to God's standard in this relation; but because they do not is the reason why there is so much sin and misery in the world to-day.

Young people, as they approach the time of their own home-building, are but seldom given a perfect knowledge of the divine laws governing the use of the marriage relation, consequently many of them marry with the determination of not experiencing parenthood, not realizing the sin they are thus committing against God and humanity. Children should be taught that they are children, that they may become men and women, and that they may wear the benedictions of marriage, thus becoming partners with God in His plan of creation for the perpetuation, the upbuilding and betterment of the human race. Fortunes and lives are being expended in the endeavor to perfect the racers in our stables, the plant life in our conservatories, and it would be difficult to find in our country to-day a 12-year-old boy who could not tell something of the laws governing stock-raising; but the appalling fact remains that there is probably a theologian or a criminal, a scientist or a fool, notwithstanding the fact that these are questions largely decided for men before they ever see the light of day.

One writer truthfully puts it: 'It is a terrible thing to take a human life, but how much more terrible to thrust a human life into this world unendowed with its birthright of being well born.'

No restlessness or discontent can change your lot. Others may have other circumstances surrounding them, but here are yours. You had better make up your mind to accept what you cannot alter. You can live a beautiful life in the midst of your present circumstances.—J. R. Miller, D.D.
