Morse Power .- A gentleman in Scotland has trained a couple of mice, and invented machinery for enabling them to spin cotton yarn. The work is done on the treadmill principle. It is so constructed that the common house-mouse is enabled to make atonement to society for past offences by twisting and recling from 100 to 120 threads per day. To complete this the little pedestrian has to run 101 miles. This journey it performs every day with ease. An ordinary mouse weighs only half an ounce. A halfpenny's worth of oatmeal at 1s. 3d. per peck serves one of these treadmill culprits for the long period of five weeks. In that time it makes 110 threads per day, being an average of 3.850 threads of 25 inches, which is nearly nine lengths of the ree! A penny is pand to women for every cut in the ordinary way. At this rate a mouse earns 9d. every five weeks, which is one farthing per day, or 7s 6d. per annum. Take 6d. off for board, and 1s. for machinery, there will arise 6s. clear profit from every mouse yearly. The mouse-employer is going to make application for the lease of an old empty house, the dimensions of which were 100 by 50 feet, and 50 feet in height, which, at a moderate calculation, will hold ten thousand mouse-mills, sufficient room being left, for keepers and some hundreds of spectators. Allowing £200 for rent and taskmasters, £10,000 to erect machinery, and £500 for the interest, there will be left a balance of £2,300 per annum. reeling from 100 to 120 threads per day. To combe left a balance of £2,300 per annum.
