CATARRH.

A New Home Treatment for the Cute L Catarrh, Catarrhal Deatness, and May Pever.

The microscope has proved that these discases are contacious, and that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the upper air passages and custachian tubes. The eminent scientists—Tyndall, Hurley and Beale—endorse this, and these authorities cannot be disputed. The regular method of treating these diseases is to apply an irritant remody workly and even daily, thus keeping the folicate membrane in a constant state of arrication, accompanied by violent succing formying it no chance to heal and as a natural consequence of such treatment not one peringular oute has assessed and the property of the triather and as a natural content by an application made oftener than once in two works for the membrane must get a chance to heal before any application is repeated. It is now seven years since Mr. Dixon discovered the parasite in catarrh and formulated his new treatment, and since then his remody has become a household word in every country where the English language is spoken. Cures effected by him even years ago are cures still, there having been no return of the disease. So high are these remodies valued, and so great is the demand for them, that ignorant imitators have started up overywhere, pretending to destroy a parasito—of which they know nothing—by remedies the results of the application of which they are equally ignorant. Mr. Dixon's remedy is applied only once in two weeks, and from one to three applications effect a permanent cure in the mest aggravated cases. N.B.—For catarrhal troubles peculiar to females this remedy is a specific. Mr. Dixon sends a pamphlet describing his new treatment on the receipt of ten conts in stamps. The address is A. H. Dixon & Son, 303 king Street West, Toronto, Causals.—Scientific American.

Sufferers from catarrhul troubles should carefully read the above.
