The C. P. R. has arranged for another of those family reunions which it inaugurated some time ago, and which will be held in Winnipeg from the 17th to the 20th inst., with a delegation which will number from 200 to 250, representing all departments of the great system in every corner of the Dominion.

The departments represented will include operating, mechanical, freight, passenger, steamships, sleeping and dining cars, stores, telegraphs, fuel, car service, etc.

To this official family gathering the officers of the company, from all parts of the compass, are now turning, and from the East yesterday between 50 and 75 officers took train for Winnipeg.

The object is to stimulate and energize all concerned, so that, efficient as may have been the work in each department, that efficiency may be made more pronounced, through fresh inspirations derived from the meeting together of the men who are responsible, under supreme direction, for the success of the vast organism in all its features and departments. Papers will be read on subjects relating to each of the departments. Free discussions will follow; finally, resolutions will be formulated and carried, based upon the tenor of the discussions, and these, subject to the supreme authority, will be enforced in practice. One great purpose is to get the officials together in a large family circle. This contact has great value. It has a stimulating and provocative effect, but, apart from this, it is desirable that the members of the great family should know one another at close grips, as it were. That being established, it is comparatively easy to get at the industrial and general thought. These are crystallized in the papers and discussions. The results of past family councils have been of the utmost value according to the testimony of the higher officials. This forthcoming meeting will be the most representative of any yet held, as all departments of the vast system will be represented.

MERCHANT SHIP ARMED DOESN'T CHANGE CHARACTER

American Crew Who Refused to Sail Sentenced as Deserters.

[Canadian Press.]
Montreal, July 28.—The fact that a merchant ship is armed with a gun for defensive purposes does not change her character so that men engaged as merchant ship engineers can refuse to sail on her, Judge Lest decided today in the case of Frank Smith, Joseph Gentry, Edward Cook, Fred Rudd and Charles Lawfield, New York, who were charged with deserting their ship. The men were seized in New York by engineers, and when they reached Montreal found the ship they were to sail on was armed. They refused to board her and were arrested. The men were sentenced to ten days each in jail.

CENTRAL STATES SWELTER; MANY DEATHS AT CHICAGO

[Canadian Press.]
Chicago, July 28.—Illinois and neighboring states found no relief today from the unusual heat waves and there is a probability that the records of 100 degrees yesterday might be broken. In Chicago the downtown street thermometer early this morning stood at 89 degrees, higher by several degrees than the maximum of the night before. Deaths, directly due to the heat, numbered 17 for the 24 hours ending at 6 o'clock this morning, according to reports received at the central police station. More than two score prostrations were reported.

ITALIANS ARE GAINING IN DOLOMITES REGION

[Canadian Press.]
Rome, July 28.—3:55 p.m.—Additional ground has been gained by the Italians in the Dolomites region, the war office announced today. After hard fighting with the Austrian defenders of Monte Colibion the Italians extended their positions. Austrian attacks in force on Italian positions in various sectors further to the west were repulsed.

SPORTS SHIRTS AND DUCKS ON STAY-AT-HOME WARRIORS IN EVIDENCE AT GRAND BEND NOW

Some Youths Still Find Call of the Summer Resort Drowns Out the Bugle Call—Racy Sketch of Vacation Life.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
GRAND BEND, July 28.—"No sir-ee-ee, not until we can hear the railway trains a-rumblin' in Thedford will there be rain."
"And that's a sure sign!"
"Never known to fail in well-nigh twenty years now."

Thus quoth the village star-gazer and weather-tester. His reputation is hard-pressed just now, and his prestige in the barber shop debates and the sugar barrel arguments has gone down several points. For hath he not twisted the links in his long hair several times over the sighing of the east wind, and has he not noticed the sun several times crawling into the lake behind great clouds that spelled rain and thunder? But the rain has not come, and there is consternation, not only with the gardeners and farmers, but with the human element that dwells as a short place up the road from the Brenner House.

Optimists All.
The cottagers at Grand Bend are optimistic. They all have a good time. Even when the supply of vegetables runs out, when the ice melts and the ice man draweth not nigh, they persist that they are having a good time. That is probably the secret of their having a good time at any summer resort, viz., to resolve before you go that after you have come back you have had a whale of a time. To make the outing a complete success this belief must be adhered to in the same fashion that lures stick to the tail piece of a thin donkey.

An Object Lesson.
The average summer cottage is a conclusive argument that the business of furnishing houses in the city has been overworked to a frazzle. These summer mansions are famous especially for the things that they do not contain. And here again is where the feminine brand of optimism comes in, for here we find a woman who is used to making angel cake over an electric cooker, or to browning beans in a jardiniere over a spirit lamp, out here sputtering over wood-burning stoves that are of voting age when the Tory thumpers were first shouting about the National Policy. It beats all how one large dish can serve as a bathtub for the baby, dishpan, receptacle for the family supply of fish, and medium for connecting with the little red cart when the elusive butcher blows his horn on the premises. The dishes, wine the sweepstake in the general utility class.

They Still Exist.
One might have cherished the delusion that nearly all the young men of military age had marched off in khaki this year, or last. But nay, nay; they exist still. They wear the uniform all right, but it is the uniform of the white ducks and that peculiar raincoat that travels and exists under the sub-head of an outing shirt. Yes, yes; there must be a certain number of this brand left to infest the summer resorts. They must loiter around the beaches, crack the jokes for the young ladies, put on a twenty dollar front on the strength of alibi proof. Some of those suffering from the most acute stages persist in twanging plaintive noises out of a mandolin. The summer residents as a general thing are tolerant, and so far there have been no casualties. These mandolin operators and these white duckers are not enlisting though. Tut, tut, they are killing men in this war, and although they are brave, like an honorary colonel, still the call of the summer resort is so loud that the toot of the bugle never gets a chance to penetrate their thick lungs.

The Bathers.
Of bathing suits, one sees at the Bend the whole "57 varieties." Some of the garments were fashioned into bathing suits right off the web; others grew that way, while others again started to grow, but quit decolette at the ends. Then, again, there is the conventional suit, the one-piece suit, the one-piece suit for the men. And be it known that this one-piece suit refuses to perish. It has been annihilated in reform clubs, it has been cut, drawn and quartered by the funny column men in the newspapers, and it has been lassoed and gullitimed more times than the dowager empress of China, and it has been sick high unto death as many times as the emperor of Austria. But, hurrah, it lives! It lives! It is a horrible example of the survival of the fittest.

The Elegantisimo.
Then there are those bathing suits that were never intended to go into the water. Should they go into the water they would get wet, and that is not the intention. True it is that the wearers take them down high into the water, but like the haughty leper who was told to dip himself in the river Jordan, they do it not. One might be inclined to reach over and purloin a bit of inspiration from the psalmist and sing of the lilies, "they toll not, neither do they spin," and of some of these elegantissimo beach garments it can be said "they toll not, neither do they swim."

Speaking of Fish.
In every collection of men, particularly when they are away from the restraining ties of home and person, and where the church bell dingledly not there are those who can recite mighty tales of fish and fishing tackle. But few there be around the Bend who can go out and give a practical demonstration that there are still any fish living in the woods around here. The wise old chap who has been putting in his summer at the Bend, and who in the past fifteen years simply smiles when the question of a fish dinner is mentioned around his bungalow. He saunters quietly down to the fish house after the nets have been lifted. There is a jingling of silver, and he departs with first-class evidence of the fact that he knows where to catch the fish. Other Benders there be, though, who will take great poles, large cans full of wiggle worms, and enormous baskets, and sit at the end of the pier for hours at a time. They can be certain that they are breathing in hunks of ozone that no person else has used before them that day at any rate. But the fish house has been closed for some time, and any place else backed off the map around here as a certain and reliable fishing ground.

PHONE GIRLS BRAVE IN ZEPP RAIDS AND RIOTING

[Canadian Press.]

London, July 28.—Telephone girls' bravery during zeppelin raids and the Irish rebellion which they helped to quell, featured the annual report of the postoffice department, in conjunction with which the telephone system in this country is operated by the Government.

"When the zeppelin raids have been anticipated, sometimes when they have been going on," says the report, "the women have come out of their homes to their work, even when bombs were dropping. They have played an important part in the scheme of air-raid warnings, and have set a good example to the whole country."

In Dublin, when the bullets were flying and the fires were raging, the women stuck to their work in the exchange, and it was due to them that communication was kept up and that we were able to obtain the military forces which suppressed the rebellion.

More than 25,000 women have replaced men in positions in the postoffice department and telephone system, the report further shows. Out of 30,000 men of military age in these departments, 5,000 have joined the colors, and 21,000 have attested and only await the call to arms.

NOW CHANGE OF POLICY BY RUSS CABINET CHANGE

Foreign Policy of Petrograd Will Remain as Under Sazonoff.

[Canadian Press.]

London, July 28.—The correspondent of the Daily Chronicle at Petrograd telegraphs:

The ministerial changes are still the subject of most animated discussion. Sazonoff continues to receive from all sides telegrams expressing admiration of his character and services. Notes are being sent to him from the president of Zemstvo union, Prince Lvoff, and from the city council of Moscow. It is understood that positive assurances have been given that there will be no changes in foreign policy.

Considerable sensation has been caused by the arrest, on a charge of unscrupulous speculation, of several financiers, among whom is a notorious figure named Dmitri Rubinstein, director of several banks.

It is reported that a council of physicians who examined Former War Minister Sukhomlinoff, now under arrest, declared he was on the brink of mental collapse.

BRAVE FRENCH GIRL IS HONORED BY THE BRITISH

[Canadian Press.]

Paris, July 28.—At a special ceremony in the British embassy here today, Emilienne Moreau, "the heroine of Loos," aged 18, was presented by Ambassador Bertie with the British medal for bravery on the field of battle, and at the personal request of General Sir Douglas Haig, commander-in-chief of the British forces in France, with the Order of St. John of Jerusalem.

Miss Moreau already has the French war cross.

The decorations are in recognition of the girl's conduct during the fighting at Loos, when she refused shelter in a cave, and for 24 hours tended the wounded under fire.

[Canadian Press.]

London, July 28.—The Morning Post says:

"From time to time some inkling is gained as to the views of businessmen with regard to the duration of the war by the scale of war risks effected at Lloyd's."

"Yesterday a policy for £5,000 to be paid if the war is not over by the end of June next year was put up for public auction, with the result that the risk was ultimately reached, at which level, however, the policy was withdrawn."
