coast, to commence a voyage, not so much of ecclesiastical visitation and superintendance as of discovery. The fine Bay of Fortean was made and safely entered about 5 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, and Mr. Ellis met the ship in his oat with a very friendly greeting. In this Bay are four large fishing establishments,—three connected with Jersey and one with St. John's besides five resident families. A Store was quickly offered and prepared for Sunday service and in the morning (July 30th) there was 150 persons, chiefly men, and nearly as many in the afternoon. None

He could not remember the head man's name; but the Archdeacon had kindly left behind a Testament and Prayer Book, in which he had written his own name and title, and the names of the children he baptized. It may be a grafification to that indefatigable pioneer of the Church to learn that the Bishop read a chapter to the poor man and his family from the Testament thus presented seventeen years ago. The whole family, it is feared, are in a deplorable state of ignorance. It did not appear that the Archdeacon had visited any other settlement on the Labrador.

uncontrollable, great fears were entertained for the safety this interesting young lady.

At this moment a scene of indiscribable terror and confusion resented itself. The roaring of the terrified beasts, the scream f women and children, and the "peltings of the pitiless storm, without rendered the scene truly appalling. The panic, how-ever, was but momentary, as the prompt and energetic measures taken by the managers soon cleared the wreck, no person having received the slightest injury.

But the most intensely interesting incident remains to be told. The uproar among the lions, tigers and leopards in the performing cage, gave rise to a report that they were devouring Miss Adeline. In the next instant the canvass was stripped from the cage when a tableaux presented itself such as would be a such test to portray with accuracy. from the cage when a tableaux presented itself such as would defy either poet, painter, or sculptor to portray with accuracy. In the centre of the den a young and beautiful lion, (the same recently presented to Gen. Cass by the Emperor of Morocco,) in a rampant position, formed the strong feature of the picture; beneath one of his hind feet lay the dead body of a leopard, and struggling within the invincible grasp of the fore paws were the tiger and surviving leopard. In the opposite end of the cage, transfixed as a statue of marble, with dauntless eye and majestic attitude, the same as when she commands the wild beasts to crouch at her feet, stood the Lion Queen, Miss Adelina.

The young lady states that the two leopards and the tiger made a simultaneous spring for her at the moment the canvass was blown down, and were repulsed by the noble gallantry of the lion, who bounded between them and protected her in the manner described. The presence of the keeper, Mr. Pierce, soon reduced the savage group to subjection, and the Lion Queen was happily relieved from a farther participation in this extra performance.—N. Y. True Sun.

Toronto, May, 1848. CURE YOUR COUGHS. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry has cured an obstinate and distressing cough, attended with pain in the side and breast, which I had contracted while running a boat on the James River and Kanawha Canal, which business I had to quit on account of my becoming too weak and unfit of discharge my duty as a Captain, and during the winter it grew worse. I procured two bottles of Wistar's Balsam, and I believe it has relieved me. I can therefore recommend it to all those afflicted in a similar manner.
