A BIG FUTURE FOR TRUST COMPANIES.

It is only three years since the management of trusts in Canada has been undertaken by a corporate company. Previous to that time trusts of every nature were placed in the hands of private individuals. Twelve years' experience with corporate trustees has brought to light the many superior advantages they possess over individual trustees. A company that makes it its special business to look after estates, to administer wills, to invest trust moneys and the like is a great deal more competent to attend to such matters than is the ordinary individual. The company also ought to be able to administer these affairs more cheaply, handling as it does so many of them. A corporate trust company has this valuable feature, that it never dies or gets sick, or is disabled through any circumstances, from attending to business. When the individual trustee dies the estate that he is managing is liable to get a severe wrench, much to the disadvantage of those concerned in the estate. In the case of a corporation individual officers disappear from the scene from time to time, but in an institution that has many shareholders and officers the changes in the personnel that are bound to occur from time to time do not in any way interfere with the company's affairs. This continuity of action is one of the causes that has tended to the large development of the business of the Canadian Trust Companies. Another advantage that the corporate trustee possesses over the individual is the security of the trust property. The company, as a rule, is composed of stockholders who are liable on their shares, and a reserve fund is set apart to add further security for the faithful discharge of matters entrusted to the company. These are among the reasons that account for the recent expansion of the business of trust companies, not only in Canada, but throughout the world.

AN OBJECT LESSON IN PROTECTION.

The output from Canadian paper mills will be much larger this year than ever. Many of the mills are introducing improved machinery. Prices generally are low on account of this increased competition, but profits are nearly as broad as before. Disastrous fires in previous years, but a sort of understanding among the manufacturers has prevented this festive increase in the paper trade and kindred industries. In Canada during the past 12 or 14 years, in 1879 the greatest moderate protective tariff was adopted, with the specific object of encouraging home industries. The cause of 1881 was no criterion of the benefits which had accrued from the protective tariff had been adopted at that recent date to show any appreciable increase in the different branches of industry.

The decennial enumeration of 1881, however, tells the paper industry in the actual number of paper mills in Canada is concerned the increase is not very great, although the paper material has advanced. In 1881 there were 36 of these establishments, and in 1891 37. The capital invested in the former year was $2,287,950, the number of hands employed 1520, the wages paid $444,766, the total value of raw material $1,409,427, and the total value of products $2,446,698. According to the last census the capital invested in paper mills in Canada had increased to $5,297,207, more than double what it was ten years before. The paper mill (American).

The globe of course will be sorry to learn that the paper industry in Canada has developed so extensively by reason of the National Policy. According to The Globe's idea of political economy, Canada would have been more prosperous to-day without this increased development in the paper business than with it. Canada would have been and would be more prosperous if it bought its paper from England or United States manufacturers instead of from Canadian producers. The price of paper in Canada is very little above the level of the price elsewhere. Few articles of commerce have fallen in price as paper has within 10 or 15 years. The material in the daily papers of not many years ago used to cost from 6 to 8 cents a pound. Now it sells at 3 and 4 cents. Canada has in abundance the raw material from which paper is made. With a larger market she could beat the world in this industry. While we are shut out of the United States and other countries by adverse tariffs, it is satisfactory to realize that we have had the good sense to retain our own market at any rate for our own people. The Globe theory is that Canada should abandon paper making if it is found to be a fact that the Americans can produce and sell paper for, say, half a cent less per pound than we can. If we pursue this argument to its logical conclusion we will arrive at many theoretical absurdities. On the same theory the farmer would never make for himself a saw-horse or a wagon-box, because if he reckoned his time as worth that of the ordinary laborer or mechanic, he would find his saw-horse and wagon-box costing him perhaps 50 per cent higher than the factory-made article. On the same theory the Canadian farmer should be advised not to grow wheat, because the people of Argentina or of Russia can produce it at less cost. The true theory is for Canada and every other country to do whatever their hands find to do. Let each country endeavor to find employment for its people, the same as a parent seeks employment for his children. It is surely an absurd proposition to say that Canada should make paper because the Americans can produce it half a cent a pound cheaper. This comparison of our prices with those of other countries is a theoretical illusion. The object we should have in view is the affording of employment for our people. If the conditions of paper manufacture in Canada are such that we cannot pay the workmen engaged in it $12 a week, then let us give them $11 or even $10, no matter what they get in other countries. It is better that men should find work at small wages than that they should go without employment altogether.

"WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH THE TOWN?"

To-day another correspondent writes a letter to The World enquiring "What's the matter with the town?" It is admitted on all sides that Toronto is not only not progressing, but that her citizens are making no united effort to extend her industries. A few years ago it looked as if Toronto was an octopus that was destined to absorb the trade and industries of the provincial towns. To-day the tables seem to be turned. The provincial cities are both holding their own and creating new enterprises. As our correspondent points out, such towns as Cornwall, Galt, St. Catharines, Collingwood and other places are attracting new industries, while Toronto is stationary. If, indeed, the city is not losing ground, self-interest ought to force our wealthy citizens into a united action of some kind for attracting new industries. As long as our population remains stationary there will be no market for the vacant land that abounds within and adjacent to the city. With no market in prospect for this property it becomes practically worthless, of little value, except for market garden purposes. With so many citizens interested in property of this kind it is strange to find so much indifference to the city's progress. A good deal of talk goes on about one thing and another, and when it comes to such questions as the running of the blameworthy street cars on Sunday, half the town gets into a turmoil, and works itself into a white heat in opposition to the project. But when a proposition is made to introduce a new enterprise into the city, or to extend the city's influence by the building of a new railway, or anything of a like nature, no enthusiasm whatever is manifested. Every such project dies (and is buried almost before its birth is announced). That is the most serious feature about the situation in Toronto to-day. We are making no effort to better our conditions. The Mayor's announcement yesterday in regard to the payment of the first instalment of taxes shows that the town is not so very hard up. There is no lack of capital that might be employed to set enterprises going. The only thing wanted to ensure a return of prosperity is enthusiasm and united action on the part of our influential citizens and business men. It would be a good thing for Toronto if the clamor that is raised for and against Sunday cars were directed towards the building of the Toronto and Hudson Bay Railway, or some such enterprise. That project seems to have promising things in store for Toronto. We do not see how we could fail to benefit by being put in railway communication with this district, and the great inland sea to the north of us. With Hudson Bay accessible in 15 hours from Toronto the aspect of affairs in Ontario would be materially changed for the better. The fisheries alone that await development would probably of themselves warrant the building of the railway. We have promise of coal deposits and minerals of different kinds. If Toronto to-day possessed a George Laidlaw it would not be long before the first and wonderful protective tariff was adopted, with the specific object of encouraging home industries. The cause of 1881 was no criterion of the benefits which had accrued from the protective tariff had been adopted at that recent date to show any appreciable increase in the different branches of industry.

THE JUDGE'S STORY.

Hon. John M. Rice Tells How He Was Cured of Sciatic Rheumatism—Crippled For Six Years.

The Hon. John M. Rice, of Louisiana, Lawrence County, Kentucky, has for many years served his native country in the Legislature at Frankfort and Washington, and until his retirement was a political figure in politics and judicial circles. A few days ago a Kentucky Post reporter called upon Judge Rice, who was lying in bed, and related the history of the causes that led to his retirement. It is just about six years since that he had an attack of rheumatism, which began first with acute shooting pains in the hip, gradually extending downward to my feet. My condition became so bad that I eventually lost all power of my legs, and then the liver, kidneys and bladder, and in fact my whole system, became deranged. I tried the treatment of many physicians, but received no lasting benefit. I was not much benefited by some months' stay there, when I returned again I returned home, this time feeling no hopes of recovery. The muscles of my limbs were now reduced by atrophy to mere strings. Sciatic pains tortured me terribly, but it was the disordered condition of my liver that was I felt gradually winning my life away. Doctors gave me up, all kinds of remedies had been tried without success. There was nothing more for me to do but resign myself to fate.

I lingered in this condition, sustained almost entirely by stimulants until April, 1893. One day I saw an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. This was something new, and as one more drug after so many others could do no harm, I was prevailed upon to try the Pink Pills. The effect of the pills was marvellous, and I could soon feel heartily that I had not done for years. The liver began to perform its functions, and has done so ever since. Without doubt the pills saved my life, and with I do not crave notoriety, I cannot refuse to testify to their worth.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post-paid on receipt of price (50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50), by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N.Y.

Bear This In Mind.

That there will be a big rush for The Toronto Sunday World to-night. It will be a splendidly interesting paper, containing all the latest news, sporting, theatrical, home and foreign, as well as many special features, of which the following are a few:

- Society at the summer resorts, and general society news and gossip.
- The Women of the Abbey, illustrated.
- The woman who drinks valuable hints for lady lovers of the horse.
- Women plungers at Brighton Beach.
- The works of Helen, Lady Dufferin.
- Caricatures of ericket.
- Obsolete drinks, beverages our forefathers used to indulge in.
- Horse news and notes, by Pop.
- Hurdles and steeplechases.
- George DuMaurier's great work.
- A page of fashion, illustrated.
- Theatrical news and notes.
- From Day to Day, by The Captions One.
- Column of verse.
- Monsignor Stoll's decree, and the Protestant Church.
- Here is that marvelous results come from the use of South American Nerve Tonic. Starting from the established scientific fact that the life and healthiness of every part and organ of the body has its origin in the nerve centres, which are located in the base of the brain, this great discovery, South American Nerve Tonic, acts at once upon the nerve centres, and had butted all former methods and efforts.

Language cannot be too strong or positive when used in setting forth the merits of this remarkable scientific remedy. It has cured many of the most desperate cases of indigestion and nervous diseases in the Dominion.

WORK STARTS AT THE FOUNDATION.

Does Not Give Temporary Relief, But is an Assured System Builder—Indigestion and All Nervous Disorders Lastingly Cured—Mr. W. F. Bolger of Renfrew, Ont., Cured By South American Nerve Tonic When Everything Else Had Failed.

Many of the remedies now administered are simply opiates. They are a stimulant for the time being. They give temporary strength, possibly, but are not system-builders. The constitution that has become run down through trouble, overwork, disease, or from whatever cause, cannot be built up again except where the system of building up is begun at the foundation.

Here is that marvelous results come from the use of South American Nerve Tonic. Starting from the established scientific fact that the life and healthiness of every part and organ of the body has its origin in the nerve centres, which are located in the base of the brain, this great discovery, South American Nerve Tonic, acts at once upon the nerve centres, and had butted all former methods and efforts.

THE WARDENSHIP.

Why it is desirable that Mr. Stephen's Successor Should Be Chosen.

Disaffection has been expressed some quarters that the County Council has been called to meet for the election of a warden before the village of Toronto has elected a warden.

There should be no dissatisfaction

this account," said a prominent member of the County Council yesterday. "As the County Council has had as much time to elect a warden as the County

Council has had in which to elect a warden

as soon as possible, and so soon

County Clerk Eakin was made aware

Warden Stephenson's assignment, he to the proper steps to comply with the statutes. The whole question, he

the County Council will meet

Tuesday next at 1.30 to elect a warden

and the right of the presiding officer

East Toronto village, Mr. John Richson, to sit as a member of the County Council is of much less importance than that the county should have a warden.

It is impossible for even genius to describe this wonderful it is still impossible to a man like me to express to Mr. Mackenzie how tremendously gratefully we all thank him for the opportunity he has afforded us today

view the indescribable scenery of

Niagara River and Falls and surroundings under circumstances so favorable to be simply unparalleled. It is not much to say that it is only from the

on his unique railway that it is possible

can be seen in all its beauty, majesty and power. I will have to ask Mr. Mackenzie to imagine one thing if he

He can give full reins to his imagination and he will not even then imagine he can convey to him in words.

Mr. Mackenzie made a suitable representation in well-chosen words,

giving a full and complete account of the railway meeting at the Falls
