SEALERS' IMPLEMENTS.

It will be remembered that last year an agreement was entered into by Great Britain and the United States under which sealing schooners for Behring sea were allowed to pass through the waters in which sealing was prohibited during the close sea-son, conditional on their arms and imple-ments being sealed up. This was to enable them to enter the sea at the earliest pos-sible moment after the close seaten had ended, and to render it more difficult for the vessels to offend against the provisions of the sealing regulations. This year the British authorities have refused to enter into the same convention, as is shown by the following telegram from

METHODIST MISSIONS.

METHODIST MISSIONS. At the missionary anniversary of the Methodist conference on Thursday evening Rev. P. C. L. Harris, in a telling address on Domestic Missions, pointed out that the trials and perplexities of the domestic mis-sionary were often far greater than those in the foreign field. How, he asked, was a young man to live without getting sufficient salary?
