GRATES.—The exorbitant price of wood, and the difficulty of getting it when the reads are bad, have induced many persent on use coal. Messra. Stewart & Co., Macanb-street, have made an excellent form of grate, after the old country fashion, admirably calculated for comfort and convenience. The price is very reasonable, and we recommend all who are inclined to occonomize in feel, to call and see them.—Jour. & Express.

STRENGTH OF THE CONSERVATIVES.—It is uscless quete from every paper. The aggregate of our information is, that the Ministerial cause is strongly supported all over Caosata West; so, that even if there he no increase in the Lower Province, they can reckon on a very sufficient majority in the new House.—Bransford Courier.

CATLANTIC STRANERS.—The winter arrangements for the mails between British North America and Great British ove as follows: There will be a fortnightly conveyance of the mails, by the Council steamers, between Liverpool and Halifax dering the current winter. City of Mexico, Oct. 3, 1847. An earthquake! we have had an earthquake! Between the hours of 7 and 8 yesterially morning, and when all nature was hushed in a "stillness most 'profound, suddenly the earth branch gan to rock with a strange and most fearful motion. I am gan to rock with a strange and most fearful motion. I am living at the house of Pensy Pens, the brad quarters of Gen. Worth, immediately in frost of the besutful alameda, and the first intimation we had of the dread convulsion was the violent of the decad convention was the violent of the decad convention of the feath of the decad convention Worth, immediately in front of the beautiful alameda, and the first intimation we had of the dread convulsion was the violent alamming of the doors, speediated by a farious jugling of the glass pendants attached to a chandleir banging and awinging from the ceiling of the room. Soon our bed commenced rocking, something after the manner of a ship becamed at the close of a storm, and then came the shrinks of innumerable women and children, crives, had dressed, affrighted into the streets.—
The dreaded dreador, as the Mexicane call, it, was upon us.—
The dreaded dreador, as the Mexicane call, it, was upon us.—
Most strange and impressive was the scene disclosed from the front windows, as creling and staggering we approached and opened them. To walk steady was impossible, so violent were the upheavings and oscillations of the mighty earth. The tops of the large trees in the alamed were respenying, the water in the reservoirs was billowing to and fro, the walls around us were creaking and gaping assunder, the wide street in front was crowded with women and children as well as men, screaming and crossing themselves in the extremetry of their fright, while and crossing themselves in the extremetry of their fright, while so were creaking and sweeters as the strange commotion. The sentished and awe stricken at the strange commotion. The sentished and awe stricken at the strange commotion. The sentished and awe stricken at the strange commotion. An officer in the street about to mount his horse at the commencement of the commotion, suddenly found the animal receding from him. But if the streets and open ways presented a spectacle most impressive, doubly awful was the effect produced among the wounded men in the different hospitals. Unconscious of the wounded men in the different hospitals. Unconscious of the cause of the strange commotion, filled with apprehensions which cause of the strange commotion, filled with apprehensions which ever attack with ten fold force the disabled and the infirm, and

PARTICULARS OF THE WRECK OF THE STEPHEN WHITNEY. We are grieved to announce that the splendid New-Tock packet ship Stephen Whitney, Captain Popham, was totally wrecked off Cape Clear, on the night of the 10th November, and that 91 souls perished in the melancholy catastrophe, among whom is the Captain. The subject, although a mountful one, and one calculated to cause immentation and weeping in many of the familian of our American feiends will be nerused with and one calculated to cause immentation and weeping in many of the families of our American friends, will be perused with great avidite. We have, therefore, collected from the serveral accounts of the disaster which have reached un, the following details. First in importance is the protest drawn up, by the mate of the vessel, for presentation to the owners, which hriefly and fully marrates the particulars of the painful event:

"On the 8th of October post, the ship Stephen Wikitmey left the port of New-York, bound for Liverpool. Nothing material occurred on the passage, until Wednerday the 10th day of November, on which day, on or about two o'clock in the afternoon, the ship was hove to, and soundings were had in fifty fathoms." The weather was particularly thick, and the wind blowing very hard. The ship was under double reefed topsails. At 5 o'clock, p. m., the wind increasing, the sails were close reefed; at 8 o'clock, p.m., made the land very close to the ship. After clearing off from the land, saw a fixed white light, which, on consulting with the Captain, 1 took for the light on the Old Head of Kinssle; hauled off the ship on the starburd tack, heading south-east by south, at nine o'clock. Considering we had sufficient effort of the ship on the starburd tack, beading south-east by south, at nine o'clock. Con-sidering we had sufficient offing, steered the channel owners. sidering we had sufficient offing, steered the channel course, east by south, and at a quarter to ten the land was made ahead, the helm was put a port, and on coming round, owing to the heavy sea then running, the ship went ashore. In a few minutes, out of 110 human beings, passengers and crew, 91 perished, among whom were the captain and the second mate. The persons who were saved lost all their property and were left nearly naked. Every exertion was made, but owing to the wild cliff on which the vessel struck, and the darkness of the night, it was impossible to make any effort to save any part of the ship or cargo."

The French Stramers.—We have had several of these Steamships in this port, whither they have come per force of circumstances, to partiake of the benefits of our situation as a house of call between Europe and the United States. They were good booking vessels to the eye as regards strength and planks together, nor a single article of any description that could afford the means of escape to either passenger or sailor. Unlike the greater number of those disastrous occurrences, where a respite of even a few hours affords the unhappy sufferers some means or probability of escape, the victims on this occasion were instantly burried into eternity, without a mo-

The general impression here from these circumstances, was that these vessels were a dead loss to the Company. We find some further information with regard to them in the latest New York; papers. A meeting of French citizens had been held at Delmonico's hotel, New York; to investigate the complaints of mismanagement. It transpired that these steam ere were formerly men of wer, which had been given to the Company by the French government for the pappose of the excompany by the French government for the inside the Cape. The two families who reside upon the Islam were totally ignorant of the melanchuly circumstance, until the distressed and worn-out mariners entered their wretched cabin for the purpose of craving shelter for the night."

The same writer adds—
"It may be proper to mention here, that the point on which the ill-fated vessel was driven ashore, is one of the most dan LOWER PROVINCES.—The Legislature of Nova Scotia is the height of over fifty feet, and at all seasons of the year the swell is terrific. On the day after the wreck occurred, the Government vessel Badger passed through the channel for the purpose of ascertaining whether it was possible to save any portion of the wreck or cargo; but the alightest portion by which she could be recognised, was nowhere to be seen. In the words of one of the officers, it appeared as if the ship had been ground in a mill, or as if a number of carpenters were curross af chipping her into employed for months for the mere purpose af chipping her int fragments of some three or four feet in length."
