With all these things in mind, the directors have decided to make the closing day one unusually cosmopolitan in interest. If never before, the grounds today will display a veritable feast of attractions. Young Toronton all his might will again surge thru the gates from morn till eve, but his possession will not be disputed. To carry out the idea of athletic day, the management have corralled a host of Canadian 'and American celebrities, and the coutests before the grand stand are expected to stand out with distinction from any recent years. atand are expected to stand out with distinction from any recent years.

The weather which prevailed yesterday when the stock-breeders were in assembly at the grounds, was of a most delightful variety. A slight autumn breeze relieved the heat of the sun and drew visitors in abundance. The parade of prize animals was an inspiring spectacle, and when word of its appearing was carried about, the multitude of lesser attractions lost their audiences for the time being. It was in some senses a happy choice of the directors in asking Hon. Duncan Marshall, minister of agriculchoice of the directors in asking Hon. Duncan Marshall, minister of agriculture for Alberta to voice the opinions of the west on the live stock situation in the Dominion. To many of those who listened to his remarks it was a novelty to learn that there was an increasing demand as well as an abundant supply in the prairie provinces. What they wanted badly, and in ever growing quantities, was well-bred

"I regard live stock as the backbone and foundation of all good farming," declared Mr. Marshall, who comes from a typically grain belt. "The talking in the west has shifted from the growing of grain and wheat into the gospel of live stock. The criticism that the farmer is not asking enough of this class of farm product will be shattered very soon. The fact is that he requires two or three good crops before he can afford to increase his stock. An example of the excellence he desires is seen in the success of one of our exhibitors who has carried off some good prizes here this year. We rejoice in their success,"

Mr. Marshall went on to say that he had felt two years ago that there was some danger of the Exhibition authorilies tending to emphasize the industrial against the agricultural. This year a splendid crop of excellent quality would be harvested and the farmer from the west would come east and buy good cattle for his range.

The speaker claimed that the men who came from the farm constituted the leading class of citizens. There

This was gradually coming home to the farmers of his district, The decline in price of town lots/was not an unmixed evil. Some became millionaires in an afternoon, but many more had not and wished themselves back on the farm.

The next address was from Sir Augustus Fitz-George, and he good-humoredly poked fun at the strong daims of the western minister. There were good things about the stock business; it helped both Britain and Canada and encouraged the breeding of first-class animals. But industry and mining also had good points. He was now going up north to see if some money of his in a mine was waiting for him or not. Sir Augustus, who is a cousin of King George, was at the Exhibition several years ago and he congratulated the directors on the improvements since that time.

BERLIN, Sept. 5.—Great sensations are promised in the coming trial for usury and swindling of Countess Elizabeth Von Treuberg, the daughter of a poor tailor, who acquired her title by marrying a retired naval lieutenant, Count Ernest Von Treuberg, and gained notoriety thru the luxurious life she was able to lead, it is said, by means of her financial operating in acting as agent and broker between money lenders and people in high stations.

At one time she was active in obtaining money for Princess Louise of Belgium, who is being pursued by a swarm of debt collectors from four countries. When Princess Louise was asked to leave a certain Berlin hotel in 1909, after running up a biil of many thousand dollars, she went to an even

That Probe Will Go

BRANTFORD, Sept. 5.—(Special.)—Mayor Hartman has called a rigid investigation here into the collapse of the Marlboro Methodist Church, whereby the lives of a dozen workmen were imperilled and two men were seriously injured. The architect, L. H. Taylor, stated today that he had only drawn sketch plans, and they had not been followed. Rafters and supports stipulated in the building permit were, it is stated, missing in the actual construction of the building. The affair promises to stir up lively trouble in municipal circles, as it is openly asserted that the local building inspection has not been all that has been required in this city.

The injured men in the wreck are today reported to be doing well, and will recover.

GUELPH, Sept. 5.—(Special.)—City Engineer McCallum, Assistant Engineer Malcolmson, and Secretary Brennan of the works commission, Hamilton, came here today for the special purpose of making an examination of the gravel pit owned by Mr. McCannell on the Waterloo road. They found that the gravel just suited their purpose, one of the engineers stating it was the best he had seen in their search for gravel for the city's use.

A meeting of the board of commissioners at Hamilton will be held in a day or two when the matter will be decided.

Should the City of Hamilton acquire this gravel pit it is understood they will instal a stone crusher, have a railroad switch run into it and give employment to a large number of men.

Fifteen Lines of Hose in Play Soon After Alarm.

of the C.P.R. tracks, near North Yongs street, were completely demolished by fire which broke out about nine o'clock last evening. The damage to the buildings, as nearly as could be learned last night, is approximately $3000, and to contents $2000. How much of this loss is covered by insurance is yet unknown.

A passerby, noticing a small blaze and smoke, was the first to turn in the alarm, and, altho inside of a few minutes reels from four stations were on the scene, the fire had made good headway on the framework of the buildings. About fifteen lines of hose played on the flames, which a stiff breeze from the east caused to roar up fifty feet in the air. Practically none of the building could be saved. The scene of the fire was particularly difficult of access, the firemen having to connect up the hose from Cottingham street hydrants, and drag it over the tracks and under a standing freight train. More than one man had a nasty spill down the steep embankment on the side of the wire fence dividing Cottingham street from the tracks.

Harry Ellis' ambulance was summoned for some person reported to have been injured by falling timbers, but when it arrived the ambulance men were told he had been driven away in a buggy. The fire halis have no report of any of their men being injured, nor do the police know anything about it.
