

each month, besides the Chronicle. The January article is on the stamps of Colombia.

The December number of Stanley Gibbons' Monthly Journal has a fuller table of contents even than usual. An article on the surcharges of the Zanzibar stamps (French office) is illustrated with full plates. A new department, Notes and Queries, promises to be a valuable feature.

The Stamp Reporter is a bright paper. It improves with every issue.

An excellent paper in every way is the Virginia Philatelist. Its contents have been above the average from the start five months ago, and in typographical appearance it beats them all.

One of the few philatelic journals that collectors find almost indispensable is the Weekly Philatelic Era. In No. 243 Mr. E. L. Smiley writes trenchantly against the high prices of stamps in the standard catalogue and his points are well made.

In this month's review we have made mention of almost all our exchanges. We cannot afford the space to do this every month, but in the course of each quarter at least we shall try to notice them all.

The second edition of the Ontario Philatelic Directory shows considerable improvement. It is a little book that both collectors and dealers will find very useful.

A very useful little manual is Stewart's Guide to the Color of Postage Stamps. The first part consists of an alphabetical list of colors, and under each color are grouped several common stamps to be found in almost every collection. The second part consists of a small album containing a space for one stamp of each color. This album can easily be filled, and the color guide is complete. We would suggest as an improvement that in future editions of this unique and handy work the alphabetical arrangement be sufficiently departed from to bring all the related colors together.
