, abilities which the arrogant male had claimed to monopolize; but the war has also disarranged the social order of things in a way which their influence will be needed to adjust. Where that influence will be felt, where it will be of effect clearly to weigh down the scales, it cannot fail to be beneficial; where it will not be so apparent it will do no harm. They have deserved their reward, and it is fitting that it should take a form which will allow them to serve the nation in peace as they have served it in war.

It is natural that prominence should be given in the messages to this the most striking of the electoral reforms that the British Government has under consideration, but it has for long had others hardly less important in hand. Proportional representation is mentioned, but it is not surprising that that almost utopian scheme is yet impracticable. The vexed question of soldiers' votes has happily been kept deferred by the general consent that it should not and will not need to be solved. The most important of the remaining features of the debate are indicated in the increasing references to such bodies as an Imperial War Cabinet and an Imperial War Council, the direct outcome, of course, of the Imperial Conference now sitting. They will give place in time to the still more momentous question of an Imperial Parliament or Council. The Empire is on the threshold of a new life; the war has killed the old one as dead as a stone. But it is plain, and just as well, that the Conference is occupied for the present with the task of killing the war itself. When that is completed, we shall see in this woman's suffrage, these Imperial bodies and other changes in the machinery of government merely the first expressions of the transformation that has been wrought in the greatest democracy of all ages, the British Empire.

Children's Country Store.

At Rossley's Theatre to-night the Children's Country Store will take place. A night to themselves when a beautiful show will be presented. Both pictures and refined vaudeville will be just as good as for a grown-up audience, and its safe to say there will be another bumper house. Plenty of lovely things of every description to be distributed, and last week the little ones had a great time. On next Monday night the grown-up people will have their night instead of Tuesday night. As there are so much goods yet to be put out and they must be all gone before Easter. As the big show will take too long. Don't let the little ones miss to-night. Parents can accompany their children if they wish. Show over at nine-thirty to allow the little ones to get home in time.

Death of Mrs Edward Mahar.

It is with regret that we record the death of Mrs. Edward Mahar, relict of the late Edward Mahar, which occurred at four o'clock this morning, after a short illness, fortified by the rites of Mother Church.

Mrs. Mahar was of a retiring disposition, devoted to the welfare of her children, and was over a friend to the needy and distressed. She was always noted for her kindness and affability, and was always held in the highest respect and esteem by her neighbours and citizens generally. She was a most exemplary and consistent Catholic, and her charity was unostentatious.

The deceased lady has left two sons and four daughters to mourn the loss of a loving mother, viz. James J., of A. Harvey & Co.'s employ; John, engineer of the steamship Eagle, now at the seal fishery; Mrs. Delbou, of Boston; Lucy, of Martin & Co.'s; Ellen, nurse at the General Hospital, and Agnes at home, as well as hosts of relatives, friends and citizens generally to deeply deplore the loss of a truly good woman.

Birch Rod Revived.

Four Boys Sentenced by Judge Morris to be Lashed for Theft.

After long and weary waiting the State has awakened to its sense of duty to try to prevent the youths of the city from becoming criminals, and the method employed is the revival of the use of the birch rod. Last evening four lads were arrested for forcing an entrance to a schooner's cabin at Monroe's wharf on Sunday night last and stealing a pair of binoculars, 7 pairs of handkerchiefs and sundry other articles. Some of the stuff was found in their possession. This morning the accused appeared before Mr. F. J. Morris and were convicted. His Honor stated that he had discovered a better way of dealing with youthful offenders than sending them to the common jail and imposed sentence as follows:—Ralph Snelgrove, aged 12, to be lashed 5 times with birch rod; Arthur Evans, aged 11, 2 lashes; Hy. Reed, aged 11, 2 lashes; Gordon Crane aged 10, 1 lash. It was ordered that the Supt. of Police secure and pay a man to inflict the punishment. Much difficulty was had to get a man to undertake the job. The lads were stripped naked and flogged early this afternoon in the corridor of the police station and then sent home.

HOW M. C. LINDOS FOUND A CURE IN DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

One of the Reasons Why Dodd's Kidney Pills Have a Phenomenal Growth of Popularity in the West. Ellscoff, Alta., Mar. 28th. (Special.) The growth of popularity of Dodd's Kidney Pills in this section of the Great West has been phenomenal. They cure kidney disease. That much has been proved again and again. One of the latest proofs comes from M. C. Lindos, well known and highly respected here.

"Thanking Dodd's Kidney Pills seems a small way of expressing my gratitude," M. C. Lindos states, "I suffered from headaches and dizziness and was unable to find anything that would do me any good. I tried several medicines that were advertised to cure my trouble, but they did not. Dodd's Kidney Pills were recommended to me by a friend and I sent for a box and gave them a trial. The result is that I am feeling fine now. I shall always keep a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills handy."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cured M. C. Lindos because the trouble came from the kidneys. Lumbago, rheumatism, dropsy, heart disease, diabetes, Bright's Disease and other troubles that come from sick kidneys. To cure them cure the kidneys with Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Children's Sunday [at the Kirk.

The children of the Kirk will meet at the school room next Sunday morning and march to the church where the service will be one specially devoted to the little ones. This movement certainly is a step in the right direction. The Rev. Mr. Dickie is the proposer of this idea and is backed by the Session and others who will do all in their power to make the boys and girls feel that we want them all to be a help in church work and to attend regularly. The help of the parents is mostly needed in this case, to see that their children come along. The present age is one where parents are finding that their boys and girls show some antipathy to attend Divine worship. Now is our chance to make good. Send your children next Sunday and once started in this direction it will gladden your hearts to see in time how enthusiastic they will be to come to the House of God. Well done, Mr. Dickie, a good movement. Keep it up and lots of success to you parents.

Dr. Tait Convicted and Fined $250.

Judge Penney handed down his judgment in the Magistrate's Court to-day in the case of the Crown vs. J. S. Tait for a violation of the Prohibition Act, giving a prescription to a man for a bottle of liquor which was used as a beverage and not for medicinal purposes, as called for under the Act. The full penalty provided by the law for such a breach is $500. In this case the defendant was fined $250.00.

Father Appeals for Son's Imprisonment

A case with touching surrounding circumstances, and in which a broken-hearted father and wayward son were concerned, occupied the attention of Judge Morris this morning in the presence of a crowded court room. It appears that the father, who is the manager of an East End establishment, reported to the police yesterday afternoon that some one had broken into his residence on Tuesday night and stolen a cash box containing $13.80. Suspicion rested on his son, who was arrested last night by Detectives Byrne and Whelan. When searched the box was found in a battered state on him and only a portion of the money was left. The father, who was put in the witness box, broke down as he testified against his son. The accused, who was 21 years of age, had been educated and given excellent chances of making good, but instead had turned out to be an ingrate and a blackguard. By his ill-doings, bad company and places of resort he had disgraced himself and helped to degrade his family; he had also made several dire threats to his father. The witness told the Judge it was no use advising his son or ordering him to keep away from the home, and appealed to His Honor to deal severely with him. Whereupon the ingrate was sentenced to one month's hard labor.

COUNCIL'S ATTENTION.—The Council should direct their attention to the cleaning of Kenna's Hill and make that thoroughfare passable, as at present country people driving to and from the city are damaging a field on the western side of the Hill.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Will you kindly allow me space to make a brief statement. This morning I received a wire from Rev. S. Bennett, of Bay Roberts, to the effect that the Colonial Secretary's Department had notified him that the son of Richard Badcock, a seaman on the s.s. Erik, had been killed in action on March 3rd.

I immediately attempted to get in touch with Capt. Parsons of the s.s. Erik through Bairds, telling the man at the phone the nature of my message. He interviewed Capt. Parsons twice and reported he received as a reply: "He was too d—nd busy."

I thought, Mr. Editor, I was communicating with a gentleman and a patriot. I must have been mistaken.

Had it been the case that his son had paid the supreme sacrifice of life, so as to enable some one else to follow the pursuit of our sealing industry, would he have been too d—nd busy?

Sincerely yours,
NORMAN M. GUY.

Obituary.

RICHARD NEYLE.

We record with regret the death of Mr. Richard Neyle, one of the very oldest and most respected citizens of St. John's. Mr. Neyle was born in Devonshire in 1828, so that he was in his 90th year. He came to this country in 1848 and established the business which has borne his name ever since. His passing will be regretted by many friends made during so long time, and not least by lovers of the rod and fly, who found at his store the only supply of their needs for many years. He lived quietly and never sought popularity, but he was prominent in church work as a member of St. Andrew's Church. He retired from active business a few years ago, being succeeded in the management by Mr. William Soper. He leaves five daughters, Mrs. Hill, Mrs. R. C. Smith, at present resident in Canada; Mrs. Edwin Murray, who is in England; Mrs. Knight and Miss Neyle, and many grandchildren, to whom the Telegram extends its sympathy.

The S. A. and the War

There was a large gathering of friends and supporters of the Salvation Army at the Grenfell Hall last night, who listened to an interesting address delivered by Col. Otway, S.A., on the work of the Salvation Army in the Great War. The lecture was illustrated with innumerable lantern slides depicting the part played by the army in the various branches of Britain's fighting forces, particularly the ambulance corps, which has supplied fifty motors for use at the front. The great movement now on foot for the building of Rest Homes was fully explained by the lecturer, one of which is to be for the comfort of our brave boys at the front. Mr. W. H. Jones moved a vote of thanks to Col. Otway, which was accorded by acclamation.

Volunteer in Court

FOR PUNCHING RIVAL.

A young printer summoned a volunteer to court to-day for assault. The defendant admitted the assault and, through his counsel, Mr. Higgins, gave as his reason that the plaintiff had been taking away his wife's affections from him. Mr. Hutchings, K.C., J. P., who presided, held that the excuse was not sufficient justification for the assault and fined the volunteer $2 or 7 days.

GOING THE PACE.

Going the pace is a pastime indulged in by young men who are trying to see who can spend the most money without finding out where it came from or how much more is left.

About the worst thing that can happen to a boy is to fall up to his ears into a wad of money that somebody else earned. When we look about us and see the men who are putting in sixteen hours a day in order to lay up money for a son who has to have the collar buttons put into his shirt by a hired man, we are inclined to doubt the wisdom of the plan of cration. Some of our colleges furnish bright and shining examples of the young sprout who can't spend his income without playing poker with total strangers and who throws away enough on wire-wheeled speed cars to feed a thousand children of the tenement district for a solid year.

The habit of going the pace is due to a surplus of easy money and a shortage of character. It is hard to keep the character in good working order when everything is wide open to the boy with a roll and a loose lower lip. The hard-headed millionaire who put his son at work in overalls, for day wages, never had to ball him out of the police court or send him to some home for feebricitants before he was thirty years old. The cabaret and the all night dance hall are not very enticing to a boy who has to earn his own board and clothes and stand up to his work ten hours a day with other men.

The cure for going the pace is poverty and hard work, with plenty of health. There are lots of worse things than being poor, and one of them is to have so much money that it is a serious problem whether to play pool or get measured for some more silk shirts. The cure of riches is not on the man who makes them, but on some squab-headed beneficiary who burns a path up and down each side of the red light district and staggers home to a broken-hearted mother morally impoverished and mentally bankrupt.

Satin slip-over blouses are chic, one of blue satin with white satin collar and cuffs is worn with a white flannel skirt.
