Their Farewell Notes Rang Mr. Reub Fax, Successful Canadian Actor, Also Grants Scribe an Audience.

People passing in the vicinity of St. Paul's Cathedral last evening paused to hear the half-plaintive, half-glad notes of the chimes in the belfry. For a moment they listened as the sounds came swelling through the dismal night, then passed on, wondering at the unusually prolonged intonations. It was the farewell message of the old chimes, and who shall smile at the verger of old St. Paul's, Mr. Lawrence Pinnell, because he lingered over the old bits of metal, reluctant to hear the last note reverberate through the belfry. It is expected that by Christmas a vastly superior set will fill their places. What a tale could these old chimes tell —what tales have they told! For nearly 50 long years have they sung the old songs that humanity still hungers for; on nearly 50 successive thanksgiving days have they voiced in glad notes the general thanksgiving; on nearly 50 Christmas eves have they sounded loud the welcome tidings, "Peace on earth, good will to men."

AN HONORED VETERAN OF THE STAGE

Interesting Interview With

vertiser Representative.

An Advertiser representative sent his card up to Mr. Reub Fax's room in the Tecumseh House at noon today, and a few minutes later was ushered into that gentleman's presence. Mr. Fax, as all those interested in theatrical matters will remember, is the clever actor who has won such praise for his work as Posty, in "The Bonnie Brier Bush," that his role ranks second in interest to that of Mr. J. H. Stoddart himself, the sturdy old actor who will tonight appear for the first time on a local stage in his rendition of a character which seems likely to go down in stage history as one of the most artistic and convincing presentations ever witnessed. The interest attaching to such an event led the scribe to seek interviews with these two representative members of the organization. Somewhat of a local touch was added to Mr. Fax's visit, by the fact that his brother, the late Sim Fax, was a well-quired of Mr. Stoddart if this was not known citizen of this city for years, and his widow and family are now resident on Hope street.

After introducing himself, the man with the pencil started in on Mr. Fax thusly: "You have played London before, Mr. Fax?"

"You have played London before, Mr. Fax?"

"Yes, once before, about eight years ago. I was here with Elsie de Wolfe and George Giddens in the popular comedy, 'Joseph.' I was known here previously, having appeared here as a comic singer, a line which I was the first in our family to adopt, being followed in it by my brothers, James and George, of Toronto, and Sim, now dead. We are Canadlans, you know. I was born in Brantford."

"How long have you been on the stage?"

"I started in 1888. Since then I have been in New Zealand, Australia, Honolulu, and in every city in America. I have been fourteen times across the continent."

"In what productions and parts have you appeared, Mr. Fax?" asked the interviewer.

"In a wide range of parts," answered the interviewed. "I was eight years"

"I have had a pleasant, happy career," "I have had a pleasant, happy career," "I have had a pleasant, happy career," earth, good will to men."

They ushered in a new century, did those old chimes, with their buoyant, I was born in Brantford."

'In a wide range of parts," answer-Do you wonder that the verger lingered carressingly over the sounds that will never be heard again?

For the old chimes are to be replaced by more modern and more expensive ones. In the new chimes, which will arrive from New York before the end of the interviewed. "I was eight years with the Palmer Stock Company, playing in 'Jim, the Penman,' 'Alabama,' 'Saints and Sinners,' 'The Pharisee,' 'A Pair of Spectacles,' and Palmer's many other productions. During that time I was constantly associated with Mr. I have been across. America thirteen was constantly associated with Mr. I have been across. America thirteen was constantly associated with Mr. I have been across. of the week, there are no fewer than 141 changes, besides many very famililege to call my best friend. Then, I H. Stoddart, whom I esteem it a privilege to call my best friend. Then, I was the original Svengali in the production of 'Trilby' in Australia. Later, I was for two years with William Gillette, playing the associate detective in 'Sherlock Holmes.' I was also Gillette's understudy, and have played the part when he was ill. I had a letter from him last week and he is doing magnificent business in Old London."

"Is it true, as announced, that the part of Lachlan Campbell is your farewell to the stage?"

"You may say," answered Mr. Stoddart, 'that if 'The Bonnie Brier Bush,' in which I find my role a congenial one, has a successful run for say three seasons, I will not take any new part, but will not take any new part. But will not take any new part, but will not ake any new part, but will not ake any new part taken. "That is the extent of your experience, Mr. Fax?"

"Well, I managed two theaters on Broadway, and I also toured with ry own company in a piece called 'That Man." said the actor, "and I have had other experiences, not always successful ones," he added.

"It's a bad life for a man and no life for a woman," answered Mr. Fax. "Talent counts for little if opportunity is denied. Not one in twenty who go on the stage ever succeed. Why, there are thousands of players out of work in New York—as good, capable people as are on the stage, but there is no room for them. There are twenty applicants for every vacancy. I myself have been exceptionally fortunate, and have never wanted for an engagement, but that does not alter my opinion of the crowded state of the profession. Now, come and meet Mr. Stoddart."

The reporter was conducted to Mr. Stoddart's apartment, finding him in Tort and happiness. I am almost alone now as a representative of the New York, stage as I knew it first. J. H. Wallack, Lester Wallack, Laura Keene and all the others are gone now."

Mr. Stoddart spoke appreciatively of the manner in which he had always been treated by the press men of New York, and spoke amusedly of some interviews which they had had with him. He deplored the pressent condition of things on the stage, which allows actors and actresses, after making a success of one or two parts, to go out as stars, when in the mere rudiments of their art. "It was not so in the old days," said Mr. Stoddart."

The reporter was conducted to Mr. Stoddart's apartment, finding him in Stoddart's apartment, finding him in company with his daughter, who ac-companies him on his tour. Miss Stod-dart was transacting some correspondence, while the sturdy old actor was resting. His rugged face, which will require little making-up to counterfeit the presentment of Lachlan Campbell on the bill-boards, lighted up genially as the newspaper man entered. The inquired of Mr. Stoddart if this was not his first visit to this city.

"It is," replied Mr. Stoddart. "My whole Canadian experience, in fact, has been limited. Eight years ago I played a week in Toronto with the Palmer Stock Company, that being my only appearance there until last week's engagement. Then, just after coming from England in 1854, and joining Wallack's company in New York, we used to play the season of ten parts.

"I have often been urged by my friends," said the veteran player, "to follow the example of Joseph Jefferson and others of my old friends, and go out as a star. They said I'd make more money. Well, perhaps I would; but I've had my little farm near New York; I've had my mife and my directed children and my circle of deap. ones," he added.
"What is your opinion of the stage as friends, and I think that what they've cub.

"The public and press have been quite appreciative of "The Bonnie Brier Bush,' have they not?" asked the reporter, as he prepared to take his leave.

"Yes," said Mr. Stoddart, "and as it becomes better known it will be more and more successful. It is a fine production. You will be there tonight, I hope?" Mr. Stoddart asked.

"I wouldn't miss it," said the interviewer, as he bade Mr. Stoddart farewell and left, feeling it a privilege to have Watch Carefully Its Effect on You.

Any brain worker who depends on thought for his success in life, uses up daily, by brain work, a varying amount of the delicate particles of potash and albumen, of which the brain and nerve centers are composed. This breaking down of the little cells each day, from brain work, is a natural process, and the cells can readily be rebuilt from the right sort of food, if the system is not interfered with by drugs. If brain fag or nervous prostration sets in, the evidence is plain that nature is not rebuilding as fast as work is tearing down. There is some reason. What is it? Look first to the coffee cup, for coffee is known to interfere with and prevent the proper nourishment of the nerves in highly organized people. Frequently the trouble first shows in dyspepsia, lack of power of the bowels to operate properly or palpitation of the heart or some other lack of vitality and healthy vigor. Then comes brain fag and that tremendous collapse called nervous prostration. There is but one thing for a sensible man or woman to do, -quit coffee absolutely. "Hard to do," you say. Take up Postum Food Coffee, use it regularly, have it well made, so it tastes good. You will find a well-defined, unmistakable change in your health, and there

You will have become free from the breaking down force of coffee, and, on the other hand, you will be taking a powerful, nourishing liquid food which quickly rebuilds the new cells. These are facts, - profound facts, ready for any one to prove to their own satisfaction by actual use. Postum Food Coffee is made at the famous pure food factories of the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich., and is used by brain workers all over the world. Don't call it a "substitute" for coffee; leave out the coffee proposition altogether. Postum is a liquid food and a true food drink.
